approve of Scott's Emulsion. For whom? For men and women who are weak, when they should be strong; for babies and children who are thin, when they should be fat; for all who get no nourishment from their food. Poor blood is starved blood. Poor consumption and Scrofula never come without this starvation. And nothing is better for starved blood than cod-liver oil. Scott's Emulsion is cod-liver oil with the fish-fat taste taken out.

A SIBERIAN TRICK.

Skobel Breaks Up the Stock in a Rubber Skobel, the Siberian strong man, called at a Fourth street rubber store yesterday to look at some rubber cables he desired for use in exercising the pupils' muscles at his bathhouse. Olive Street. A salesman showed him an assortment, and Skobel, picking up the largest, which were of solid rubber, rounded, about two feet long and an inch and a half in diameter, remarked casually that he doubted whether they were strong enough.

"What?" exclaimed the young salesman, who neither knew his customer nor recognized the latter's muscular development, "not strong enough? Why, my dear sir, just try them."

"But suppose they break?" "Oh," replied the youth, with a compassionate smile, "we're not afraid of that. We'll take the chances. Try them."

Then Skobel took the two rubbers, and clamping two ends in each hand, with each hand straight out before him, commenced to expand his arms. The rubber yielded gradually, but about the time Skobel's hands were in a line with his body they snapped in the center and the strong man, straggling his shoulders, dropped the two pieces on the floor. The salesman gazed at the fragments in astonishment.

"Great Scott!" he remarked at length, "what have I run up against?" "My name is Skobel, the Siberian strong man," replied the stranger. "Have you anything else you would like tested?"

"Not by a long way," was the answer. "Don't you know you ought to pay for one of these things—they cost $4.75 each?"

Skobel, however, held the young man to his agreement. He made some other purchases, but the busted rubber exercise cables will have to be charged to profit and loss.—St. Louis Republic.

CARLYLE AND THE CABBY.

How the Latter Lost the Trade of the Former. Carlyle was well known to London cabmen. For years he engaged a particular driver from this rank, and refused to take any other, and he was, however, lost his custom in a somewhat peculiar manner.

Some medical students got to know of his preference for the cab, and, getting hold of the driver one day, they inquired if he knew who his fare was, when he told them he did not. The students were then told that he was one of the most famous and eccentric writers of the day, and, giving him a book, advised him to appear to be reading it whenever Carlyle approached the stand.

Cabby, without any suspicion, acted on their advice, and when the old sage next came for a cab he seemed deeply impressed in his mind by the pretentious book.

"Hallo! what's that you're reading?" inquired the Edocheban philosopher. "A most hoot-an'hot, tip-top, splendid book about the 'ere French revolution," was Carlyle's glib reply.

"Eh! what d'ee ye say? Let me see it," said Carlyle, holding out his hand.

"Oh, certainly, sir," said the driver, handing him a copy of the 'History of the French Revolution.'"

"Well, my man," inquired the sage, apparently delighted, "are ye sure that you're reading this book?"

"Perfectly sure," said the cabby, confidently, then, thinking he ought to say something in praise of the book, he added, "Why, sir, it's almost as good as 'The Nevigate Calendar.'"

The grim old Dumfriesshire glared at him, granted out something turned abruptly around and engaged the next cab. From that day Carlyle never looked at him, but stuck to the second man, who happened to have had the honor of driving most of the distinguished men of the country.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

THE BRITISH CONSUL STATIONED AT JERUSALEM.

The British consul, stationed at Jerusalem, in his last report to the Foreign Office, calls attention to the benefits conferred indirectly upon Syria by the occupation of Egypt.

The late Nile has become a favorite winter resort for numbers of English and American visitors, and at the close of the Cairo season a large proportion of these visitors, up with pilgrimages to Jerusalem and other places in Palestine, the scenes of early sacred associations. The result of this annual influx has been a remarkable increase in the provision of good hotel accommodations.

Twenty years ago there was but one decent hotel in Jerusalem. Now there are several substantial establishments, besides boarding houses and hostels for the reception of pilgrims. Jaffa, too, can boast of three first-class hotels, and good hotels have been opened at Haifa, Caesarea, and Nazareth and Tiberias. But Jaffa, to be of any use in the development of a paying traffic, requires a good harbor. Since the opening up of the railway to Jerusalem the necessity for a harbor at Jaffa has become the more urgent.

Another expedient suggested by the consular authorities is the construction of a harbor at Jaffa, and the extension of the railway from Jerusalem by the sea to Port Said, a distance of only 200 miles over an interstrating country almost perfectly level throughout. Jerusalem and the Holy Land could thus be visited without the necessity of a sea voyage to Jaffa and the troublesome landing at that port. To travelers on their way to or from India, the east, and Australia, an easy opportunity would be afforded of visiting the Holy Land by breaking their journey for a few days at Port Said.

THE WEATHER FOR COLOID.

This is the time when colds are in the fashion—everybody who is anybody has one, so that it's hard to find one's family. For no complaint under the sun are there more remedies than for a cold in the head, but of the thousands Chase's Catarrh Cure is the best. In twelve hours I was cured of a bad cold in the head by Chase's Cure," writes M. Dwyer, Alliston, Ont. 25c. of all druggists, with blotter free.

MANY A YOUNG MAN.

When from over-work, possibly assisted by an inherited weakness, the health fails and rest or medical treatment must be resorted to, then no medicine can be employed with the same beneficial results as Scott's Emulsion.

Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, before leaving Montreal for England, expressed his belief that Grand Trunk affairs were progressing under the management of President Harvey.

COMPLETELY KNOCKED OUT.

"I was so much run down I had to give up work, and I felt as if life was not worth living," writes Wm. W. Thompson, Zephyr, Ont. "I took Scott's Sarsaparilla and now I feel as if I did years ago. Scott's Sarsaparilla tones up the entire system, purifies the blood, and eradicates rheumatic and scrofulous poisons. Ask for Scott's and get it."

A Montreal Business Man

Won't he Pattle Through His Wife's Advice.

A short time ago a Montreal business man returned from New York, and was invited to a dinner at the Hotel de Ville. The case was a serious one—kidney disease—and had laid off the skill of the local doctors. The New York specialist, a man of close attention, could not hold out very strong hopes of a complete cure, but advised patience and continued treatment.

The sick man, hoping for better results, remained for some weeks longer, but finally left for home, and on his arrival in Montreal was alarmed when he found his condition had not improved and some recommended a sea voyage.

The sick man's wife having heard of the waters accomplished by Faine's Celery Compound in cases of Kidney disease urged her husband to give it a trial. A supply of the medicine was procured and used faithfully, and the diet list—prepared especially for those afflicted with Kidney disease—was closely followed.

After three weeks use of Faine's Celery Compound, a blessed and happy change was observed. The patient was brighter and stronger, no constipation, no back aches, urine was more natural in color, and appetite was healthy and established.

After due care and attention, and the use of Faine's Celery Compound, this Montreal merchant is well and attending to business to-day.

Poor sufferer from Kidney trouble, what think you of this Montreal case? Will not the same treatment bring you the health and freedom from disease that you so much desire? Yes, we are certain it will. Faine's Celery Compound will quite renew your life, and give you a long lease of happy days. Use the kind that cured the Montreal merchant; remember there are imitations, and very worthless ones to-day.
