Eastburn Brown, Reformed church minister. The girl had been convicted and fined $25, in default, four months in jail, but on being married the pair were liberated and given a chance to live honorable lives.

INHUMAN TREATMENT.—A case of most inhuman treatment of a wife has come to light in Amherst, in which John Morse, colored, figures as a most brutal creature. It appears that a few days ago Mrs. Morse and a noted character named Agnes Bowles were having some words near Morse's house when the man Morse interfered and took the part of the woman Bowles against his wife. Taking hold of his wife Morse hit and pounded her until her body was black and blue with bruises. He then pulled her into his house, pulled off her clothes, and sat her on the red hot stove, holding her there until her screams attracted the neighbors living thereto. He then threatened that if she said anything about the affair he would kill her and would be hung for her. The woman was frightfully burned, and since the occurrence she has been in a very dangerous condition, her recovery being considered doubtful.

MCGILL UNIVERSITY.—The McGill Fortnightly, to be held, reports the election of class officers for 1892-93 in the distant years in the Faculty of Applied Science; and we note with pleasure that J. A. McPhail, son of Mr. William McPhail, of the Hospital for the Insane, is president of the 4th year class, and that Gordon Alley, son of Judge Alley, of this city, is president of the 1st year. This shows that "our Island boys" are popular and influential among their college companions.

The same interesting periodical says: "The appointment of Mr. R. S. Lea as lecturer in Mathematics and Drawing is one which is eminently satisfactory to all concerned, and is an instance of the appreciation which the Faculty of Applied Science has for its old students. Mr. Lea, who is native of Prince Edward Island, graduated with the highest honors in 1890, and since then has obtained a broad practical experience of such a nature as to peculiarly fit him for his present position.

We congratulate Mr. Leatoun his honorable promotion. Mr. Lea is a son of Mr. William C. Lea, of Crapaud.

The Fortnightly also reports that L. R. Gregor, B. A., is lecturing in German in McGill College.
