Opposition Full Of Fight On House Opening Eve

Livelier Than Year Ago, Liberal Leader Declares

By ALAN DONNELLY Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons opposition parties, professing themselves full of ginger and fight, are ready to move to the attack on the Progressive Conservative government in the new parliamentary session.

Opposition Leader Pearson said Wednesday there is "vigor and enthusiasm" in the 49-member Liberal group — "much livelier than they were a year ago."

Both Mr. Pearson and Hazen Argue, House leader of the eight-man CCF group, indicated their main points of attack will be government handling of the problems of inflation, recession and unemployment.

Mr. Pearson has called government policies "uncertain and inept" and Mr. Argue says the government has "bungled" the country into financial crisis.

GOVERNMENT REPLIES

The government has already made its reply to this, stating the economy is recovering and that prospects are brilliant. The administration is supported by a whopping 208-member majority in the 265-seat Commons.

Infighting starts Monday with speeches by party leaders following two days of session-opening formalities starting today at 2:30 p.m. EST when Governor-General Massey comes to Parliament to read the speech from the throne.

The session, likely to last until early summer, could be the liveliest since the Progressive Conservatives came to power on a minority mandate in the election June 10, 1957.

The abbreviated session following that election was featured by a marked opposition unwillingness to force the government into another election. And when Parliament met again last spring following the Conservatives' landslide election victory of March 31, the shaken Liberals held their criticisms mainly on a moderate note.

HEARTENED BY WIN

But a byelection victory Dec. 15 gave the Liberals new heart when Paul Hellyer, former cabinet minister, captured Toronto Trinity from the Conservatives. That offset their loss of Montmagny-Islet in Quebec to Conservative Louis Fortin in a Sept. 29 byelection.

In two other byelections since the last session ended Sept. 6, government candidates retained the ridings of Springfield, Man., and Grenville-Dundas, Ont. The Commons gained its third woman member when Mrs. Jean Casselman won the Grenville-Dundas seat held by her husband, Clair Casselman, before his death last May 10.

Party standing in the Commons now is Progressive Conservatives 208; Liberals 49; CCF 8.

An innovation has been prepared for the Commons, with simultaneous interpretation of both English and French speeches into the other official language. Eight interpreters will work in shifts on the tough job of interpreting the sometimes hectic cross-fire of words in the bilingual chamber. Tiny earphones for members have been tied in with the sound amplification system installed several years ago.

ECONOMIC MEASURES

Today's speech from the throne an outline of government legislative plans for the session, will contain some general comments about the economic situation.

It may also announce some specific economic measures which could include a $350,000,000 increase in the fund available to boost housing construction. A similar increase last year raised housing activity to record levels, but the fund held by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation is expected to be depleted this spring.

The government's main economic moves won't be made until Finance Minister Fleming brings down his budget in about three months.

Criticism will be aimed at last December's 17-per-cent railway freight rate increase, especially by Maritimes and western MPs whose areas claim such across-the-board rate increases are discriminatory. Last month Works Minister Green, then acting prime minister, said a "proposal" would be put before Parliament to alleviate freight rate discrimination.

Halifax Brewery Strike Settled

HALIFAX (CP)—A 22-week strike of 150 Halifax brewery workers ended Wednesday with the signing of a contract that provides pay increases totalling 37 cents an hour over a three-year period.

Representatives of Oland and Son Limited and A. Keith and Son Limited reached agreement with Local 361 of the United Brewery and Distillery Workers (CLC) after negotiations presided over by Byron D. Anthony, assistant industrial relations director for the provincial labor department.

'Shocking Case' Is Reported In Death Of St. John's Baby

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The death of a three-month-old boy, attributed to a "shocking case" of advanced malnutrition by a hospital superintendent, is being investigated by the Newfoundland welfare department.

Three other children—including a twin of the boy—and the mother are in hospital being treated for malnutrition. The mother also has an undisclosed illness.

Neighbors described the family as "skeletons." The father is a house painter and the family, including eight children, lived in two rooms behind a store.

US Senate Committee Supports Dulles On The Berlin Question

WASHINGTON (CP)—Secretary of State Dulles Wednesday won from the Senate foreign relations committee support for his insistence that the West be allowed to keep troops in Berlin and have free access to the city. Dulles conferred later with West German Ambassador Wilhelm Grewe and Herbert Dittmann, director of political affairs in the Bonn foreign ministry.

REAFFIRMS POLICY

On leaving Dulles' office, Grewe read to reporters a statement saying:

The secretary reaffirmed that it is the policy of the U.S. government to seek reunification of Germany through free elections. As the secretary said yesterday at his press conference, there are various theoretically possible methods but reunification of Germany by free elections is the natural method and the formula agreed to at the summit conference in 1955.

The state department press officer, Lincoln White, issued a statement saying the United States regards free elections as "the best and most logical method of achieving a true and workable reunification of Germany."

White said that Dulles, in speaking of possible alternatives Tuesday, did not mean to endorse any of the proposals on Germany's future which Russia has so far advanced.

Dulles also told the senators in a prepared statement that the United States must be prepared to face up to perhaps generations of self-sacrifice and self-discipline to counter the economic and military growth of communism.

The committee, beginning a new study of world problems, informally approved a resolution expressing its sentiments after a closed-door discussion with the secretary.

Dulles said the dangers ahead may be "even harder than we have become used to."

The primary threat to peace,

Dulles said, is the rapid economic and industrial growth of Communist China and the Soviet bloc through forced labor. In the long run, Communist rulers would encounter increasing difficulties from peoples balking against dictatorial rule.

At the same time, there was a movement toward independence and freedom, especially in Africa. "Our aid and investment must continue to support the efforts of the leaders of the developing nations to sustain their peoples' confidence that economic progress can be attained in freedom."

The state department press officer, Lincoln White, issued a statement saying the United States regards free elections as "the best and most logical method of achieving a true and workable reunification of Germany."

The smog swirled so thick in Preston, northern England, during the night that a health department machine for measuring smoke and sulphur dioxide was unable to record it.

In snow-choked northeastern Scotland, a snowplow was unable to reopen the road to Braemore, in Caithness county, where 35 villagers have been cut off for 13 days. However, an Automobile Association patrol man trudged in with emergency food supplies.
