

Gauthier-Perry Wedding

A wedding of interest took place on Oct. 31, 1951 at the Church of the Most Holy Redeemer of Mary Aurella, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Perry, Tignish, to James Alfred, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gauthier, Charlottetown.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a navy blue suit, with pink accessories, also carrying a white prayer book, with white streamers tipped with white lilies.

Her niece, Sadie Perry, as bridesmaid, wore a grey suit with navy accessories.

The groomsmen were Mr. Herbert Gauthier, cousin of the groom.

The marriage was performed by Rev. Father A. MacLellan.

Following the wedding ceremony, breakfast was served at the Queen Hotel, where many guests were present.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was presented a floor lamp and a set of book-ends, from the staff of the Rendezvous where she is employed.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Gauthier left the following day for a trip to Annapolis Valley, where they were guests of the groom's sister, Mrs. Herman Marshall.

New Naval Staff Chief

Vice-Admiral E. Rolfe Mainguy, O.B.E., C.D., R.C.N., right, became Chief of the Naval Staff of Canada December 1, succeeding Vice-Admiral Harold T. W. Grant, C.B.E., D.S.O., C.D., R.C.N., who has proceeded on retirement leave after 37 years of service.

heard in the solo, "The Toorie on his Bonnet", and heartily encored. A one-act play, in three scenes, "Henry's Mail-Order Wife", featured Fred Semple as Henry, who finds himself in something of a dilemma when Jim Jones, (Blair Heeschen) to win a bet, appears as Mrs. Tucker, the mail-order wife.

Since Blair makes a very convincing female, in more than one sense of the word, it is not surprising that Henry and the minister, (Arnold Walker) were persuaded into going through the marriage ceremony, although the "lady" was hardly the type he wanted for a wife, especially as he had already seen the real Mrs. Tucker, (Gladys Semple).

However, although the plot held surprises for everybody, all were happy in the end, Jim Jones won his bet and the audience got good entertainment and a good laugh, as they always do when this group stages a play.

Actors in the well chosen play were Fred Semple and Keith Thompson as the two bachelors, Henry and Ade, Gertrude Crozier, Becky Simpson, unmarried neighbor ranch owner, Blair Heeschen as Jim Jones, another neighbor, Arnold Walker as the minister and Gladys Semple as Mrs. Tucker.

To round out a well balanced concert, the choir sang a number of well loved Scottish songs, with duets by Mrs. Fred Semple and Miss Marion Lockhart, and solos by Mr. Edson Raynor very pleasingly rendered.

Mr. H. B. MacLeod in the role of chairman, added much to the good cheer and atmosphere of the evening with stories and remarks, all with a Scottish flavour.

After the concert, the visiting artists were entertained by the Ladies' Aid who served delicious refreshments. The visitors were welcomed by Mr. Fred Semple and Mr. Edson Raynor. The Rev. Mr. Evans also spoke briefly and Mrs. Roper responded.

The acting president, Mr. Fred Semple, and secretary, Miss MacKinnon, and the other members of the choir and Young Adults are to be congratulated on assembling this excellent concert, the program of which follows:—

Gregory-Stewart Wedding

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at Trinity United Church on October 17 when Lois Mae Stewart, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Gray and Warren (Cuddie) Gregory, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gregory were united in the holy bonds of matrimony.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. H. E. D. Ashford.

The bride was attired in a light blue gabardine suit with pink and navy accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses. She was attended by her sister Vera who wore a blue suit with navy accessories. Her corsage was of American Beauty roses.

The best man was Harold Gregory, brother of the groom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Sandy's for the immediate family and friends.

The bride's table was attractively arranged with pink and white carnations and centered with a three-tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom. The toast was proposed by Rev. H. E. D. Ashford, and responded to by the groom.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Gregory left on a wedding trip to Calais, Maine, and various points in the Maritimes. They will reside in Charlottetown.

CAVENDISH W. M. S.

The November meeting of the Cavendish Auxiliary of the W.M.S. met at the Manse on Wednesday evening, Nov. 21st.

The secretary, Mrs. Milton Green was in charge of the worship service and used the theme, "Canada". The opening hymn was "Lord of the Lands Make Canada Thine Own", which is really a prayer calling everyone to strive as citizens of Canada for justice, righteousness and freedom.

Mrs. Green was assisted by Mrs. Alfred Moore, Mrs. Olaf Stevenson, Miss Betty MacKenzie, Mrs. Lorne MacNeill and Mrs. Ira McCoubrey who read portions of Scripture from the Prophets showing their demand for social righteousness of Jesus who proclaimed His ministry one of social emancipation.

