Big Win For Johnson Predicted

Barry Goldwater Predicts Coats At Figures

NEW YORK (AP)—A nationwide survey of presidential polls in the United States, local, state and national, shows them pointing unanimously to a victory for President Johnson in Tuesday's election.

The figures indicated that Johnson's percentage of the popular vote may approximate the record high set in this century. Associated Press bureaus throughout the U.S. reported latest figures in surveys taken in their areas.

None of those listed indicated a survey taken in Arizona, Senator Barry Goldwater's home state, showed the republican candidate leading.

Goldwater has consistently scooped the polls. He said Friday night: "I've had a feeling for the last two or three weeks that the race is going to win this. I know the polls don't agree with me, but they never have."

Record highs in the presidential elections of this century were set by Barry Goldwater, Democrat, 69.8 per cent of the popular vote in 1956.

Warren G. Harding, Republican, 49.4, in 1920.

WEATHER
Cloudy with a few snowflurries; north-westerly winds 25. Low-high 32 and 40.

Goldwater's view of his prospects in Tuesday's balloting in one neighborhood, he had feared the final of his campaign against President Johnson.

Goldwater, it was learned, thinks he will win California's 50 electoral votes, hopes the Republican ticket will surprise pollsters who forecast a lopsided loss in New York and thinks the same thing could happen in Michigan.

He argued the Republican ticket can be counted out only in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Hawaii and Alaska. These states have 33 electoral votes. Johnson has 270 to put a man in the White House.

Fewer Women Run In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Politicians aren't sure if it's fate or fading interest that's causing a decline in the number of women running for the U.S. Congress nowadays.

Only 21 candidates are on the Nov. 3 ballot in 15 states—the lowest number of women applicants for congress in years.

After reaching a peak of 20 women in the 8th Congress, there's been a drop in feminine representation at the Capitol, down to levels of the early 1940s.

And, it all comes at a time when President Johnson has been trying to increase the role of women in government.

Political experts don't think the forthcoming election will change the declining pattern. They think the women will be lucky to elect one or two newcomers from among the 11 Democrats, eight Republicans, one Liberal and one Conservative who are candidates for Congress.

A beautiful Sunday afternoon brought smiles just as bright from Atlantic Winter Fair people here, and Fair vice-president, Alex Lamond, estimated 20,000 to 25,000 people would pass through the rapidly cycling turnstiles before the night shows were over.

Today will be a busy day for Islanders with Allison Stewart and sons, Brian and Ralph, showing approximately 50 sheep. Lincoln Boswell and his father, Almon, will have three dozen or more. Wilfrid Stewart is also fitting sheep for the show which will run through the day. Judge is Harold Keller, Fredericton, N.B.

Goldwater Hopeful In All But Five States

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Senator Barry Goldwater is conceding five states in his quest for the White House, but he figures the Republican ticket stands a chance in all the rest.

Lengthy Flag Debate Entrenched By 2 Pps

TORONTO (CP)—A Progressive Conservative and a New Democratic Party member on the Commons Saturday defended the idea of any proposed new flag debate in Parliament.

Mr. Fairweather, who was not in Parliament for the new eruption of the flag issue last week, said the "Change" strongly that no flag design is more important than the institution of Parliament.

AIRCRAFT LOSS HEAVY

BIEN HOA, Viet Nam (AP)—A Communist guerrilla mortar unit slipped away apparently unscathed Sunday with one of the Viet Cong's biggest psychological victories of the Vietnamese war—the pounding of a score of U.S. Air Force B-57 jet bombers sent here after the Gulf of Tonkin crisis.

The attack, described by one American as "Halloween in hell" with all weapons flying killed four Americans and wounded 21. Two Vietnamese were killed and five wounded.

Three battalions of Viet Cong marines and army troops set out on dawn in pursuit of the Viet Cong guerrillas in made no contact and found no evidence they suffered major casualties, if any at all.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. military commander in South Viet Nam, said 27 aircraft in all were destroyed or damaged in the 30-minute, midnight attack.

A fifth American was killed a few hours after the attack in another mortar assault about 200 miles north of the air base. But U.S. and Vietnamese officials doubted this attack was carried out by the same force that pummeled the air base.

Four air-sea rescue helicopter units rounded up 108 downed pilots. The Vietnamese pilot escaped.

Officials said the Viet Cong lobbed about 100 shells into the air base with deadly aim, for the shells landed in tight patterns around the jet personnel.

Seven buildings were damaged. The Viet Cong also destroyed a base, 380 miles northeast of Saigon, and at Saigon airport.

Officials reported security tightened around other Viet Cong installations in South Viet Nam. They expressed fears of similar attacks on Viet Cong base, 380 miles northeast of Saigon, and at Saigon airport.
