

Experimental Farm Booklet

The extensive work being carried on at the Experimental Farm is listed in a progress report recently prepared for the years 1948-1952. The booklet is issued by Mr. R. C. Parent, Superintendent of the Farm, and contains articles by all members of the technical staff who deal with their specialties.

Contained in the report is a picture of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II planting an English oak tree in commemoration of her visit to the Farm.

The report lists the various properties now owned by the Farm and indicates there are 381 acres.

One item of general interest to dairymen is the result of feeding experiments conducted to determine the relative value of potatoes fed to dairy cattle as compared to turnips. The conclusions reached were that raw, sliced potatoes can be used to replace turnips in the ration at the approximate rate of one pound of potatoes for two pounds of turnips when fed at the rate of 1-3-4 pounds per 100 pounds body weight.

A great deal of work is being done on the Farm in the matter of testing soils for fertility and in the use of various fertilizers. All aspects of Farm operations from animal husbandry to beekeeping are covered in the report.

P. E. I. Nurses Association Holds 33rd Annual Meeting At Montague

Sister Mary Irene, educational director of nursing at the Charlottetown Hospital was elected president of the P. E. I. Nurses Association at their 33rd annual meeting held at Montague yesterday. The morning, afternoon and evening sessions were attended by some seventy nurses from various hospitals and health centres in the Province.

Other officers elected were: first vice-president, Miss Ruth Ross, Charlottetown; second vice-president, Mrs. Vera MacDonald, Montague; honorary secretary, Florence MacLean; new councilors: Sister Mary David, Mr. Lois MacDonald, Mrs. Helen Bolger and Mrs. Laura Kitchen.

In the morning session, after the business reports were read and adopted, an interesting film entitled "Angottee" depicting the life of a young Eskimo boy from birth until manhood was shown. In the afternoon session the nurses were officially welcomed to Montague by Councillor Douglas McGowan, speaking in the unique manner of his Worship the Mayor B. H. Yeo, Minister of Education, also extended a welcome and wished the convention every success.

Following Mr. Clark's address, the president, Miss Vera Darach, and the secretary-treasurer, Miss Muriel Archibald submitted reports, summaries of which appear below. The highlight of the afternoon was the very excellent address given by Miss Frances MacQuarrie, secretary of nurses education for the national office of the C.N.A. Miss MacQuarrie dealt briefly with the effect of the changes in the by-laws of the association, and the trends in modern nursing education. She mentioned that one of the big changes brought about was the reduction of national committee from eleven to five. She said that the greatly approved of this for it will enable the association to move more smoothly as a unit and will eliminate to a great extent overlapping of committees.

Miss MacQuarrie made it known that the C.N.A. is endeavouring to produce better nurses, and for this reason has set up new, almost revolutionary, experimental schools which teach the nurse among many other things, leadership, which she believes the nurse greatly needs in order to take her place in the profession today. She said the nurses must be the co-ordinator of the nursing team which includes the student, the nursing assistant and the graduate nurse. She also emphasized the need of psychiatric training in the nurses curriculum.

EVENING SESSION

At the evening session, following a delicious dinner of roast chicken, Dr. Frank MacKinnon, principal of Prince of Wales College, gave an address, with the unique and startling title, "Florence Nightingale and the Maritime Economy."

Dr. MacKinnon spoke about Florence Nightingale's early life and drew a vivid parallel between it and the struggling Maritime economies. She should have never been called "the lady of the lamp" but rather "the lady with the blowtorch", because of the many idiotic customs and conventions of her day which she destroyed. Florence Nightingale had a very difficult life because she entered into a profession, considered then to be so unrespectable that judges often sentenced women criminals to work as nurses in hospitals as payment for some crime.

The speaker said that the Maritimes, too, had and are having a tough struggle for economic survival. Everything from geographic location to politics were and are against them. Trade bypassed them either through the St. Lawrence River or to the great American ports of Boston and New York. The coming of the railroad and steamship caused a great trend towards centralization and the big centres of in-

GENERAL COUNCIL VOTES APPROVAL OF CONTROVERSIAL CHURCH BOOKLET

By RAE CORELLI
Canadian Press Staff Writer
ACKVILLE, N.B. (CP) — The United Church of Canada's 18th general council wrote the climax to a spate of controversy over Roman Catholicism Tuesday by voting general approval of a booklet that contrasts the teachings of Protestantism and the Roman Catholic faith.