Mrs. Lorne MacNeill led in prayer for fellow Christians in Japan and Korea, remembering the missionaries, especially Dr. Florence Murray.

The study, based on "From Lakes to Northern Lights" was then taken up and with the aid of a map, Mr. Alfred Moore as leader and Miss Geo. McCoubrey and Mrs. Geo. Gough as guide and Church Extension expert, took an airplane trip, stopping at some of the mission centres and telling of what

Burgess Bedtime Stories

Continued from page 10 that way. I guess Johnny would have a hard time trying to get enough to eat if he were awake through the winter. It does seem queer though that any one can sleep and sleep the way he does.

Little Mrs. Peter nodded. "It does seem queer," she admitted. "But it is no more queer for Johnny Chuck to sleep that way, than for the others who do it."

"What others?" asked Peter, opening his eyes a little wider.

"Grandfather Frog, for one," said Mrs. Peter.

"Oh!" said Peter lamely. "And his cousin, Old Mr. Toad, for another," said Mrs. Peter.

"I had forgotten about them," said Peter. "Yes, sir, I had forgotten all about them. Of course they couldn't get a thing to eat in the winter. Anyway they don't have any fur coats and I guess they would freeze to death."

"And there are the Snake folk," said Mrs. Peter. "They couldn't find anything to eat either, so they go to sleep for the winter."

"So they do," admitted Peter. "My dear, I hadn't thought of them. I guess it is a lucky thing for them that Old Mother Nature does put them to sleep."

Little Mrs. Peter nodded. "Of course," said she. "But I'm glad that I don't have to be put to sleep if you ask me, folks who sleep all winter only half live. Sleeping isn't really living. We may have hard times and go cold and hungry, but at least we are alive and know it. I guess Old Mother Nature isn't as unfair as she sometimes seems to be. I guess she knows what we need better than we know ourselves."

"My dear, I guess you are right. The way you put things makes them look altogether different. I guess those that sleep must do it so that they can live, but they do miss a lot. Yes, sir, they do miss a lot. You are quite right about that, my dear," declared Peter. He began to chuckle.

"What are you chuckling about?" asked Mrs. Peter.

"I would hate awfully to get as fat as Johnny Chuck does in order to sleep," chuckled Peter.

Successful Concert At Kensington

The choir and young adults of Kensington Presbyterian Church once more sponsored an entertainment of the first quality, for which they are noted. This was in honor of the anniversary of St. Andrew, and every minute proved a delight both to the Scots and others, for it seemed that for one night at least, it was as that master of the art of chairmanship, Mr. H. B. MacLeod of Burlington, told the audience, "There are only two kinds of people in the world, the Scotch and those who wish they were."

A rare treat indeed were the numbers put on by W.O. I W. B. Burke, whose career of 30 years' service for his country includes service in the Navy in the first Great War, and service in the Army in the second Great War, when he taught pipers and buglers. Pipe Master Burke is now a well known building contractor in Charlottetown, and four of his sons are following in their father's footsteps, and are at present all in their country's service. Not all of his sons and daughters are so engaged, however, for five of them with another talented artist, Margaret Rhynes, joined with their father on this occasion, November 29th, to put on a show which will long be remembered by an audience packing the King George Hall to its doors.

It appeared in solo performances that Heather, only "so high", and brother Tommie, a little older, possibly five, had stolen the show, but numbers by the older boys and girls thrilled the audience anew. Then the six appeared together and all were utterly charming as well as amazing in their varied talents.

Dancing also to Pipe Master Burke's music, four of Mrs. John MacKinnon's pupils, Margaret Rodd, Barbara Kennedy, Caryl Weeks and Dawn Weeks delighted the audience. These young ladies, billed as the "Winsloe Girls", put on a performance far from disappointing to those who were realizing for the first time a long-felt wish to see some of Mrs. MacKinnon's "girls" in action.

Another well known artist, Mrs. Arthur Roper of Charlottetown, gave a vivid word picture of the amazement expressed by each of his associates on the day "Mr. Brown Had His Hair Cut". As an encore, her impersonation of a little boy "Seeing Things at Night" conjured up visions of ghosts and goblins. Mrs. Roper also sang a well received solo.

An ever popular Scottish soloist and impersonator, Mrs. Alfred MacKay, now of Long River, was heard in the solo, "The Toorie on his Bonnet", and heartily encored.

A one-act play, in three scenes, "Henry's Mail-Order Wife", featured Fred Semple as Henry, who finds himself in something of a dilemma when Jim Jones, (Blair Heeschen) to win a bet, appears as Mrs. Tucker, the mail-order wife.
