Deaf and Dumb From Infancy, at Eighteen is Learning to Talk.

NEW YORK, June 21.—If ever there was a happy man that one is George Waas of No. 536 East One Hundred and Fifty-fourth street. His pretty daughter Esther, deaf and dumb nearly all her lifetime, can hear again, thanks to a wonderful operation which has restored to her speech and hearing. But she must learn everything as a baby, though she is eighteen years old.

At the age of three months, Esther was afflicted with scarlet fever. When the disease left her baby frame the little one was stone deaf. Though perfect, her organs of speech were useless.

"We tried everything," said Mr. Waas yesterday, "but it was no use, and we were resigned to having her deaf and dumb all her life. She learned the deaf and dumb alphabet and so did we, that we might converse. She wept often over her affliction but tried to be brave. She knew she could speak; it was only her deafness that made her dumb."

Recently a successful operation was performed. Though she is intelligent and an adept at reading and conversation in the sign language, Miss Waas must begin as a babe. She hears perfectly, but the sounds are mostly unintelligible to her. But she is improving fast and every day shows greater improvement.

Twice a week a teacher comes to her. All she does is to teach the girl language and the names of objects. Esther hears everything plainly, but she is still like a little child with her weak halting and imperfect vocabulary.

Still she is learning rapidly and can absorb in a day three times as much as children that have to begin at the bottom of the ladder and work up. Her progress is wonderful, and in a few weeks she will know how to converse perfectly and hear everything that is said to her. All that is necessary is to point out an object to her, give it its name and she can repeat it.

She rejoices over her new power. Deaf and dumb for all her life, she now has a pair of ears as keen as anybody's. She is intelligent pretty and cultivated.

AN EXCELLENT PUBLICATION

There is an aggressive, fresh vigor in the June number of "The National Magazine," which periodical presents a double frontispiece of exquisite photographs of President and Mrs. McKinley, with their autographs attached. The autograph of Mrs. McKinley for the first time appears on a printed page, and it is curious to note how much alike President McKinley and his wife were to their names.

Joe Mitchell Chapple's gossip of "What's What and Who's Who at Washington" gives an insight into the daily life of senators, representatives and lesser lights, and a very interesting and instructive exposition of census methods and results.

In the "Reconstruction of South Africa" an ex-United States Consul at Pretoria writes of the past, present and future of the Transvaal. One is reminded that there are other gold fields besides those of the Rand when reading about "Seattle and the Nome Rush."

"In the Haunt of Daniel Webster," by Maitland Leroy Osborne, has an especial timeliness because of the contemplated conversion of a portion of his old home at Marshfield, Mass., into a Webster Park. "The National Magazine's" special representative, now in the Transvaal, writes interestingly of his experiences on the journey in "On the German Boat for South Africa." "What the Public does not see at a Circus" is described by a knight of the sawdust ring, and "The Race Question of To-day" receives attention from an ex-governor of a southern state. In "Let's Talk It Over," the editor, Joe Mitchell Chapple, takes issue with certain editorial utterances of Mr. Bok on the subject of the proper age at which young men should marry.

By way of fiction the "National Magazine" has three charming stories, unexcelled by any of the current magazines, several poems of more than ordinary merit, and a touch of humor in "Twixt smiles and Tears." In the way of illustration it is a wonderful example of what a ten cent magazine can offer in artistic perfection at the present day. If your dealer's supply is exhausted send direct to the publication at 91 Bedford St., Boston, Mass.

PASSED THROUGH COMMITTEE

LONDON, June 21.—The Australian commonwealth bill has passed through the committee stage today. The compromise of the Secretary of state for the colonies, Joseph Chamberlain, on the appeal clause, as finally adopted, secures the same powers and rights of appeal to the Privy Council as exists for Canada with the exception that no appeal shall be permitted from a decision of the high court upon questions regarding the limits of the constitutional powers of the commonwealth or of the separate states, unless the high court certifies that the question ought to be determined by the Privy Council.

A Good Stomach.

