Would List Railways In Public Utilities Category

OTTAWA (CP) — A Newfoundland Liberal Thursday suggested Canada's railways should be considered public utilities.

Speaking in the Commons, C.W. Carter, Burin-Burgeo, said that since Canadian railways "are not basically sound enterprises within themselves as economic units, and since they have other functions even more important than the economic, I believe it would be better if they were regarded as public utilities."

The former Newfoundland education inspector coupled his suggestion with some potent criticism of the government-owned CNR's operations in his province.

"The railways could be used as an effective instrument in equalizing the cost of living in different parts of Canada. In Newfoundland, the CNR creates inequalities in living costs and makes existin ones even worse."

Mr. Carter also criticized the CNR for its ferry service on Placentia Bay in his riding.

DISGUSTING CONDITIONS

"Every time I travel on the M. V. Burin (ferry) I am scandalized at the conditions which the travelling public are forced to put up with in in this part of my riding.

"Picture women and children being forced to sit up all night in stormy weather huddled together on a bench in a tiny dining room or sitting on their luggage in a narrow corridor because there is no place for them to lie down.

"This prime example of man's inhumanity to man is a disgrace, not only to the CNR but to Canada. It makes me ashamed that the $500,000 required for a new ship should be regarded as being of more importance than human beings.

"It makes my blood boil to see a crown company treating human beings, and Newfoundlanders at that, with less considerations than one would normally give to dumb animals."

He said he has drawn the conditions to the railway's attention repeatedly during the last six years, during which the situation not only was permitted to continue but to worsen.

"I plead with the government to bring pressure to bear on the CNR to have it corrected immediately."

Mr. Cartier said the primary function of Canada's railways "is to integrate the different industrial sections of every province into a single provincial economy into a national economy."

MUST CONSIDER NEEDS

Everyone wanted the railways to operate as far as possible in accordance with sound business practices. But "purely dollar considerations must not be permitted to take precedence over the overall national interest and basic human needs."

Another easterner, A. J. MacEachen (L — Inverness-Richmond) said the question of how to deal with "emergency disputes"—strikes that threaten the public interest, health and welfare — might be studied by the Commons industrial relations committee. The recent CPR firemen's strike was such an "emergency dispute."

He said the committee might consider recommending legislation along the lines of New Jersey laws which provide for a 60-day "cooling off" period when there is a threat of a strike or lockout in a public utility.

Dr. Helen Abell Addresses University Women's Club

"The ideals of the United Nations are symbolized in the great buildings on the New York waterfront, as they stand above the things of earth," said Dr. Helen Abell in her address last night to the University Women's Club of Charlottetown.

Dr. Abell sketched the organization of the United Nations and the way in which it works. Two basic purposes determine its action: the creating of a public forum for world opinion: and the raising of levels of living through various types of technical assistance programs.

Dr. Abell continued with a vivid account of her experiences in Jamaica where she was sent by United Nations through FAO to direct an advanced training course in home economics. "This sharing with others is essential if we ourselves are to survive," she pointed out.

The United Nations has succeeded in establishing co-operation in world postal communications and in agreement on peaceful use of atomic energy - "so we hope for successful working together on all problems."

Dr. Abell was thanked by Miss Turnbull for her very interesting talk on this important world question.

At the close of the discussion, the club members and their guests enjoyed a social hour.

Report Rehearsals For "The Chalk Garden" Are Going Well

Rehearsal for "The Chalk Garden", which is to be the Charlottetown Little Theatre entry in the 1957 Dominion Drama Festival, are progressing favorably according to an interview with the director, Mrs. J. P. Millar. At present much work is being done on character development and stage movement. This week the cast is embarking on the 3rd act for the first time, and following rehearsal of this, and the other two acts, the entire production will undergo the polishing process.

Over the past week-end the set designer, Mr. Garry Rea-Airth, met with the stage manager, Mr. Harry Morris, and members of the stage crew to confer over the plans for the construction of the set in accordance with the model designed by Mr. Rea-Airth. Members of the stage crew who will be working along with Mr. Morris and Mr. Rea-Airth are:- Mr. Jack MacKinnon, Mr. Herbert Pletch, Mr. Sutherland MacLean, Mr. Gordon Rodd and Mr. Jim Millar. Others who are playing an important part in getting "The Chalk Garden" ready for presentation are:- Mrs. Jack MacKinnon who is in charge of costuming and will be assisted by Mrs. J. T. Place; Miss Mary McQuaid who is looking after properties; Mrs. Arthur Henry who is arranging for the make-up; Mr. Peter Shama who is supervising the lighting, and Mr. Arthur MacLean the sound effects.

It is interesting to note that "The Chalk Garden" will be playing at The Royal Alex Theatre in Toronto the week of January 28th featuring two great stars, Judith Anderson and Kathleen Nesbitt, in the leading roles. This is, of course, a professional company which will be seen in Toronto in the Canadian premiere of "The Chalk Garden". The play is written up in the Toronto papers as "that brilliant New York and London smash hit" so Charlottetown audiences have a real treat in store for them when the local Theatre Guild presents its session on February 25th. and 26th. "The Chalk Garden" has been acclaim-produced in the English language in 1956.

Prosecution For Theft Cases In County Court

Clarence Reid, of Charlottetown, arraigned before Judge C. St. Clair Trainor in Queen's County Court yesterday, pleaded guilty on two counts to possession of stolen goods. The court accepted the pleas and conviction was entered accordingly. The accused was remanded to the Queen's County jail until next Wednesday for sentencing. Crown prosecutor is J.P. Nicholson and counsel for the defendant is Allison Gillis.

