TOURISTS LIKE ISLAND BUT DISLIKE WEATHER

By JEAN MacISAAC
 Guardian - Patriot Staff Writer
 The tourist season is a memory as winter closes in, and the pleasant and "island atmosphere" in a place not too commercialized and "cluttered" by advertising. Some found the island "very restful and relaxing". Many visitors praised the lovely beaches, but several said the water was too cold. One commented on the good camping areas and another said the weather was not enough. The "great big mosquitos" came in for a barb. The hospitality and scenery was remarkable according to one tourist, others described the landscape as "enchanting or beautiful". There was a praise for the highways, food and courteous service, as well as the hospitality of island people.

During the months of July and August, around 15,500 signed the visitors book at the Confederation Chambers. There were 17,000 to 18,000 during the whole season, and this year there were more visitors than last, it was stated. However, it was estimated that probably only one third of the visitors to the Confederation Chambers. Woodleigh in Burlington had an increase of 12 to 14 per cent it was reported, with an excess of 40,000 visitors. Excluding children this came to around 30,000 paying guests.

Chapter Of Community Planning Ass'n Mooted

Establishment of a provincial chapter of the Community Planning Association of Canada will be decided upon at a dinner meeting here, tentatively scheduled for Nov. 25. Frank J. Broey, chairman of a steering committee for the purpose, said yesterday.

Representatives of every community in the province will be invited, with the intention of attempting to organize county associations, each with a membership including the various communities within it. If a decision is reached to go ahead with the plans, it is believed a state of officers for the provincial organization will be brought before the coordinating meeting here with the intention of having the newly-elected officials carry on the work of the association.

In explaining the reasons for the meeting, Mr. Broey said "every citizen should be interested in the future of his community, and that takes planning." He added that this was the only province in Canada without such a community planning organization.

Chief Justice Pays Tribute To Late MLA, S.S. Hessian, QC

SUMMERSIDE - Chief Justice Theobald Campbell paid tribute to the late S. S. Hessian JA, QC yesterday.

Chief Justice Campbell said: "Before proceeding to tribute the court pauses to pay tribute to its late practicing member of the bar. The late Stephen Stanley Hessian was admitted to the bar in 1916 and was second in seniority only to J. Augustus Bentley, who has not practiced actively in recent years."

"My acquaintance with Mr. Hessian and his family dates back to the remote days when I was attending Prince of Wales College, and I have followed with interest his professional and political career ever since. Perhaps our most intimate contact was from 1955 to 1959, when he was speaker of the Legislative Assembly, a position which he filled with dignity and competence in the somewhat unusual situation of the absence of any official opposition."

"In public life Mr. Hessian was devoted to the interests of Kings County, and he had his thumb closely upon the pulse of the whole of the province. As a member of the Legislature, he removed a colorful and valued figure from the public affairs of the province. The court extends its sincere sympathy to his sorrowing widow and son."

Several members of the Summerside bar were present. J. Watson MacNaught, QC, on behalf of the bar members, expressed their sentiments. He stated that he could remember when he was attending Prince of Wales College in 1920. When he was sitting in the gallery of parliament house when Mr. Hessian, as he called him, "that tall handsome gentleman" rose to move the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

"The late Mr. Hessian had as his most predominate characteristic the unwillingness to accept the status quo," said Mr. MacNaught. "We assume that because a rule of conduct has been developed over the years, that is correct. Mr. Hessian was not willing to accept this. He questioned customs and rules that were not proper."
