Wheatleyfield UCW Review Dries Of Church Women

The Guardian, Charlottetown, Wed. Oct. 2, 1963. 7

HAPPENINGS

Mrs. Amy Geldart and Charlotte Goldert, Monell, accompanied by Mrs. Bernard Gallant, Charlottetown, attended the Falls-Francis wedding in Tremont, N.S., on Sunday. They also visited Capt. Spurgeon Giddell and Mrs. Giddell in Lunenburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Chappell, Halifax.

Mrs. Garnet Moore, Montague, entertained a group of close friends at a delightful luncheon party last week. The guests spent the afternoon seeing and the result was two lovely quilts for Welfare. The committee in charge again stress the urgent need for children's warm clothing and for bedding.

Bill Plack left Sunday for Halifax to attend Dalhousie University.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack McGuigan, Euston Street, entertained Saturday evening at a family party honoring Mr. McGuigan's brother-in-law, Mr. George Dickson, who is celebrating his 60th birthday. The party was held at the Maritime Truck Hotel in Amherst, N.S., where Mr. McGuigan held the highest civilian award.

Mrs. Jan Volesky, young son Blake, and infant daughter Jane who have been visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Noel H. DeBolis for the summer, left by plane Saturday for Montreal where she will be the guest of her sister and brother-in-law, Dr. John S. and Mrs. Henry Volesky. Mr. McGuigan will fly by jet to Zurich, Switzerland on Friday where she will be met by her husband, and will motor to Feldkirch, Austria, where Mr. Volesky is engaged as a textile engineer.

"The church women's responsibility in home and community was the keynote of the Wheatleyfield UCW's September meeting. This was led by Mrs. T.E. Lang who is leaving to interesting reading on the subject.

The programme was read by Mrs. Arthur MacKinnon and Mrs. Alex MacKinnon; Mrs. R.E. MacPherson led in prayer. Mrs. P.T. Pearson was pianist. Mrs. A.J. MacPherson presided and the secretary, Mrs. Bert Hanveland, read the minutes and 31 women responded to roll call with their own scripture concerning "gather". Treasurer reported $28.15 in August.

An article about Mission work in Brazil was read by Mrs. W.A. Bruce. Bible Quiz on Matt. Chapter 18 was conducted by Mrs. W.A. MacLennan.

A chapter of study book, Signals for the Sixties, was reviewed by Mrs. Orla O'Brien. A committee was appointed to finalize arrangements for thank offering service, on Sunday School Rally.

Meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Clifford MacPherson followed by The Lord's Prayer in union.

During the social hour Mrs. Cooper, who is moving into a new home at Eldon in the near future, was the guest of honor. It was accompanied by a poem composed and read by Mrs. J. MacLennan.

Tea was served by the committee: Mrs. Herb MacKenzie, Mrs. Bruce and Anne MacDonald, Mrs. Clifford MacPherson and the hostess assisted in serving.

BROOKFIELD
Members of the Brookfield Women's Institute were urged to bring their own material to next month's meeting. These are to be made into a quilt for the USO.

Thelma Senter and Ella Moore are to find out if the United Church of Canada visitors were in attendance. Correspondence was dealt with, reports and the birthday book was circulated.

The roll call will be answered with an article for an auction sale.

Following the Lord's Prayer, a contest was conducted by Grace Wood.

Correspondence was served by the hostess, assisted by Bernice and Shirley Wood.

CORNWALL UCW
The United Church women of Cornwall met at the home of Mrs. Watson Livingstone.

Devotions, in charge of Mrs. Walter Burt, were followed by hymn, followed by the meditation, One Day at a Time.

Program consisted of the worship service. Mrs. George MacLennan presented the Book.

The roll call was answered by 16 members and two visitors. The landscaping of the church was reported upon, and plans were made to purchase a box of clothing.

An offering was received and luncheon served by the hostess, assisted by a committee.

CRAPAUD WI
Mrs. Frank Myers presided at the September meeting of Crapaud's WI, when roll call was answered by 20 members.

During the business portion, members voted to purchase a gift coupon to help the Women's Institute in Victoria.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Challenge Of Work Keeps Minds And Bodies Active

Now with the stars smiling down and the Lady Moon following an old trail, high above the mill in the valley, what do we recall of this day?

The meeting closed with the "Lord's Prayer" which was led by Mrs. T.E. Lang who is leaving to interesting reading on the subject.

Activities of New London WI during the month of September included catering to a supper for the Masses at Stanley Bridge Hall.

The program was pleased to receive a gift of two dozen juice glasses for the hall kitchen from Mr. and Mrs. Walter Melanis.

The regular meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Oscar MacLennan. The president, Mrs. Daniel Morrison opened the meeting with "O Canada".

A total of 13 members responded to roll call with "A book you have read and it's helpful to the fields. And the joy of the farmers who reaped and gathered it home to eat."

The secretary, Mrs. Wilbur Mackay, read the minutes of the previous meeting and the correspondence. A donation was voted for the Kensington Handicraft Center.

It was decided to have a Home Nursing course later in the year. Mrs. Oliver Bernard invited the members to her home for the October meeting when roll call will be answered with a donation of two quilt blocks.

Program consisted of a "flower" contest, prepared by Mrs. Francis Murray, and Mrs. Douglas Cole entertained with a game.

DESABLE UCW
The Desable UCW held their September meeting at the home of Mrs. John W. MacDougal, with 10 members and two visitors reading a word of scripture. The meeting opened with Mrs. Will Dunsford presenting a portion of scripture, Acts 17:22-28. The president, Mrs. Homer to be a bit in its favor "the other. "And there's another thing, Ellen" he added, "when trees are being planted in the yards and about care should be taken to see that they won't become a nuisance, and a hazard to the farming, in years to come."

