Double Ring Ceremony Unites A Happy Couple

The church of the Most Holy Redeemer, Charlottetown, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Sept. 10th, when Eileen Marion, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley A. Miller, Charlottetown, was united in holy bonds of matrimony with Frederick Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Braden Keefe, Bloomfield, P. E. I.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Moreau, E.S.S.R. Mr. Alex MacLean was organist for the occasion and Miss Patsy Leightizer rendered appropriate hymns during the ceremony. The altar was beautifully decorated with pink and white gladioli. The sanctuary and altar rail had large baskets of gladioli in harmonizing shades.

The guests pews were marked with gladioli caught in high bows of white satin ribbon and streamers. The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked charming in her floor length gown of white nylon net and Chantilly lace and satin. The three tier bouffant skirt fell gracefully from the tightly fitted bodice of Chantilly lace. The scalloped neckline was trimmed with iridescent sequins and pearls. The sleeves were long and tapering. A very pretty feature of bouffant skirt was the alternate rows of lace and net.

Her chapel length veil of nylon silk illusion fell gracefully from a coronet of iridescent sequins and pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses. Her only jewellery was a pair of small pearl earrings. Miss Norma Miller sister of the bride, was maid of honour. Her waltz-length gown of light blue net over taffeta was gracefully draped and caught with delicate pink and blue beads with matching headdress and mitts. She carried a nosegay of blue and white feathered carnations.

Miss Eileen Murphy was bridesmaid. She wore a waltz-length gown of blue taffeta with net of pink and silver leaves. The headdress and mitts were matching. She carried a nosegay of blue and white feathered carnations. Miss Brenda MacKay, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a mint green floor length ruffled gown of organdie with matching headdress and mitts and carried a basket of tiny garden fresh garden flowers.

Mr. Ralph Keefe, brother of the groom, was best man. Mr. Lorne Hennessey, brother-in-law, of the bride, and Mr. Emmette Foley, cousin of the groom were ushers.

Mrs. Miller chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of tuscany rose lace with black and gold accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Queen Hotel for upwards of 60 guests. The bride's table was centered with a three tier wedding cake beautifully decorated and topped with a miniature bride and groom flanked by tall white tapers and vases of mixed summer flowers.

Mr. Ralph Keefe was toast master and called upon Rev. Father Moreau, C.S.S.R., to propose the toast to the bride and was responded to by the groom. Several telegrams of congratulations were read by the toast master. During the reception Mr. Alex MacLean played beautiful background music. Following the reception the guests moved to the small dining room where a social was held from where they departed to the bride's home. Mrs. Lorne Hennessey, sister of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

The bride gave her maid of honour a crystal rosary and to her bridesmaid a cross and chain. The groom's gift to the best man and ushers was a golf set of cuff links and matching tie clip. The groom's gift to the bride was an iridescent rosary.

For going away the bride chose a yellow suit with burnt orange accessories. Her corsage was of white and yellow carnations.

SCRUTINIZE BUDGET
DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A record budget got the scrutiny of the United Lutheran Church in America's 700 convention delegates Tuesday. The church's executive board wants approval of $12,380,160 in 1959 and $14,216,490 the following year. Because the convention meets only once every two years, the entire $26,596,650 figure must be considered. The 1958-59 budget is $25,113,400.

ELLEN'S DIARY

We Here Call It Death To Them 'Tis Life Beyond

"There couldn't be a nicer October day than this, could there?" Mack commented this morning, looking up from tossing furnace-sticks from a trailer to the cellar, when we came to the verandah close by.

"Here's not a breath of wind!" Gage his companion in industry offered.

"Everything is still." Sunny, warm, beautiful... what more could October do!

"There!", Gage exclaimed "I must catch that, just to see what it's like." He hastened off for a moment to try to capture a magic wisp of gossamer floating elusively out of his reach.

He is an active fellow, quick of movement and fond of the open. The outdoors to him is a preferred book. He can shinny up to heights of buildings or tree fearlessly, and smile down. He has a decided yen and art with weapons and with bow and arrow or small gun has a marksmanship that... more often than not can find his exact target. And "how old must I be before I can have a real gun?" is a question now close to his heart.

With Mack his boon companion and admirer he "tracks" a long stream and grove. We see them too play Indian hunters, soft footed, "went along the yards slipping swiftly behind the shelter of a tree-bolt, advancing, retreating, and altogether having an enjoyable time in their years, in the golden young land of make-believe.

Until James calls with a chuckle. "Come away from that silliness! That's for small ones. Let me get to work!"

Another lad is much in mind in homes of the community these days—one whose lifework came recently to an end. Death came stealthily, suddenly to this boy-of-once, a big, strong, an apparently rugged man. He was American born of Island parents, a schoolboy when the family returned from a home of some years in the States to take up farming in his Dad's native district. He was bright and gifted above many, and blessed with an infectious sense of humor.

At length after school and college days were over, the land of his birth again claimed him. There time brought him a home and family, many advancements and every success in his administrative position in business.

Yet in vacation time it was usual for him to turn to the Island farm, and loved ones, to be a lad of the place once again. The Thanksgiving season was to have brought him. But cherished hopes and plans were not to be realized. This time, the loved ones must go to his side. Sadly...

not to receive from him so much as a word or a welcoming smile. Only memories remain. And this community and those neighboring, and many an Island relative and friend mourns these Autumn days, because one of its homes has so suddenly suffered bereavement, a "pleasant family circle been broken, a good son and brother, a nice chap, left everyone and everything and gone the way of all flesh... out toward Eternity's shores. "Our dear ones vanish. Peacefully they glide On level seas. Nor mark the unknown bound. We call it Death—To them 'tis Life beyond." Until tomorrow — — — Diary. Good-night.
