ELLEN'S DIARY

The Gusty North Winds Bring Many Windfalls

It is a gusty night-wind, that now blows about our eaves, and which passing leaves, like a n electrical storm of the hot summer days in the wake of its flashes and rumblings, a momentary quiet between gusts. James looks up from his reading in the armchair.

"We won't put any more sticks on the fire, Ellen," he says. "With the wind as it is, it's better to let it go out. If the fire were to catch - and it's at a time like this - are you apt to think of the..."

It is, we think, as well not to picture such consequences, just to take any and every precaution against any such a probability.

And the old house sighs a bit and settles, we fancy, closer to the foundations of stout sills and mortared stone, set there by its builders, though without their knowing it, for this farmer of the line, and his wife, who came to it by way of the old school down the River Road, on a summer since long gone.

"I'm thinking this will try some roofs," James offers over his paper. "Shingles will lift."

"And the orchards? There won't be many apples left on the boughs?" we say, remembering those which of late in ours redening prettily for winter use, made an engaging picture against the sharp blue of the October sky.

"That's true. There will be plenty of windfalls."

"Odd times a blown leaf strikes the window. And in the yard-lights, the lawn trees bend heads in the gusts."

MARY HAWORTH

Careful Planning Helps Marriage To Succeed

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am expecting my fifth child. Our family is lucky in that we all have good health. But the balance of our good fortune is due to sensible planning and hard work - not to "plain luck" as many of our married friends insist.

My friends say I am lucky that I don't have to work outside the home. But the truth is, I budget carefully and these other wives don't.

Also, my husband is a skilled blue collar worker while their husbands didn't bother to get advanced education or vocational training. He works 50 to 55 hours a week, while their husbands work only 40 hours a week. They married despite limited earning potential, while I looked for a better-than-average man.

For religious reasons my husband and I can't invoke secular-type birth control measures to limit the size of our family, though we do behave responsibly within the format of our church's teaching. Still, our friends attribute our comfortable life to "just plain luck".

Please comment. G. V.

DEAR G. V.: This said that the Lord helps those who help themselves. And the only ingredient that I see missing in your tested recipe for good fortune, as cited above, is recognition of God as the giver of all good things.

But perhaps this vital ingredient of good fortune is so taken for granted by you, so absolutely implicit in your conduct of life, that you simply forgot to write it out here.

Much human experience, including indeed the documented histories of the lives of saints, indicates that so-called "plain luck" and hard work do not valent of "fools rushing in where angels would fear to tread." Worse yet, the true motivation of such talebearing more often is malicious rather than remedial in spirit. Hence my view: Beware of it. M. H.

District Officers' Course Held By WI At Valleyfield

A district officers' course was held at Ellerslie on Friday, October 21st in the United Church Hall. Registration began at 10:00 a.m. with Mrs. L. G. Ramsay as registrar.

Mrs. Ray Drinnan, convener of Health and Welfare, presided and introduced the members of the executive who were present namely: Mrs. Arthur Campbell provincial president, Mrs. Clarence Marchbank, convener of agriculture, Mrs. Frank Ross, citizenship and education, Mrs. Walter Dixon, first vice-president, Mrs. Ernest Machon, home economics, Mrs. L. G. Ramsay past president, Mrs. Frank Baugnall, editor of Institute News.

Mrs. Arthur Campbell gave a short address in which she explained to the women the reasons for holding these "District Officers Courses" one of which is that it enables the members of the different institutes and the members of the provincial executive to keep in touch and to get to know each other.

Mrs. Ernest Machon took charge of the discussion groups which then formed to study different aspects of the work, and to ask questions. Mrs. Earl MacKay, Sea View, was secretary of one group, Mrs. Don Marchbanks, New Annapolis, was secretary of the second group. Others taking part were: Mrs. Edwin Waugh, New Annapolis; Mrs. James Livingstone, Tyne Valley; Mrs. Ray Adams, Sea View; Mrs. Bursleigh, Ellerslie; Mrs. Miller, Ellerslie; and some of the members of the executive.

Great interest was shown by all taking part and several questions were carefully examined one being whether it is feasible, or more convenient to the women to hold the provincial convention at some other time than July as has been the custom. Some favored May, before the district conventions, while others thought September (before Labor Day) would be appropriate. Following this the problem of a place to meet was discussed. Prince of Wales auditorium is vacant, in July, but also, if the convention lasted for only one day as was one idea advanced, the problem of catering was considered, as no one would be able to leave the meeting for any length of time if the required amount of business was to be brought to a satisfactory end.

Ways were discussed of getting the members at large and the members of the executive better acquainted on a personal basis. It was suggested that if a member of the executive lives in a certain area the institutes in that area could invite her upon occasion to share their meeting, not necessarily as a guest speaker but just to talk to interchange ideas, and to become really acquainted.

Mrs. Campbell then addressed the meeting in the interest of the FWIC. She expressed regret that Mrs. Philip Matheson, National President of FWIC could not be present owing to illness in the home. She drew the attention of the meeting to an article in Federated News, by Mrs. Matheson concerning her trip to the Women's Institute in the North West Territories where this year for the first time the Institute Women held a convention, at which Mrs. Matheson was privileged to be present.

This summed up the morning session. A hot turkey dinner was then served by the members of the Bideford Women's Institute. Mrs. Ray Drinnan again presided at the afternoon session and called upon various members of the executive to bring to the meeting several pertinent ideas.

Mrs. Arthur Campbell explained the specific duties and responsibilities of "District Officers". Mrs. Clarence Marchbank spoke on the duties of the presidents, Mrs. Dixon, on the duties of the secretaries and Mrs. Frank Ross, spoke on the subject "Planning for a District Convention." She pointed out that the very latest date to have a planning meeting should be in January - not later.

It was suggested as a centennial project that each district area, sponsor a delegate to the National Convention which meets in Guelph, Ont., in July, 1967. Mrs. Machon then took the last four questions to be considered and divided the meeting into groups, after which their opinions and findings were then fully discussed.

Mrs. Campbell in closing the meeting drew the attention of the women, to the fact that there

JOHN BARLOW AUDREY WAGNER ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. William Wagner, East Bideford, wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Audrey Carol to John Harold Barlow, son of Mrs. Emmerson Barlow, Ellerslie, and the late Mr. Barlow. is a serious shortage of help in the office. After the end of October, there will be no supervisor, as acting director Mrs. Bernice Blanchard, who has so kindly filled in since Theresa MacLeod's resignation will not be able to carry on further. Also, there is no one at present to carry on the work on the van. Therefore the present executive is carrying an extra load of responsibility and she's asked for understanding on the part of the members. Much effort is being made to remedy these circumstances.

Mrs. Ramsay brought in her report of the registration, and also moved a vote of thanks to the ladies of the Bideford Institute for their excellent dinner and kind hospitality, after which the meeting adjourned.
