McLennan - MacLennan Wedding At Trinity United Church

Standards of white gladioli and lighted tapers in silver candelabra provided the setting in Trinity Church, Charlottetown on Wednesday morning, August 30, when Margaret Katherine MacLennan, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. MacLennan, Charlottetown, was united in marriage with Donald Ross MacLennan, son of Rev. T. E. MacLennan, D. D., and Mrs. MacLennan, D. D., performed the double ring ceremony, assisted by Rev. H. E. D. Ashford, M. B. E., B. A., B. D.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attended by Miss Joyce McPhail as maid of honor, Mrs. Myron Bell and Mrs. Douglas H. MacLennan as bridesmaids and Miss Sharon MacLennan as junior bridesmaid. The groomsmen were Mr. Bruce MacLennan, brother of the groom, and the ushers were Mr. Charles MacLennan and Mr. Douglas MacLennan. The organist was Prof. A. Roy Kendall, L. R. A. M., A. C. C. O., who rendered appropriate music. The choir sang "Praise my soul, the King of Heaven" as a processional and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The bride was gowned in oyster white bridal satin, fashioned on princess lines, with slight train. Her fingering veil was of silk illusion and fell from a coronet of pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of rubrum lilies and white sweet-peas.

The bride's attendants were gowned alike in candlelight yellow, mauve-pink and lime green. They carried nosegays of mixed flowers, blending with the colors of their frocks.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Keppoch Beach Hotel, the bride's mother receiving in a gown of grey tissue faille, with matching accessories. She wore a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother chose a gown of cocoa-brown silk crepe and wore a corsage of glia roses.

The bride's table was artistically arranged with a three-tier wedding cake, resting on a plate glass mirror, and lighted tapers in silver candelabra were placed on either side. The toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. Gordon Bennett and responded to by the groom. Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. MacLennan left on a trip to the Eastern States, the bride wearing a julep green gabardine suit, brown velvet hat and accessories to match. Her corsage was of yellow roses. They will take up residence in Montreal.

Out-of-town guests were, Rev. T. E. MacLennan, D. D. and Mrs. MacLennan, Miss Sharon MacLennan, Mr. Charles MacLennan, Mr. Laird MacLennan, all of Montreal. Mr. George MacLennan and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas H. MacLennan of Sydney, N. S., and Mrs. J. F. McRae of El Paso, Texas.

ELLEN'S DIARY

By An Island Farmer's Wife

Our visitors - we would write of them tonight, though of course of some we may not. Not of those who calling, particularly point out, it may be in a whisper or louder: "Now, Ellen, please don't write about me!" We believe these must have a suspicion that the like of us are psychic and can see some secret of their innermost heart which they would rather not have revealed. We find however we are very human, possessing no gift of insight though we sometimes confess to an elusive quality of discernment, only small of course, but which sometimes lead us to wonder if perhaps some old ancestress, might not have claimed to "prophecy in part!" She could perhaps feel a warning "in her bones" or perceive some token in an uneasy dream. Granddaughter herself claims she too has this. "I dreamt last night that my 'smokey' kitten was dead" she will come in morning-fresh to relate "well, not exactly dead, but almost... with its eyes tight shut! But when I got up and found it, it wasn't dead at all, but there it was, with a broad smile on its face - and so glad to see me! Did you ever see a kitten smile?" making it true that "dreams go contrary." However, we find our interest in the visitors who come to our ordinary door from a chance word, a smile, a gesture, a step, finding these quite revealing, as open as a story waiting to be read. But then why should we disclose these secrets which lends us some mystery in the mind of another?

And how can these visitors arrive at our door? These folks who perhaps wonder if our farmstead is touched by some mysterious agent that is not to be found on other Island acres. Or to determine maybe if the family that moves on paper are flesh and blood. Down past the house on the hill they come, the dwelling which houses Mr. O., who brews his own tea and spreads his own table, feeds the cat, and with his help attends to the mares and the fattening hogs. Does the seasonal sawing, returning up the incline at a set time, which noting reminds us and Jeanie that once more a meal-time is dawning.

Down the hill, dipping to the new Public Bridge, smart in its white paint. To the right the mill looks

How Can I!!!

By Anne Ashley

Q. How can I rid a cloth close of moths?

A. Saturate a cloth with formaldehyde and hang it in the close. Close the door tightly and wave for twelve hours. The fumes will kill the moths and their eggs and will leave no odor.

Q. How can I keep sandwiches fresh for several hours, if necessary?

A. Place them in an earthen receptacle, cover, and then place this receptacle in a vessel of cold water.

Q. How can I eliminate any danger of a porch pillow being ruined by rain?

A. Try using oilcloth or plastic for an inside cover of the porch pillow and wash material as an outside cover.

Miss Phyllis Bryce of Toronto and Miss Edith Steele of Galt, Ontario, are the welcome guests of Robert and Mrs. Wilson, Sao Paulo, Brazil, who are visiting Mrs. Wilson's mother, Mrs. W. M. Brehaut, Rochford Street. Miss Bryce and Miss Steele are renewing friendships made when they served in London, Eng., as members of the Red Cross Corps, with many P. E. Islanders including Mrs. Ralph Dumont, Miss Jean MacLennan, Miss Marjorie Stewart.

Miss Phelan was also guest of honour at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Hazelton Phelan, Thursday night, when Mrs. Phelan and Misses Muriel and Lillian Quinn were hostesses at a miscellaneous shower.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS -

Masculine Virtues

Traits That Appeal Before Wedding May Appear Later

If many of the qualities that look so alluring to a man in a woman before marriage wear a different aspect in his eyes after marriage, so also do women discover that the traits of character that were fascinating in a lover are often unbearable in a husband. There are mighty few women who don't fall for that. If every maiden got her heart's desire, she would be wooed with a club and dragged by the hair of her head to the altar by a determined he-man who married her despite her protests, real or pretended. She longs to be dominated. She is thrilled by being ordered about by a man who is big and strong and ruthless and who makes her jump when he tells her just where she gets off. Good. But not so good after marriage. Masculine men are interesting figures in fiction, but they are a pain in the neck around the home. Intelligent, educated women who have heid down good jobs before marriage don't take kindly to being bossed about by husbands who treat them as if they were feeble-minded girl babies.

HATE TO ASK

Nor do they relish having to ask husband's permission to go to see Mother, or play bridge on Wednesday afternoon. And they simply see red when their tyrants supervise the amount of lipstick they use and pick out their clothes. Perhaps you have noticed that when a wo-

Modern Etiquette and Morning Smile columns. Modern Etiquette by Roberta Lee. Morning Smile: Plenty of Both. A depressed-looking fellow strolled into a restaurant. A waiter bustled up. "What will you have, sir? Some cold shoulder?" "No, thanks; I had that this morning." "Well, then; tongue, sir?" "No, thanks; I'll get that tonight." A husband drew up his chair beside his wife's sewing machine. "Don't you think you're running too fast?" he asked. "Look out! You'll sew the wrong seam. Mind that corner now! Slow down, watch your finger, Steady!" "What's the matter with you, John?" asked his wife. "I've been running this machine for years." "Well, dear, I thought you might like me to help you, since you help me drive the car."
