

N. B. and P. E. Island Methodist Conference.

SECOND DAY.

(Special Correspondence of the Examiner.)

Conference sat for two hours with closed doors and finished the examination of ministerial character. Afterwards a committee was appointed to nominate all the Conference Committees. Thanks were accorded to the persons who prepared last year's pastoral address. In answer to the question who are to be received into full connection and ordained, the names of Revs. Theo. Williams, H. Penna, and Thos. Stebbins were reported. Revs. W. B. Thomas, C. S. Wells and A. Hagerty were reported to have been three years on probation. Rev. A. D. McCully, B. A., was considered to be on his last year of probation. After a lengthy discussion, permission was given for him to go to the Sackville College for the ensuing year. Revs. W. C. Johnstone, A. B., D. Davies Moore, A. B., and J. W. Wadman, A. B., were reported to have been on probation one year. Rev. A. C. Bell was continued on the President's list of reserve. Some time was spent in perfecting the arrangements for the Sabbath appointments, and the Conference adjourned. The afternoon was given up to meetings of several committees.

On Thursday evening a most interesting meeting of the Educational Society was held in the Centenary Church, under the Chairmanship of Prof. Burwash, Sackville. There was a large attendance. The report read by the Rev. T. J. Deinstadt showed an increase of about $30. Rev. D. Chapman followed in an able speech pleading the advantages of higher education. He spoke very strongly upon the necessity of educating the whole man—physically, intellectually and morally. Then came Rev. E. Evans, in a speech of wonderful power. He maintained that the Apostles of our Lord were the best trained men of their times for the work that they had to perform. By sound arguments and apt illustrations he fairly proved his proposition. So delighted was the audience with him that when he attempted to sit down he was requested to go on again, which he did to the great pleasure of all. Rev. Dr. Stewart urged the claims of a sound ministerial culture. Only well trained men can properly refute the various errors that are abroad, and defend the great truths of the Bible. His speech was a model of argumentative ability and appropriate illustration. Benediction was pronounced by the President.

THIRD DAY.

After devotional exercises the question was asked: What candidates are now received on trial? Answer: Revs. Samson B. Gregg, B. A., and Thomas Pierce. One recommendation from a district was rejected.

The Rev. S. F. Huestis, ex-President of Nova Scotia Conference, and Book Stewart elect, along with Rev. I. A. Rogers, Secretary of N. S. Conference, were requested to take seats on the platform. Mr. Huestis asked the co-operation of the brethren with him in the office to which he had been elected. He also said that he had several matters to bring before the Conference at an early date. Mr. Rogers referred to the happy and harmonious conference that they had had at Truro. In answer to the question, who have died during the year? the name of the was read. A very appropriate biographic minute respecting him was read. Then reference to his piety, distinguished abilities, enthusiasm for work, and intense sympathy were made by Revs. F. Smallwood, Dr. Stewart, Jer. V. Jost, D. D. Currie, S. F. Huestis, J. S. Allen, H. Sprague, A. M., Dr. Pickard, Dr. Pope, and J. Prince. This was a most touching service. Several times the brethren's feelings overcame them. It was directed that the Conference letter writers send a letter of condolence to Mrs. Hart.

Several notices of motions were given. Who are the supernumeraries? Revs. Geo. B. Payson, who now retires from the active work, Dr. Pope, J. Prince, J. R. Narraway, A. M., J. A. Clarke, A. M., S. W. Sprague, H. Daniel, Dr. Pickard, J. J. Colter, who now retires, F. W. Harrison, who has been recommended to seek another climate for a time, F. Smallwood, and J. V. Jost. Permission was given for Revs. W. B. Thomas, A. D. McCully, B. A., and J. F. Estey to attend the college at Sackville. Several reports were brought in and passed and the Conference adjourned.

