

MISCELLANY.

A MOTHER'S LAMENT.

BY THE BELFAST MAN.

They tell me that I should not weep
When heaven calls its own;
Ah, think they that a mother's heart
Is but a living stone?
They tell me that my constant tears
Will waste the mother's cheek;
Ah, know they not were these to cease
The mother's heart would break?
When o'er my soul there hangs a cloud,
With no redeeming ray,
Will heaven blame me if I try
To weed that cloud away?
Sweet Saviour, dear,
Look down, and tear
Her shadow from my view:
Or take—Oh, take,
For mercy's sake,
The mother to thee too!

Here many a holy hour I've sat,
When none but God did see;
And on this heaving heart, my bird,
My beauty, pillowed thee!
And wept in pride of soul, and looked
O'er thee, and future years;
And kissed each dimple till it shone
A little well of tears:
Or soothed and made thy worldless mirth,
In infant chucklings rise,
Till all my joyful spirit reeled
In frenzy through my eyes.
My babe, my dove!
Oh, Father above,
What now of coming years?
She's thine, she's thine!
But what are mine?
Her green grave, and these tears!

I see the blackness of my soul,
Where all looked bright before;
My homely hearth, the willow seat,
The waves before the door:
I see my babes steal round my knee,
Half weeping, half in shame;
And hang their heads, and whisper low,
When breathing sister's name:
And then my wandering fancy wings
Some shadow by my door;
I start, I shriek—oh no! oh no!
My Lizzie comes no more.
Oh no! oh no!
My lamb of snow,
There's glory round your brow;
And broad and bright
With holy light,
Are all your play-grounds now!

I look upon the flowery mounds
Her snowy hands did make;
I kneel and bless the dying flowers,
And kiss them for her sake;
And oft as droops the fuschisa bell
Beneath my scalding tear,
The phantom echo of her voice,
Mounts, laughing on my ear!
Then can ye blame a mother's hands,
For twining through her hair,
When all within that mother's heart
Is boiling in despair;
That eye, that cheek—
Speak, Heaven! speak!
She's not a putrid clod;
My child, my child,
Thy mother's wild:
Forgive me, oh my God!

AMBIGUOUS PREACHING.—On coming out of church, I asked Mr. P., a distinguished lawyer, how he liked the sermon of Dr. B.—

"I think," said he, "that it comes under the third head."

"How so?" said I.

"A certain French preacher," he replied, "after a long and pompous introduction, said, 'I shall now proceed, my hearers, to divide my subject into three parts. First, I shall tell you that which I know, and you do not know. Secondly, I shall tell you all about that which you know, and I do not know. And thirdly, and lastly, I shall tell you about that which neither you nor I know.'"

A fellow who applied to an optician for a pair of spectacles, after having tried on several, said he could not read with them. "Could you ever read?" inquired the optician. "No," said the fellow, "if I could, do you think me so great an ass as to wish to wear glasses?"

"I am constrained to call on you this morning," says Tap, "for I owe a hundred dollars at the bank, which I have got to pay to-day." "You have got to pay!" replied Sip; "the more lucky for you then; for I owe ten dollars, and hav'nt got the first dollar towards it."

Farm for Sale.

NINE Miles from Charlottetown, with a long lease, and situated in the old and pleasant settlement of Covehead Road. The usual custom in advertisements of this kind, is to designate all lands under tillage, as being in a high state of cultivation: in the present instance, the growing crops, consisting of about 15 acres of wheat, oats and barley, 3 of potatoes and 9 of hay, very little inferior to the crops around Charlottetown. 6 acres of fallows preparing for wheat next year. 8 acres of grass depastured two years. 10 acres have been reclaimed from a wilderness state within the last four years, and 40 acres more can be, at the trifling expense of about eight shillings per acre. The house and buildings are not new, but they are warm and convenient. There is also a large and productive garden, secured by a dyke, and a paddock of 2 acres of permanent pasture, similarly fenced, with a never-failing stream of water running throughout. About 500 longers will complete the enclosure of the whole farm. A diary can be produced, showing the management of every acre of the cultivated land for the last four years; therefore, even a stranger to the soil of the Island, will be enabled to judge of what should and what should not be done hereafter. This property embraces many rare advantages, with only one material disadvantage, e. i., the rent is two shillings per acre; yet it is now cheaper than many farms, even were they free from rent altogether.

Further particulars can be known by applying to THOMAS PREEDY, Keeper of the Colonial Building, Charlottetown. August 6, 1847.

Green, near St. Eleanor's. 30 acres of the premises in question are surrounded by a substantial fence, and are in a high state of cultivation. Abundance of superior manure, of Fence Poles and Firewood &c., and a never-failing spring of water are also on the premises which extends on the margin of the Great Western Road, such rendering the property in question as desirable a locality for a Mercantile Establishment, as it is for farming pursuits. From 16 to 18 tons of superior upland hay cut and stacked recently, on the premises, will be also disposed of, on application to Mr William Campbell, a resident in the above described neighbourhood, or to James Keough, Wellington Hotel, Charlottetown.
