

Financial Aid

by Nancy Comeau

The term certainly has flown by! It is hard to believe this is the final issue of the SUN for the season. Since it is I would like to say congratulations to the staff of the paper for a job well done!

I would also like to emphasize that it is well worth your while to check into the sources of financial aid if you are continuing your studies in September. There is money available which is tenable at any recognized university in Canada or elsewhere.

If you can't make time to stop by Student Services in these last couple of weeks, do keep it in mind for early September.

Below are a couple of scholarships which might be of interest.

Summer jobs

The mercenary soldiers recruiting officer will be on campus (next week) giving a presentation to interested prospective applicants. Sargeant Killjoy says "I know how hard it is to get good paying jobs for the summer, but you know, there's good money in war".

He went on to say that the number of applicants from Canadian Universities has been encouraging, "I now see that university conditions are creating the right kind of people who will kill for money." An outdoor demonstration will follow the presentation.

Fortunately, I have been able to reach many of the Seniors in order to offer employment services especially during this their graduating year. However, there are still many I have not reached and would like to make another attempt at it now.

Most graduates should have prepared a resume by now. There have been dozens of classes in "resume writing" throughout the academic year. If you still have not prepared your resume, you may sign up for the next session by leaving your name at the Canada Employment Centre in Main Building. This should be done prior to April 17th, if at all possible.

There is another session called "How to Avoid Being Hired". This is a session most graduates would benefit from. Some of these have already been given and have proved to have quite an impact on most students! The idea is to cover the many things we can do at an interview (approximately 49) that can "blow" the interview for us. It is quite amazing how many bad interview habits we have picked up along the way. As well, if a student feels s/he will have a struggle with interviews even after the session, I am quite willing to do a taped "mock" interview with them. Usually, that final step makes you more than ready to face the "real" thing.

The next session will take place Wednesday, April 15th at 1:30 p.m., and I must ask that names be left with us by Friday, April 10th.

I look forward to meeting the Seniors I have not met at that time. I feel by meeting with you there that this will also facilitate my getting to know you and your career aspirations thereby making the job matching process easier for both of us.