A WALKING MATCH, against time, is to be held in the Market Hall, to-morrow (Tuesday) at 7.30 p. m., by Mr. Leggett, the square heel and toe walker of the Maritime Provinces. Mr. Leggett informs us that if he fails to walk 25 miles in four hours and 15 minutes, he will give $50 to any charitable institution in the city. As this will be the last chance to see Mr. Leggett walk, we would advise those who have not as yet seen him walk to attend. A good Band will be in attendance. There is no doubt great travelling will be seen.

FARMERS—Stock Machine Oil is recommended by three-fourths of the Mowing Machine manufacturers as the best and cheapest oil for all machine work. You can get it at the Family Grocery.—R. K. BRACE. [j 28

HORSES FOR U. S.—Last week Mr. A. Holmes exported to Portland, Maine, three heavy cart horses, which he selected in this Province for a firm in-Portland. They were very superior animals.

At the Stipendiary Magistrate's Court this forenoon, Daniel Millar, of Rocky Point, was fined twenty dollars and costs for selling potatoes from an illegal measure.

We are pleased to learn that the Government have purchased the estate of Mrs. Brennan and Miss Flora McDonald on Lot 35.

I.O.O.F.—The election of officers for St. Lawrence Lodge for the ensuing term will be held at Oddfellows's Hall, Queen Street, this evening at 8 o'clock.

Dreadful Accident at Souris.

It was last Saturday evening. The bustle of the week was ended and the people of Souris were preparing for the advent of the sacred Day of Rest. The hour for the arrival of the train was just approaching, when a solitary cow might be seen wending her way in the direction of the railroad track. She appeared thoughtful and dejected—inclined to quiet reflection and much ruminating. For several consecutive years she had been a patient and consistent stripper, and was dear to her owner for the multitude of her milk. Trained, as if for an athletic contest, no superfluous flesh encumbered her movements or destroyed the beautiful symmetry of her framework. Long had her face been familiar to the oldest inhabitant of Souris. Sharp in her outline, and angular in her features, she possessed the marks of a distinct individuality. She combined the dignified reserve of an ancient stock with the easy manners of the itinerant vagabond. The mould in which she was cast must have been broken, for there never was a cow like herself. She was the sole survivor of a hardy race of long horned pioneers that fattened on browse and flourished on stubble. Her career had been uninteresting, and, indeed, prosaic. She was the last to leave the roadside on the approach of winter, and in early spring she greeted with all the enthusiasm of a well cultivated appetite the first inviting thistle that struggled through the soil. Venerable in her appearance and conservative in her instincts, she was the connecting link between the present and the past. Let us thought she of impending danger, or of the precarious tenure of vaccine existence. For years she had wandered in the undisturbed enjoyment of romantic and untroubled license, and her thoughts were with the years that were gone. Suddenly her cogitations were disturbed by the shrill shriek of the railroad whistle, and the even tenor of her perquisitions was rudely checked by the inopportune interference of the cow-catcher. Had her limbs been constructed of gutta percha they might have bent; had they been built of cast iron they might have withstood the shock, but being bone they snapped. It was soon obvious to the most disinterested observer that her usefulness was gone. Eager inquiries were immediately instituted for the proprietor of the quadruped, and in a few moments the burly form of the popular and genial Road Supervisor appeared upon the scene. First he looked upon the cow, then upon the Conductor, and lastly upon the cow-catcher. His eye was in fine phrenzy rolling, while his lowering brow betrayed the thoughts too deep for utterance; that swelled his capacious bosom. Several of the bystanders were summoned as a council of war, and proceeded to hold a post mortem examination on the fragments. Shortly after they resolved themselves into a choir, and chanted a solemn requiem to the sympathetic accompaniment of a hastily improvised fiddle. Amid the jarring melody of harmonious discord might be heard the gruff baritone of the bereaved owner chanting the time honored wail, of which the following is the refrain:—

My drimmin dhou lived, and before she was dead
She gave white butter to eat with my bread;
She gave me white milk to drink with my skone,
But now its black water since drimmin dhou's gone.