The 375 lay and clerical delegates commended the booklet to study by the country's 3,000,000 United Church followers and its ministers.

The council devoted the rest of the morning session to consideration of possible union with the Church of England and recommended that further talks toward that goal be held.

TALKS AT STANDSTILL

But, the conference was told, conversations are at a standstill because each denomination has given a "lukewarm reception" to practical suggestions for a mutually-acceptable ministry.

Dr. George Dorey of Toronto, newly-elected moderator, set the tone when he said in a voice quivering with emotion "we must come together or perish."

Dr. W. Harold Young of Toronto presented the report as chairman of the committee on union.

"There has been definite increase in fellowship and understanding in the last 10 years," he disclosed, "but there have been many disappointments." There was no sense of urgency in dealing with the question but he felt equally sure "that union will come."

The issue has been under study since 1944 and its eventual solution would see the formation of a unified Protestant Church whose members, both active and inactive, would total about 4,000,000. There are 6,000,000 Roman Catholics in Canada.

WOULD MEET ANGLICANS
Dr. Lloyd Smith of Montreal and Dr. E. Crossley Hunter of Toronto proposed that talks with the Anglicans continue in the fields of doctrine and policy.

The controversial booklet, which drew from James Cardinal McGulgan, archbishop of Toronto, the statement that it appeared to constitute an attack on the Roman Catholic Church, was placed before the council in the report of the committee on Christian faith by Rev. W. G. Berry of Toronto, the secretary.

Clergymen here, including the moderator, have said the booklet is not an attack on the Roman Catholic or any other church but rather an attempt to clarify the differences between the faiths.

Mr. Berry noted that Roman Catholics themselves issue invitations to others to investigate their faith.

Major events will be conducted every two weeks from January to June until the commencement of Centennial celebrations on June 15.

Other items agreed to include gifts to the first baby born in the city in 1955, beard growing contest, civic dinners, drama festivals and ice follies.

From June 15 to Labor Day it is planned to hold one event each day. This concentrated summer period will include sports events, historic tours, band concerts, special armed services events, historic pageants, art shows, carnivals, regattas, float parades and other entertainments.

British Cabinet Meets To Draw New Arms Policy

By STENLEY PRIDDLE
LONDON (Reuters)—The British cabinet met Tuesday to draw up the main lines of its policy for next week's nine-power conference here on West German rearmament.

Before it was a French memorandum setting out the proposals of French Premier Pierre Mendes-France for a European arms control organization as a safeguard against resurgence of German militarism.

This plan, a supplement to Britain's own proposal to bring a re-armed West Germany into the Atlantic and Brussels treaty organizations, is expected to dominate the four or five-day meeting opening next Tuesday.

No indication of the cabinet decisions was given after Tuesday's meeting. But diplomatic quarters here are hopeful that the nine foreign ministers will be able to agree on an alternative plan for rearming the German republic following the collapse of the European army plan.

The countries represented at the conference table will be Canada, Britain, the United States, France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

FRENCH PLAN DISCLOSED

Mendes-France outlined his proposals to the Council of Europe assembly in Strasbourg Monday. Under them, the continental members of an enlarged Brussels treaty organization—France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg—would have their arms production co-ordinated, inspected and controlled by a new body set up by the six powers and Britain. Agreed limits would be set for the national contributions to the Western defence organization on the Continent.

Britain's forces on the Continent would be subject to the supervisory powers of the new group, but her arms industry at home would be outside its authority.

The main difference in emphasis between the present British and French ideas centres on whether the principal responsibility for supervision should rest with the Brussels pact or the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Britain favors the 14-power alliance, France the smaller grouping.

In Bonn, authoritative sources said West Germany agrees with Britain that the new Eden pact will extend the Brussels pact and the Mendes-France plan for European armaments control provide a workable basis for the nine-power conference here.

