Girls Said Most Likely Candidate

Charlotte's Allison Gillis was being suggested here yesterday as the top man in the County Council and Queens County convention this afternoon. The city lawyer and four others are expected to be possible candidates in the next federal election, which veteran political observers expect may come soon.

The odds shifted to Mr. Gillis when various rural observers suggested the rural people feel Gillis is Charlotte's choice and they should back it up. The rural liberals know it's hard to win in Charlotte at best, and they feel they should back the lawyer and city councillor if their fellow liberals in the city feel he's the best bet as a vote getter. The Guardian was told.

It was the first sign of a trend seen in the competition for the two nominations in the county, since the convention was announced several weeks ago. It was impossible to note any definite trend toward any of the rural people's candidates in their selections. Not all of the political observers favored Gillis as the town man but a large share of expressed opinion last night did favor him with many favoring Gillis as the first ballot.

OPINION DIVIDED
Opinion was divided on who would be the second choice with many favoring B. B. Jones, Bunbury, or Ira Lewis, York, of the new state house. A committee named by the Queens County Liberal Association executive but otherwise unaffiliated optimistically predicting a win for veteran campaigner, Cecil Miller, without any meeting and them suggesting a first-ballot win for him.

Harvey Douglas, Parkdale, is the other man who will be seeking support of the delegates this afternoon.

Interest was picked up through the day after the general worker here entered "It's going to be the most interesting convention in years."

The convention will be held in the Community Center. Registration of delegates gets underway at 3 o'clock and nominations are expected to begin shortly after 3 o'clock.

Thomas J. Kichham, former member for Kings and candidate for the Liberals there again, and George MacLeod, Albany, Liberal candidate in Prince are expected to address the convention.

Provincial Leader Alex Matheson was also expected to speak, but he is in hospital where he was taken early yesterday.

COMPLAINTS HEARD
Complaints of improperly settled charges against delegates from each poll are selected at a meeting of the committee members for the poll area. Poll committees are solidly organized in rural districts and the membership and officers carry through from one election to the next, with few changes except for replacements due to death, removal or absence by a member.

But poll organizations in the city is not nearly so well established but otherwise they are engaged in a convention - there are five to a poll - are sometimes chosen without any meeting and in some cases delegates are informed they have had no part in the selection.

For having possession of intoxicating liquor in a place other than his residence and accused was also fined $20 and costs or 30 days.

Victor George Douse, Central Railway pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding and was fined $40 and costs or five days. The accused was also charged "trade union act" from certain existing statutes and replace the words "with industrial relations act."

Three bills to this effect were given second reading in the Legislature last night. Acts effecting employment, on dredging and blasting in the entrance channel, on a wharf construction and on a wharf construction.

Report From Parliament Hill
Harold Smith, Lab-4th Queens, rose to move the amendment but it was ruled that it was too late as the debate had been closed by Dr. Bonnell.

The resolution noted that farm employers who cannot secure employment in the winter months suffer great hardship if they are not given unemployment insurance stamps, and that farmers who employ labor are at a great disadvantage in securing employees even when they offer comparable wages, because of the reluctance of workers to hire out on a job where stamps are not available.

As the Industrial Relations Act, given approval in principle in the Legislature Thursday, requires the Trade Union Act, it was necessary, to approve legislation that will delete the words "voluntary."
