Steel Frames for Churches.
In comparison with the number of new buildings erected for various other uses, the number built for church purposes is extremely small, but among these a considerable number are now built with the steel frame construction so commonly used in the business buildings, and the proportion of churches so constructed is increasing. In crowded cities on lots in which the space is limited it saves room as it does in any building on account of the less thickness of wall required, and in large interiors, where bulky stone columns might otherwise be used to support arches or domes or roof trusses it permits the use of much smaller columns with a lessened obstruction to the view.

The Way to Identify Him.
A certain farmer, who is by no means noted for his resemblance to Apollo, has a son of 7 who possesses more wit than reverence. One day a stranger came to the farm, and, seeing the lad, asked—
"Sonny, where's your father?"
"In the pigpen," was the reply.
"In the pigpen? Thanks."
And, as the man moved in the direction indicated, the boy shouted—
"I say! You'll know him, 'cause he's got a hat on!"—London Tit-Bits.

Dairy and Creamery.
Here is an attractive way to pack butter for market. Get a rectangular wooden box about twice as long as it is wide and of the same depth as width. Have it made of the size to hold an exact number of pounds, either one, two, three, four or five. Line the boxes with parchment paper, then pack them solid with butter. When putting them up for market, a certain number of these boxes may be shipped in a crate. One popular style is to have the box hold exactly five pounds of butter, and then pack ten of such boxes in a crate for shipping. Have the butter absolutely first class and then put your name and address or the name and address of the creamery on each box. The butter will slip out of the box beautifully. A market for such fancy butter may be always found among people who like a good thing and will pay for it. The famous Philadelphia prints that bring so good a price in the New York markets are simply excellent butter done up for market in a fancy manner.

Do not fail to plant some beets for your cows to eat next winter if you have no ensilage.

It is recommended to boil wooden bowls in water an hour and let the water cool on them to prevent them from cracking. But never be guilty of the atrocity of boiling wooden bowls in lard or painting them, as some recommend, to prevent cracking. A wooden bowl boiled in lard or painted even upon the outside would be a nice thing to scald, would it not, and a nice thing to put butter into after it had been scalded?

The old fashioned way of "gathering" butter is wrong. Draw off the buttermilk when the butter is in grains the size of a wheat. Then dash water upon it and give the churn a few turns. Draw off the water. Wash twice if the stream that runs out is not clear. Then sprinkle the salt upon the butter, still in the granular state, and mix salt and butter thoroughly by a few more turns of the churn. Let the butter stand till it gets hard in a place where it will take no taint from the surrounding air, then work it into the shape desired. Put from half an ounce to an ounce of fine clean salt to a pound of butter, according to the taste of your customers. Many excellent butter makers now only put half an ounce.
