PRESENTATION.

At the close of the city schools yesterday, for the Christmas holidays, Mr. Seaman was the recipient of the following address, accompanied by a beautiful gold pencil, from his pupils:—

To Jos. D. Seaman, Esq.:
DEAR SIR,—Before the closing of the schools for the Christmas holidays, we desire to convey to you the high esteem in which you are held by the scholars whose happy duty it has been to receive instruction from you during the term just about to close.

We thank you for the deep interest you have ever taken in our studies, for the words of encouragement and needed assistance extended to us when difficulties were met with, and for friendly advice and direction when you considered they were needed; and, as a small token of our regard, please accept this lead pencil, with our hearty wishes that you may indeed enjoy a merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

JAMES POLLARD,

A Letter from Vich Dhomnuil Nan Ord

ON RECEIVING THE PHOTOGRAPH OF A FRIEND IN LAUNCESTON, TASMANIA.

Fungarige inani munere.

Methinks the Sun has backwards gone; or is it really so!
Matilda looks as bright and young as thirty years ago;
Somehow it makes me understand, when sin shall be forgiven,
How bright and young we all may look, within the Gate of Heaven.
Photography suggests a thought, most terrible to me,
A thought, a fancy, or a TRUTH, as it may prove to be;
What if that Sun, whose radiance now makes hill and valley gay,
Be taking hourly Photographs against the Judgment Day?
How earnestly, how fervently, we all have cause to pray,
That every evil Photographed may now be sponged away!
The Holy Gospel shows how this wonder may be done
For those who cling in Faith and Love to him who made the Sun.
Tho' here we cannot grasp your hand, across the foaming brine,
"We'll take a cup of kindness yet, for Auld Lang Syne!"
We know that you will "tak' one too, in bright Australian Wine,
To wet the Leg of Kangaroo, on which perchance, you dine.
The Sun, who took your Photograph to you will soon go round;
By him we send a telegram, to far Tasmanian ground,
'Tis this, unchanging as his course, in Majesty above,
Accept from all your Kinsfolk here, their best and kindest Love!

TEMPERANCE.—The term of three years for which St. James T. A. S. was formed, having expired on the 16th inst., a meeting was held on Sunday evening for the purpose of re-organizing the Society for another term of the same length. The appointment of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

Spiritual Director—Rev. J. C. McDonald
President—Peter McCourt.
Vice President—Donald B. McPhee.
2nd do—Henry Griffin.

Messenger—John Griffin.

FIRE.—At about one o'clock on Friday last the workshop of a man named Alex. Renton, Georgetown, was discovered to be on fire, and in less than an hour it was burnt to the ground, together with his barn, and the contents of both buildings. At one time the adjoining residences, owned by H. C. McLeod and Charles Owen, Esquires, were in imminent danger, but fortunately the wind veered S. S. W., which partially prevented the intense heat of the burning buildings from bearing upon those adjoining. Even then had it not been for the snow on the roofs of those houses, we believe they would have been reduced to ashes. The narrow escape of a block of buildings was altogether providential, as there were no appliances worthy of the name to save them under less favorable circumstances. It is supposed that the fire originated from shavings being placed near a stove in the workshop, by children. The loss is estimated at $400.

The New York Herald says an exploded boiler was, on the 18th inst., blown five hundred feet into the air and traversed a block before it descended. Some twelve years ago a boiler performed a similar freak in this city and made a happy home desolate by killing several children.

A P. E. Islander Distinguishes Himself.

The Rockland (Maine) Gazette, of the 7th inst., says: It may not be generally known to those living at a distance from our city, that we have among us one of those remarkable men of genius, a native of Prince Edward Island, Dominion of Canada, who came here a few years since, and set up business as a first-class boot and shoe maker. Being possessed of a restless mind, he conceived the idea that perfect ventilation must be applied to a boot or shoe, whereby persons subject to sweaty feet might obtain relief, and after many fruitless attempts and almost ready to give up in despair, by a lucky thought discovered what is now known as the "McDonald Wire Coil Boot and Shoe Ventilator," which promises to be one of the most important inventions of the age. It is less than four months since the rubber ventilated boots have been introduced into this city, and I will venture to say that not one pair without the ventilator can be sold (except to strangers to the patent), and the sale is already assuming large proportions in this State, the sales in this city alone amounting to over five hundred pairs up to the present time, with the verdict wholly in favor of the boots with the ventilators. The sole interest in this truly valuable invention was purchased by the "McDonald Boot and Shoe Ventilating Company," who confidently predict an enormous sale for the invention in rubber, as well as leather goods, in the future, and are in daily receipt of testimonials in favor of the ventilated boots, among which are some from the police and fire patrolmen of Boston.

A very significant movement is afoot with regard to the land agitation in Ireland, which may have an influence on the final settlement of the question. I refer to the attitude suddenly adopted by numbers of the Irish landlords, both liberal and conservative, favoring what are called the three ("F's")—meaning fair rent, fixity of tenure and free sale. The landlord's opposition to these measures has been sensibly lessening in many quarters for some time. The first public expression given to them was during last week at a Monaghan Orange meeting, presided over by Lord Rossmore. This meeting made the three ("F's") its platform. This action shows on the part of the young nobleman and the other landlords associated with him a public spirit and wisdom far in advance of their class. Some Armagh men have done the same thing. Many prominent English members of Parliament have also spoken out clearly on this point. Furthermore the London Times which has heretofore opposed concession and favored an out and out policy on the part of England toward Ireland, printed on Saturday a remarkable article, arguing vigorously in favor of the fixity of tenure and the other F's, saying:—"The easiest way to establish a peasant proprietary is through that plan." To properly understand the importance of this change of attitude it must be remembered that fixity of tenure was denounced everywhere a year ago as utterly inadmissible.—New York Herald.

An English paper remarks: "About a month ago a paragraph went the round of the papers regarding an elderly lady who had gone from the parish of Birsay, Orkney, to America, to get married, after a courtship extending over 40 years. A correspondent now informs us that the marriage took place on the 7th of September, and that on the 27th of the same month her husband died, the old lady, after her long wait and journey, being thus left a widow in a strange land in little more than a fortnight after her bridal day."

Moody wants new hymns. He gives the Scriptures rather than tracts to infidels. He would like to see places of worship warm and well ventilated. Prayers, he says, should be short. He knows of a bunch of grapes sent around among sick people from one to the other, and all the sick people were blessed. Advertising, especially in regard to church notices, does, in Moody's opinion, more good than harm. Fault-finding, he believes, is a nuisance in the church. He says, "Have no festivals. There is no gambling at prayer meetings."

The Jews are angered, according to the "Hebrew Advocate," because the Rev. Dr. Furness in one of their synagogues told them that Jerusalem was sacred because Christ died there. As this is the second time Dr. Furness has been thus indiscreet it is not probable that the Jews will give him another opportunity.

The Advertiser correspondent at Montague gives the following account of the exports for the season just ending: Oats, 12,522 bushels; potatoes, 183,351 bushels; turnips, 6,484 bushels, besides the vast quantities of produce being lately taken to Aitken's wharf, Lower Montague, for shipment.

Dr. Legge says that at the present rate of conversion there will be in 1913, 26,000,000 church members and 100,000,000 professing Christians in the Chinese Empire.

A king has been sentenced to sixteen years imprisonment. It is hardly necessary to add that he is an African monarch.