Yet considering the amazing changes in the farming, even in the last quarter century, who would presume to prophesy what in the way of machines and machinery, in methods of farming, in life and living, does lie ahead?

We recall of today that if our forefathers say our returns in grain are "only fair", that Scampie, the great shaggy-coated dog had his place in the picture of the harvesting, hailing as he did blithely the approach of this or that little truck in the lane, bringing in the increase to the granaries, this perfect harvest day.

It's odd to think that a child the age of Peter will perhaps never remember having seen a binder at work on this farm. James comments now to a visitor: "And I, in my day, have seen the old reaper harvesting. Seen first binders come—a and now mirlivous those were in their time!—and the improved machines up to now."

Sunshine and harvesting, these are the days of the farm and the family and the Scampie-dog lending, each in his or her own way, a harities, this perfect harvest day.

Uttill tomorrow—Diary—Goodnight!

MARY HAWORTH

Marital Crack-Ups Cripple Children's Moral Future

Dear Mary Haworth: As you so frequently point out, neuritis have an affinity for their own kind, as in the following instances:

My roommate's father asked his devoted wife of 25 years for a divorce one day. When she had obliged him, he left the city a few days later, to marry a divorced woman.

Soon the newlyweds were back in town, where he announced his marriage in the local papers as though it was his first. He is past 50.

Similarly there is the case of my mother, another neuritic. She deserted my father and some years ago, to run off with a divorced man 10 years her junior. She saved face by not returning, however.

Her recent letters to me plainly reveal the anguish cry of a remorseful broken woman who realizes now, too late, her folly. I have forgiven her and feel only pity for her. But I do not want her back. Father (who has been a good mother as well as a good father to me) doesn't want her back either.

My roommate has both pity and hatred for her father. Are we wrong in feeling that way about us? Aren't our neuritic parents alone responsible for their own neuroticism of which they think is happiness? ROOMMATES

Dear Girls: The tragedy of the parents' failure, in a marital crack-up, is not confined to its subtly crippling effect on their own moral nature. The potential damage extends to include the children's moral nature also, introducing a possibility that the children may grow up twisted rather than straight.

However, the wonderful asset of youth is this: you have time on your side, in which to outgrow disadvantages that seem to be in which to take profit from special trials and sorrows, by becoming a deeper, stronger, more prudent, richer character.

Mr. McGuigan has been afflicted with that painful chapter in your history.

His father or mother deserted his father or mother, to take off on a wrong-way pursuit of happiness to use your apt phrase; it usually is the culmination of a chain-reaction of faulty behavior in the marriage.

Which means that for some time before the break the children had been witnessing, as it were, like tender plants in an unfavorable climate, or in a sea-sickness drought. The children have been substituting on their own Mr. McGuigan being a good father, inasmuch as parents secured by crucial interpersonal difficulties simply cannot respond satisfactorily to children's emotional needs.

Which brings us to your present condition, that I would like you to recognize and remedy, so that you won't shiver on the vine, in consequence of your parents' mistakes.

Which brings us to your present condition, that I would like you to recognize and remedy, so that you won't shiver on the vine, in consequence of your parents' mistakes.

Therefore, let's not try to justify or inflate your distaste for your upward parents' folly. Address yourselves, rather, to rising above your parents' inadequacies. Two books may help you overcome, by deliberate thoughtful effort, if you are to be fully formed adults, not hapless cripples, in dealing with life.

Family Reunion At Freetown

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Paynter and Mrs. Walter Campbell hosted a family reunion in Freetown recently, in honor of Mrs. Paynter and Mrs. Campbell's cousins from out of the province.

They are Leland Warren, Sixsmith, Allan Nelson Warren, Vernon, California, and their sister Hattie, the wife of Rev. Richard Standerwick of Regina, Sask. They are the surviving children of Mr. and Mrs. Hammond Warren, formerly of Elliot.

The reunion was the occasion of the return of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Warren's daughter Jean, Mrs. Helen Baskley's husband, Rev. Richard Standerwick of Regina, Sask. They are the surviving children of Mr. and Mrs. Hammond Warren, formerly of Elliot.

MR. AND MRS. ROLAND K. SILLIKER Reception Follows Ceremony At Margate United Church

Dahlia and gladiol decorated the Margate United Church when Diane Elizabeth, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Heath Mayhew, Margate exchanged marriage vows with Roland Keith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Silliker Malpeque. The Rev. W.A. Paterson performed the double wedding ceremony on Saturday, September 7th, 1963.

Miss Margaret Walker was in charge of the wedding music, and accompanied Mrs. Thomas C. MacKenzie, sister of the bride, who sang "Love You Truly" before the ceremony, and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her floor-length wedding gown of white organza over taffeta featuring a scoop neckline trimmed with lace appliques and sequins, fitted bodice and long ivory point sleeves. The flowing skirt featured lace inserts and was accented by a tailored bow, and carried rose in back. Her bouquet was composed of white carnations and pink and white carnations.

Miss George Campbell, maid of honor, wore a street length gown of turquoise nylon over taffeta styled with fitted bodice, scoop neckline and full skirt. Her headpiece was a rose covered hat with a veil of nylon tulle, and she carried an arm bouquet of yellow and white carnations.

The groom wore a suit of yellow and white carnations, and carried baskets of white carnations and pink and white carnations. The bridegroom was attended by Clair MacNutt. The guests

The Warrens and their wives were also entertained at the home of their maternal uncle, Edward Sellick, Allen St., Charlottetown.

The ceremony was present at Freetown were Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Walker, Kensington; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Campbell, Freetown; and Mrs. Keith Simons, Wilnot.
