

Yanks May Take Shot At The Moon Early Tomorrow

By VERN HAN "HLAND"
WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Air Force may take its third shot at the moon early Friday.

Like its two predecessors, the new lunar probe is designed to:

1. Measure variations in radiation along a 2½-day journey toward the moon.
2. Provide data on the intensity and extent of magnetic fields of the earth and the moon.
3. Report the number of impacts with meteorites.
4. Scan the far side of the moon with a television type device and relay to earth impressions that would be converted into crude photographs.

The 25 pounds of instruments aboard the low space traveller will be thoroughly sterilized 24 hours before blastoff against the remote prospect that it might hit the moon. Scientists have agreed to make every effort to avoid lunar contamination until after earthmen have had a chance to explore the moon's surface.

The launching site once more is Cape Canaveral, Fla.

The early morning hours of Friday would be the first period in this month suitable for a moon rocket launch. If there is no firing then, similar favorable periods occur in the early morning hours of Saturday and Sunday.

After Nov. 9 it would be futile to fire at the moon until Dec. 4 or 5, when once again the moon and earth are in the preferred position with regard to each other.

The forthcoming shot is the last of three assigned to the air force in connection with the International Geophysical Year program.

The first lunar probe failed Aug. 17, the rocket exploding 77 seconds after launching.

The second attempt at 3:42 a.m. EST Oct. 11—given the code name Pioneer—was a success in its own fashion, but the flight travelled only about a third of the 222,000-mile distance to the moon.

Pioneer justified itself by sending back, over its radio voice, valuable data still being analyzed.

Vancouver Boot Makers Plan Protest

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver Labor Council learned Tuesday that 100 bootworkers here will be laid off in the next two weeks, while a firm in St. The, Que., makes boots for city police and firemen.

A letter from Donald MacDonald, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Labor Congress who investigated the Quebec firm, said women workers at the plant—which is non-union—make between 25 and 45 cents an hour and men make from 46 cents to 67 cents an hour.

The J. Leckie Company here announced it will lay off workers because there is not enough work to keep them employed. The firm made the boots for 20 years until last May, when city council awarded $20,789 contract for 1,701 pairs of boots to the firm of G. A. Boulet of St. The.

The labor council voted to send a copy of Mr. MacDonald's letter to city council to protest awarding of the contract to a Quebec firm.

Canadian Milk Goes To Hungry Kiddies Overseas

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian milk, donated by the federal government and shipped by the United Nations Service Committee has gone to help hungry youngsters in Hong Kong, Korea, Greece and India.

The non-denominational USC said Wednesday it has shipped 200,000 pounds of powdered milk to the needy areas. USC officials said one pound of the milk powder will provide one child with a glass of milk each day for 30 days.

In Korea, the milk powder is mixed with Canadian barley and distributed as hot, nourishing gruel for children during the hungry winter months. In India, the children in isolated villages often eat it dry.

SOLDIER DEMOTED

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—A 22-year-old British army corporal was sentenced Wednesday to nine months' detention and reduced to private by a court martial here for distributing leaflets urging violence against Greek Cypriots. Cpl. Ford said he wrote the leaflets in reply to those issued periodically by EOKA terrorists. In his leaflet he said "bringing offenders to court is no good any more," adding that British troops should retaliate against Greek Cypriot "savages."
