Steel Framework Said On Schedule

SUMMERSIDE — Erection of the steel framework of the $300,000 Island Packers Ltd. fish processing plant is on schedule and the Oct. 31 building completion date can be easily met, said Edward Thornton, foreman of the M.F. Schurman Co. Ltd. project, yesterday.

The Nova Scotia produced steel framework arrived here Friday and a crew of six Ocean Steel men are now constructing the south and east walls of the Queens Wharf project.

The steel shell should be completed within three weeks said Mr. Thornton and then construction of the concrete walls and floors will begin.

Considered to be one of the finest plants of its kind in the Maritimes, the locally owned factory, when completed, will process, can and freeze all types of fish products.

The 162 by 75 foot building will have the latest processing equipment including vacuum sealers, automatic steam boilers, a quick freezing process and a sewage disposal system.

WELL DIFFICULTIES

The major problem at the construction site for the past two weeks has been the sinking of a 10-inch well by Douglas Brothers and Jones Ltd of Charlottetown.

The well diggers have gone a depth of 215 feet and have crossed only a couple of very limited water veins. "I guess we'll go as deep as we have to", said one construction man. "There must be water there somewhere, it's so close to the harbour."

The fact that there is a 60-foot well in the old fish plant, adjacent to the new construction, has the men wondering why they should have to go so deep only a few yards away.

Shareholders in the Island Packers Firm are: Fred Arsenault, Summerside; James Burden, Charlottetown; James Cousins, French River; and Everett Champion, Kensington.

Tractor Burns At Milburn

O'LEARY — A tractor owned by Harry MacDonald, Mount Royal, exploded and caught fire Monday evening near the home of Leon Woodside, at Milburn.

The machine which was practically demolished had just been started by Bill Cornish, O'Leary, who had driven it from the MacDonald farm where he is employed to the Woodside home where he had been visiting a short time before starting back to the MacDonald farm.

The flames around the tractor were extinguished by throwing dirt on them, but the O'Leary firemen arrived in time to extinguish the fire which had spread to nearby trees and bushes and to the electric leadin wires to the Woodside home.

The explosion and fire occurred about 10 p.m. The cause was not immediately known.

TURNIP CROP IN TROUBLE

Root Maggots Develop Resistance To Poisons

A strain of root maggots resistant to poisons generally used in turnip, cabbage and cauliflower fields is the reason for the losses being suffered by turnip growers currently, Dean Read, research officer at the Experimental Farm said yesterday.

Mr. Read, a specialist in the study of turnip insects and their control, said that 5,000 times the amount of poison that used to kill the insects does not have any noticeable effect on the resistant ones.

But he said the chemicals—aldrin and heptachlor are still effective when applied properly.

Mr. Read will lead discussions at two farm meetings called for Friday morning to deal with the current situation in turnips. He will deal in depth with the proper methods of application and turnip growers will get a first hand look at what has happened in areas where the broadcast fertilizer-aldrin mixtures have been applied "as compared with the results in areas where the poison has been used as it should be used".

MEETS PLANNED

The first meeting is scheduled for 9:30 at the farm of Douglas MacPhail, Argyle Shore and the second at 10.30 a.m. on the farm of Jack Nelder, Tryon.

For those interested in attending from the eastern part of the province a limited number of cars will be leaving Birch Court at the Experimental Farm at 8.30 a.m.

Mr. Read said the maggots have developed a resistance because of the repeated annual use of broadcast fertilizer-aldrin mixtures which actually are "far more poisonous to beneficial predators and parasites than to the root maggots".

"There are five different insects that normally destroy root maggots and prevent epidemic outbreak of the pest", Mr. Read said.

"However, the broadcast aldrin-fertilizers have just about eliminated these predators from treated fields. These simply aren't any of them left in the fields to destroy the pests, and infestations are much heavier than if no insecticide at all had been applied."

"In areas where farmers have applied aldrin or heptachlor as it is recommended to be used, good control of maggot injury is still being obtained".

Mr. Read added, "It is far better in the long run to go to a little work in the spring and apply the poisons properly than to lose not only the money invested in seed but the whole crop as well."

HANDLING CARE

He said new insecticides are now available for use in controlling the root maggots that are resistant to aldrin and heptachlor. One of these materials is about 25,000 times as poisonous to root maggots as heptachlor. However, these new materials must be handled with more care than aldrin or haptachlor; they must be put in the row in a narrow band below the seed at time of planting; and if they are not handled properly there is more danger of resistance developing against them than there was against aldrin.

Friday's meetings were called yesterday by department of agriculture field worker David W. Rogers. Mr. Rogers said that while turnip losses are not occurring in all parts of the province they are widespread in turnip growing areas.

"This meeting," he said, will be held rain or shine and affords an excellent opportunity to discuss one of the major problems of the turnip industry".

Dom. Drama Festival Seeks Program Design

When the Dominion Drama Festival comes to Charlottetown next May, as the first event to be staged in the exciting new theatre of the Fathers of Confederation Memorial Building, it is hoped that the cover design of the programs, will be the work of a Maritime artist.

The Festival Committee has announced that cover designs will be received from now until the middle of September. These will be judged by a committee headed by Prof. T. M. Lothian of Prince of Wales College.

A typical Prince Edward Island or Maritime motif should be interwoven with a theatrical theme. Lettering in both English and French with the words, "Dominion Drama Festival" should appear, either as part of the design, or on a separate sheet.

The size should be approximately 8¼ by 11 and two colors only be used, if desired, by the artist.

No special prizes have been offered, as the committee feels that the honor of having the design chosen to appear on the program cover each night of the week, during the Dominion Drama Festival, and having it seen by so many prominent Canadians, will be an impetus for Maritime artists to produce some fine work for this cover design which will be recognized by artists in other parts of Canada.

It is hoped at a later date, to have a window display in Charlottetown, showing designs produced by artists in other parts of Canada which have appeared in past seasons for the Dominion Drama Festival program cover. Some of these are extremely beautiful and interesting in their choice of theme.

Designs may be sent to R. W. Manning at R. R. Doane and Co., 134 Richmond Street in Charlottetown, the executive chairman of the Dominion Drama Festival Committee and any further information may be obtained from T. M. Lothian, Crestwood Drive, Charlottetown
