

S'side Kinsmen Christmas Tree Project Is Opened

An enjoyable banquet and evening at Howard's Restaurant last evening signalled the opening of the 7th annual Summerside Kinsmen Christmas tree project with approximately 85 Kinsmen, Kinettes and guests in attendance.

The chairman of this year's Christmas tree project, Kin Harold Arsenault, reported that the Christmas trees have been erected in Holmans and in the Co-op super market and already some very fine donations have been received. He stated that the addresses by the clergy, in behalf of the project will begin over radio station CJRW on December 14th and that the delivery of Christmas parcels to the needy will be held on the 24th. He also announced a request program, during which donations will be solicited, would be held over the local radio station on the evening of the 21st.

At the conclusion of the banquet, a recording for the opening of

Bank Manager Guest Speaker At Rotary Luncheon

Mr. William Hayward, manager of the Summerside branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, was guest speaker at the Rotary luncheon meeting held at Howard's Restaurant. Mr. Hayward, who is a director of the Summerside Board of Trade, told the Rotary gathering of the magnitude of the work performed by the Board of Trade and stated that it doesn't receive the support it did a few years ago and so readily deserves. He said that the parent body, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, which comprises 700 boards of trade across the nation, represents all business large and small, and looks out for the business interests of all its members. He stated that the Chamber of Commerce is comparatively new, having celebrated its 26th anniversary in October, but he said it is an organization formed to co-ordinate the thoughts of its member boards. The guest speaker pointed out that free enterprise is built on small businesses and that these same small businesses are the backbone of Canada. He also mentioned that small businesses are getting an increased volume of the general business in Canada. In describing Canada as an exporting country, Mr. Hayward said we ship 60 per cent of our exports to the United States and that 75 per cent of our imports come from our neighbor to the south which is only 20 per cent of its total export trade.

House Warming At Summerside

A house warming for Mr. and Mrs. Major MacDonald was held at their new home at Summerside East on November 25th.

Mr. Robert Hogg was chairman and called upon Mrs. Wynman Cairns who read an address of welcome to the new residents of this community. A lovely floor lamp was presented to Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald by Mrs. Eldred Simmons and a fitting reply was made by Mr. MacDonald. During the evening music was furnished by Messrs. Irving Llewellyn and Lloyd Ellis.

Progressive auction was played, with lunch being served by the ladies.

The following is the address which was read to Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald:

It is with pleasure we have come here this evening to welcome you both into this community.

In a district, on the outskirts of town, such as this one new homes are being built and new families are continually moving in and it gives us great pleasure to greet these newcomers especially when they are taking part in the different activities of the community as you so willingly have done.

Your friendliness and hospitality to those of us who have had the privilege of calling on you have increased our respect and esteem for you.

Now on behalf of your friends and neighbors gathered here tonight we wish you to accept this gift, not for its value but as a token of our friendship which we hope will continue down through the years.

Sincerely your friends at Summerside East.

Resolutions And

was no reason why the potato producers of the province should not be organized as well as any other group. In this connection, Mr. MacDonald, who is a past president of the milk producer's board, gave an illustration of the benefits gained by proper organization in that group.

The Federation President in making reference to rural assessment said that it was a "sore spot" to the farmer living in the suburban areas. He pointed out that there has been a considerable exodus of city residents to the rural areas adjacent to the city, but went on to state that the heaviest burden of taxation came upon the land owner. "There should be an adjustment of taxation on the basis of the person's ability to pay," said Mr. MacDonald. "There is little fairness in the fact that a man with property has to pay $100 taxes while his neighbor who perhaps has much higher income but because he lives in a rented house, pays only $5."

BUTTER PRICES

Mr. MacDonald had something to say about butter price. He was in sympathy with the consumer who wanted the price of butter reduced but pressed strong opposition to the latest action of the National Dairy Council of Canada who have made a proposal that the floor price on butter be removed as a means of getting rid of Canada's butter surplus. "The National Dairy Council wants to lower the price of butter to the consumer but they want the farmer to take the loss," he said. "If you take away the 58c floor price, you won't be long with a surplus on your hands because there won't be enough farmers in the business to produce a surplus," he concluded.

RESOLUTIONS

A resolution dealing with "The Uniformity of Time Act" was presented to the Government to clarify its position in regard to this matter. The discussion which followed the introduction of this resolution revealed that although daylight time was not generally favored among the farmers it would be the lesser of two evils, namely having one time in the urban areas and another in the country.

A resolution urging the Government to place legislation on the statute books governing the movement of cattle on the hoof over the highway was passed. It was pointed out that there was no clear cut policy regarding the responsibility of the owner of cattle who is obliged to drive his cattle on the road.