Attend Credit Bureau Convention

Mr. Arthur Bullied, field executive

Mr. J. A. Vatcher, local representative

The Credit Bureau of Moncton was host to Credit Bureau managers representing St. John's, Newfoundland, Saint John and Fredericton in New Brunswick, Halifax and Truro in Nova Scotia and Charlottetown, P. E. I., at a two-convention Sept. 15 and 16 of the Maritime Unit of the Associated Credit Bureau of Canada.

The meeting presented many interesting panels and discussions of all phases of the credit and collection business. The special guest speaker, Mr. Arthur Bullied, (left) field executive of the Associated Credit Bureau of Canada, Toronto, who has recently completed a tour of the Western Canadian Bureaus, brought with him his broad experience which covered every aspect of credit as well as business conditions.

Following the convention, Mr. Bullied accompanied Mr. and Mrs.

J. A. Vatcher, owners of the local Credit Bureau, on their return trip to this City.

Mr. Bullied was delighted with Island scenery this being his first visit and was enthusiastic in his praise of the local Bureau with its large file and modern facilities dealing with all phases of consumer credit for the benefit of those so engaged.

Mr. Bullied commented that one of the most interesting things is its growth and development and congratulated Mr. Vatcher on the strides which have been made during the 12 years that this Bureau has been in operation.

It is understood that next convention will either be held in Halifax or Charlottetown.

The Credit Bureau of the Island is one of 82 such organizations of associated Credit Bureaus serving Canada from coast to coast.

For Comfort Wear Oxfords

TORONTO (CP) — For comfort, ladies, wear oxfords—as the Queen often did during her 1951 visit to Canada.

That's the advice of Florence Laxton, Toronto, on of 80 chiropodists attending the annual convention of the Canadian Association of Chiropodists.

"If the housewife would wear oxfords while doing the housework and the shopping, she'd find that her feet wouldn't get so tired and she would be better able to cope with dress shoes for evening," Miss Laxton said in an interview.

Men buy shoes for comfort and quickly discard any poorly fitting pair, she added.

"Not so with women. They buy for looks and fitting is secondary."

Reserve Decision On Bathurst Radio

OTTAWA (CP) — The CBC board of governors Tuesday reserved decision on an application for a radio station at Bathurst, N. B.

Three Bathurst business men—J. L. Hachey, A. J. Fenwick and R. C. Eddy—appeared in support of their application to establish the first radio station in the New Brunswick lumbering, fishing and mining community.

G. P. Robertson, representing radio station CKMR, Newcastle, N. B., sought a deferment until station CKMR completes an application to increase its power to 1,000 watts from 250 in order to serve Bathurst.

Mr. Hachey said Bathurst does not get a good radio signal from Newcastle. The Bathurst station also would serve the French population more effectively since operations were planned 60 per cent in English and the remainder in French.

Hon. C. G. Power, urging support for a power increase to 10,000 watts from 5,000 for radio station CJBK, Rimouski, Que., said there is constant interference with the station's signal, particularly from United States stations.

The board also reserved decision on that application.

Aitlee Tells

would think alike." The nations had been driven together by Nazi totalitarianism, but it would be fatal to "oppose one form of totalitarianism with another."

"Some people think there is something wrong in the belief of co-existence of the Communists and free democratic countries. Some people think we should not have visited China—on the ground, apparently, that it is wrong to understand China's point of view."

TOTALITARIAN ERROR
Red China was denied a seat in the UN "Not on the ground of aggression" but because it was communistic, Mr. Aitlee said.

Denial of recognition on the grounds of ideology alone was to "fall into the totalitarian error" that the free nations wanted to fight.

Mr. Aitlee repeated his statements made in recent interviews in newspaper articles that he feels the present Red China administration is run more efficiently and honestly than any of its predecessors.

Stating "I dislike communism intensely," Mr. Aitlee added "but whether the Chinese go Communist is a matter for them. We cannot dictate to them and they cannot dictate to us."

Communism had taken advantage of a rising feeling of nationalism in China—as in other Asiatic countries—to seize power and at the present time the regime has very close relations with Russia. But I don't think China is a mere satellite of Russia.

"Our feeling was that rulers of China have a very distinct will of their own," said Mr. Aitlee, who was accompanied on the tour by several other members of the British Labor party.

"But almost inevitably when a country is attacked she will fall back on what help she can get. Therefore, the more action taken against China by the Western powers, the more closely will she cling to Russia."