The cases against Reid were the first of a series of trials resulting from charges laid by the R.C.M.P. against five persons allegedly connected with the theft of a quantity of Perfection Brand canned and powdered milk owned by its manufacturers, the Central Creameries Ltd. of Charlottetown. The product was stolen sometime between the 6th and 17th of October, 1956, and was almost all recovered on the 17th by the R.C.M.P., mostly from a large cache in a farm barn in East Royalty.

Stanley Dingwell, a truck driver with Central Creameries Ltd., at that time, pleaded guilty to a charge of theft of a quantity of powdered milk and was convicted and remanded to jail for sentence next Wednesday. A plea of not guilty was entered by the accused on the second charge against him, that of theft of a quantity of powdered milk from a warehouse in Parkdale.

CROWN WITNESSES

Nine crown witnesses were called yesterday before the court adjourned until this morning at 10:30. Only one more crown witness is scheduled to testify.

First called was Cpl. Gordon Humphrey of the R.C.M.P. who identified photographs taken at the farm of Arthur Clinton, which was occupied by Dorin Hynes in West Royalty, at the time Reid was arrested there and the cache was seized by the Mounties. The corporal also identified a diagram of the barn as it appeared the day of the seizure and which he had drawn from knowledge and measurements taken that day.

Const. Eric Tedford told of the nightly vigil that he and Sgt. Donald Davis kept at the Clinton property from October 11 until October 17, when the arrest of Reid was made at the scene. He said he had seen and examined in detail a number of cases of milk concealed by baled hay in the Clinton barn on the night of the 11th. On the 12th Const. Tedford initialed and dated all of the approximately 40 cases in the cache.

Conditions at the hide-out remained the same until the 15th when the Mounties found an addition of 30 to 40 cases, all but 15 which were concealed in a manner similar to the ones first discovered.

Nothing was changed on the 16th and on the afternoon of the 17th, Sgt. Davis and Const. Tedford arrived at the farm and found that Constables William MacDonald and James Cox had caught Reid and two juveniles in the act of loading some of the cased milk on a truck. In cross-examination by Mr. Gillis, Const. Tedford stated that he at no time saw the accused, Stanley Dingwell at the scene in West Royalty.

Const. Macdonald told the court of Reid's appearance at the farm on the afternoon of the 17th and of the seizure of a total of 79 cases of milk at the farm that same day. He also stated that he never saw the accused at this place.

IDENTIFIES CASE

Percy Simmonds, Charlottetown manufacturer and co-operator of Central Creameries Ltd identified one of the seized cases of milk, which the crown produced as an exhibit, as being the company's product. He said that a code number is placed on each batch of milk to identify the date of manufacture. From information that he received from his employees none of the milk in question had been placed on the open P.E.I. markets through regular channels previous to the 17th. All the company's milk produced during that month was being placed in the Women's Institute Building which the company had rented on the Exhibition Grounds. He said that both the accused and Earl Arsenault had been connected with the transfer of milk to the warehouse.

Plant superintendant for the company, Gerald Doyle, explained to the court the procedure of transfer and stated that he gave all orders in connection with it. He said that during the month of October Dingwell was normally the only driver on the transfer job.

96 CASES SHORT

Office manager Gordon Stewart, stated that when the company records were examined at the end of October it was found that they were short 96 cases. He further stated that the milk that had been seized was produced by the company in the second week of the month.

Everett Hastings, an Exhibition Association labourer, said that he saw Reid accompanied by Clinton at the warehouse with a station wagon early in October. The transfer truck was also there at the time but he didn't know the men on it.

ARSENAULT TESTIFIES

Earl Arsenault, an employee of the company at that time, after securing protection from incrimination by means of the Canadian Evidence Act, testified that he had been at the warehouse with Dingwell on four occasions when Reid had come and taken milk. He said it was indicated to him that Reid intended to sell the milk on the mainland and the witness and Dingwell would split $3. a case on the deal. He further said that it was Dingwell who had arranged the deal and that the witness had helped load the milk in Reid's vehicle only because Dingwell was the boss at the warehouse and had instructed him to do so.

He further said that he, helped by Dingwell, gave someone ten bags of powdered milk for Reid on the 16th. On cross-examination it was revealed that the accused has been convicted of various charges bordering on theft, five times in the past four years.

OTHER TESTIMONY

Thomas Trainor, another company employee, stated that he had been at the warehouse several times with Dingwell and had seen Reid there twice. On only one of these occasions Arsenault was with them and on neither occasion because of his position in the warehouse did he see Reid receive any milk or see him leave.

At the out-set of the session Judge Trainor stated that courts are being steadily accused of slopiness in the presentation of cases both on the part of counsel and witness. He said, not directing his remarks particularly, that he would not have any cases presented in any way other than that specified by law and voiced his hope that no grounds would be laid as a basis for such accusations to be made against the Queen's County Court.

IN MEMORIAM

BELL—In loving memory of a dear Mother and Grandmother who passed away January 18, 1956.

In a graveyard softly sleeping
Close beside the country road
Lies the Mother we loved so dearly
Gone from us forever more
Sheltered on the Rock of Ages
Anchored on the Golden Shore
In the loving arms of Jesus
Rests our Mother forever more.

Always remember by son Alex, daughter-in-law Dot and grandchildren Alex and David.