A resolution asking that the Government require the owner of every vehicle involved in a motor accident to furnish proof of financial responsibility before he would be allowed to continue to operate his vehicle received the unanimous endorsement of the meeting. It was felt that the enactment of such legislation would have a definite tendency to remove from the highway persons who were not financially responsible for the operation of a motor vehicle.

In another resolution it was proposed that with the ever increasing raccoon population on the islands and in view of the deplorable condition by these animals, the bounty should be increased.

The continuation of the floor price for butter was endorsed in a resolution which pointed out that the dairy industry as a whole would greatly suffer if the support price were removed.

Farm implement service came in for some heated criticism. The discussion which followed revealed that farmers were not getting the type of service to which they were entitled on new farm machinery and a resolution calling for an improvement in this direction was directed to the various dealers throughout the province who were asked to remain open on Wednesday nights, especially during the cropping and harvesting season.

"That the Potato Marketing Board make available to producers certain information regarding the price of

FOTATO BOARD CHAIRMAN

Mr. Donald MacDonald said, "The potato question has been discussed so much during the last two months, I feel that it is hardly necessary for me to say anything more about it."

The Board recommended certain policies and had the machinery to put them into effect although the Board itself received a two to one majority, the policy of selling through one agency was turned down by a 52-48 vote, he said, "so for the time being we will have to abide by the opinion of the majority of the producers."

"Time alone will tell," said Mr. MacDonald "whether or not it is a wise decision. He told the meeting that when the Board in 1953 had to make the decision as to whether it would be advisable to sell through one Central Agency, it was only after serious thought, the idea in mind that that producer throughout the province should receive the same price and that potatoes be marketed to the best advantage.

"Regardless of what happened on November 10, the best method of marketing potatoes remains one of our most important problems," said Mr. MacDonald who added, "I have been told by some that we tried to do too much too soon. I believe there may be a measure of truth in this statement."

Mr. MacDonald predicted that it would not be too long before a vast majority of the growers on Prince Edward Island will say that the Potato Marketing Board was right and others were wrong. "Only recently one can see good and sufficient reasons for this belief," he said.

Mr. MacDonald stated "that a good strong market for potatoes existed in Toronto up to November 10 but on November 12 he received a phone call from that City asking him to go to that city. His inquirer told him that soon potatoes were being offered at greatly reduced prices to that prevailing on the previous day and wanted to know the reason.

"What is going to happen for the balance of the season, I do not know," said the Board Chairman, "but I do know that the Marketing Board was in a position this year to do something for the potato industry but propaganda, prejudice, everything under the sun was hurled at you."

He concluded by saying, "A time will come when you will say that in the fall of 1954, you threw away an opportunity that would not only be a precedent for all time to come but would be a pattern to follow in the marketing of other farm products.

"The marketing Board will be worked on a limited existence," said Mr. MacDonald who urged the

PILOT Out of Hospital After Fall of 20,000 Feet With Torn Parachute

By John Dudman
LONDON. (Reuters)—A 21-year-old jet pilot who fell 20,000 feet with half a parachute into four feet of water—and lived—climbed out of his hospital bed Tuesday and asked: "When can I fly again?"

Doctors told P.O. Brian Cross he will have to wait eight weeks before the torn ligaments in his right ankle have mended.

They were amazed at his escape with minor injuries from a descent which ended with a tremendous splash a mile offshore in the middle of the Thames river estuary. He suffered only a nicked thigh and a buckled ankle.

Cross told of his experience Tuesday, explaining that since the air ministry is investigating the incident, he cannot yet say what mended the parachute tear.

PLANE OUT OF CONTROL

He was flying his Meteor jet fighter at 26,000 feet over the east coast on a practice exercise.

As he was attacking a target and last Sunday he suffered from a plane, his parachute was torn. He began to plunge earthwards. Then it mushroomed out above him checking his descent. It folded up and again he plummeted down.

"There really wasn't much time to think about being frightened. I didn't feel particularly happy about it all. But there was a hell of a lot to do, believe me, in trying to get that parachute working properly."

COMPLETELY RELAXED

The parachute snapped open again. But Cross was still falling at a far faster rate than normal. Then the parachute collapsed for the third time.

"It opened once more, thank goodness. I reckoned that I had just another 2,000 feet to go when—bang—I hit the water flat on my back. Fortunately, I was completely relaxed and somehow just did not expect to touch down. I could not have been falling for more than five minutes, though it seemed longer.

"I went under the water. I tried to swim, then my head broke the surface and I found I was treading on sand and shallow water only up to my waist."

"I stood up and released my
