DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
 AXYDLBAAXE
 is LONG FELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

The bidding:
 West North East South
 1♣ Pass Pass 1♥
 Pass 2♥ Pass 4♥

Opening lead — king of diamonds.

The "backward finesse" is a play generally used only by experts. The "backward" refers to the direction of the finesse, not the declarer's intelligence.

Fred L. Karpin, of Silver Spring, Md., gives a good example of the power of the play in his new book The Play of the Cards recently published. It is one of the most comprehensive and best books on play to appear in years.

West leads three rounds of diamonds. Declarer ruffs and forces out the ace of hearts. South wins the spade return and cashes the K-J of hearts. He has already lost three tricks. The aim is to avoid a club loser.

Ordinarily, with the particular club combination shown, declarer would lead a club to the ace and return a club to the jack. If East held the queen, the finesse would work and there would be no club loser.

This method of play succeeds about 30 per cent of the time in the usual course of events. It would fail in this deal because West holds the queen.

But declarer is on notice from the bidding that the normal way to play the clubs is doomed to fail. It is not likely that West would open the bidding unless he had the queen of clubs. This view is strongly supported by East's pass. It is not reasonable to suppose that East had the ace of hearts and queen of clubs and passed.

South should therefore invoke the so-called backward finesse. He attacks clubs by leading the jack. If West ducks, so does dummy, and the hand is over. But let's say West covers with the queen.

Dummy takes the ace and leads the nine for a finesse through East's (hoped-for) ten. East has it and the plan succeeds.

Mathematically, the backward finesse succeeds only 25 per cent of the time in a series of random deals. West would be dealt the queen and East the ten only a fourth of the time. For this reason the play is seldom used. But where West is known to have the queen, the backward finesse is the only hope.

Amnesty May Free Criminal

TORONTO (CP)—Nicholas Minille, 42, one of Canada's most notorious criminals, may be able to leave Kingston Penitentiary soon because of an amnesty announced Friday by the federal government to mark next month's Royal Vint.

Minille gambled on the amnesty last March when he turned down a parole that would have had him report to police monthly for six years. Instead, he decided to remain in penitentiary another six months and try for a full pardon in the fall.

Minille, member of the old Mickey McDonald—Ulysses Latham gang, is reported to have told the parole board in March: "I'll stay in jail until the Queen comes."

His sentence reduction under the amnesty works out to six months on the basis of a month for every year remaining in his sentence.

Minille got 17 years in 1945 for armed robbery. In 1947 he was sentenced to an additional three years for a jailbreak. He still has six years to serve.
