Trains Open New World Of Pleasure

By LOTTA DEMPSEY

MAD AT THE speed-mad age?

Would you like to drop back in bedroom-slipper comfort, writing and dining, making friends without the need to influence anybody, and seeing the map of Canada unfold in glorious color outside your picture window?

Then you are - or you have possibilities of becoming - a travel-by-rail buff.

Train journeys are a "fin" thing again; or so I gather from the numbers of businessmen, families, and women, old and young, with whom I shared a recent transcontinental adventure from Toronto to Vancouver.

Slice the Miles

Not that these diesel-engine, streamlined, cross-country caravans are any slouches in slicing through miles. But if you prefer forest and prairie, town and city centre, roaring river and soaring mountain to the upper crust of clouds in jet, you're going to measure your travels by a more substantial yardstick than the man with the built-in flight plan.

And now the railroads have made a real breakthrough in implementing the new service-with-a-smile and no pain extended program of all hands aboard.

At what would have been considered, not long ago, as wholesale courtesy, you can purchase your all-inclusive travel plan ticket from here and back again, with all meals and gratuities included.

No Palms Out

I even wangled breakfast in bed, although this was a first-class but every-weather courtesy, not listed on the billet and other. As always seems to be the case board ship, the tourist lounge was much livelier and more fun. Also, the meal schedule for tourists is a little less lavish, but in many cases it seemed more satisfactory

After booking first class, I wished I'd saved the money. Tourist has romances which appeared just as comfortable, just as air-conditioned and temperature-controlled.

Menus Stolid

First-class had its own first-class but every-weather courtesy, not listed on the billet and other.