Is essential to health and happiness, but don't blame the stomach for biliousness. It is deranged, and causes poisonous bile to remain in the blood causing indigestion, headache and irregular action of the bowels. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills regulate the liver, kidneys and bowels and by their direct action on these organs effect prompt and lasting cures of biliousness, dyspepsia, headache and all kidney ailments. EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION.

The third convention of the Dominion Educational Association was held in Halifax in August, 1898. Its report has recently been issued from the press. In it are the minutes of the proceedings, the addresses delivered and papers read, in all a volume of over 450 pages. The departments of the Association are:—

1, School Inspection; 2, Manual and Training Schools; 3, Elementary Schools, including Kindergarten; 4, Higher Education; 5, Industrial Education; 6, Art Education; 7, Music Education. The report follows this arrangement in publishing the papers. The wide scope of the Association's work is evident when it embraces such inquiries as "Nature and Literature," "The Parent and the School," "The Value of Poetry for Children," "Evolution and Education," "Manual Training: its aims and methods," "The Teaching of History," "Denominationalism in Education" and "The Development of Character." All the papers are written by able scholars and are full of careful thought. There are over twenty-five such, ranging from the simplest subjects to the most important. The book will form a valuable addition to any library.

A copy of the report can be obtained from the Secretary, Mr. A. Mackay, Halifax, for fifty cents.

OBITUARY.

Oblivion's shade had scarcely begun to brighten on the brow of the parishioners of East Point, ere that dread fiend pneumonia, once more, has launched them on the sea of grief and claimed for its own the mortal remains of our mutual friend, Allan McDonald, Lakeville. In the death of Allan, we have lost one who, by his zeal for the welfare of his neighbors, his readiness to assist those in sickness and distress, his kind attention to the poor and needy and his generous hospitality and loving kindness at home had won the universal respect of all who knew him. Notwithstanding every available effort and assiduous care to overcome the dire disease, he succumbed on Tuesday, May 29th, in his 68th year. He was attended in his last moments by his beloved pastor, and surrounded by his grief-stricken family, his sisters and brother and many friends, he breathed his last so peacefully that one might truly say: "O Death, where is thy sting?" But—

"Death has his rigorous laws, unparalleled, unfeeling;
All prayers to him are vain.
Cruel, he stops his ears, and deaf to our appealing,
He leaves us to complain."

The funeral procession which formed on Tuesday morning was unusually large and wended its solemn way to St. Columba Church where a Requiem Mass was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. A. J. McIntyre; thence to the graveyard where the sad rites ended and all that was mortal of poor Allan was gently left to rest. Let us be consoled by the thought that when the trumpet sounds the final summons, we will all be united in endless bliss; for "To murmur against death in petulant defiance
Is never for the best.
To will what God doth will; that is the only science
Which gives us rest."

Granville Echoes.

Cropping is about finished with the exception of the late turnips, and judging from present appearances we are destined to have an abundant harvest.

Granville is doing its share toward supplying Stanley Bridge cheese factory with milk, and our milk drawers, Messrs Gunn and Dunning, are giving splendid satisfaction.

Our school, which has been conducted during the past year by Mr. Joseph Harding, will close on the 29th inst. We are sorry to say that Mr. Harding has resigned his position and intends going out of the profession.

It has been rumored that the members of the Early Stream Division, No 200, S. O. T., intend holding a picnic some time about the first of July.

The author of "Snap Shots from New London" in the Patriot of 5th inst, must have been viewing the roads and bridges through the spectacles of his bosom friend, the noted Henry J. Pineau; in fact they appear so much alike that we might exclaim, "Par nobile fratrum." We would advise our friend, who by his language has clearly revealed himself, to discard his Pineau specs and give us a true picture of the uselessness and unpopularity of the present administration.

The Liberal Association of the Granville poll has had its second meeting so 'tis said, and the faithful two composed the crew. While waiting in the dusk at the hall door for the arrival of a few of the hangers-on one of them was heard to joyfully exclaim, as he spied something moving down the road: "Here comes two more." But on the object's approach it proved to be one of the village cows on her way to water and in his disappointment the captain abandoned the ship, discharged the crew and when last seen was slowly wending his way toward one of the neighboring hill-tops, no doubt to consult the muses as to the fate of the Pineau Government.
