Annual Radio Auction Begins At Summerside

The 18th annual readio auction sponsored by the Summerside Y's Men's Club got under way last evening over station CJRW under the co-chairmanship of Art Robinson and Jack Scott, and will continue tonight beginning at 7.15.

450 articles of the total 927 were put on the auction block last evening and judging by the number of bids received at the Y Centre and the enthusiasm of the residents of Summerside and surrounding area a record auction is indicated. The annual auction is a large co-operative undertaking of the club and the organization and planning for the event start many weeks in advance, especially for the auction chairmen. The money raised goes toward a very worthy project of the club, that of sponsoring Boy Scout troops and Cub packs.

At the Y Centre where the auction is held, Y's Men are seen manning a battery of 12 phones, announcing the bids over the air as they are received, attending the clipping and marking boards that contain the latest bids for use of the announcers and telephone operators, singing a song over the air for someone who phoned in a bid requesting same, as well as doing other necessary jobs to make for a smooth running auction.

Cash prizes totalling $60 are to be given away this year to 12 lucky people in the listening audience.

HITCHCOCK'S 'WRONG MAN' CAPITOL SUMMERSIDE

"The Wrong Man," premieres at the Capitol today. The Warner Bros. film stars Henry Fonda and Vera Miles.

For the first time, Alfred Hitchcock, producer, director of the film, went to real life for his story. With all the precision the master of mayhem is noted for, he filmed "The Wrong Man" in the actual locales of the story. The streets of New York City as well as its offices, apartments, restaurants, clubs and subways all helped to create a background of mystery and intrigue. The film is reportedly the director's finest.

Henry Fonda and Vera Miles play the roles of the two people caught in an amazing web of mistaken identity in the big city. It is Mr. Fonda's initial performance for Hitchcock and also marks Miss Miles' debut as a star. She previously was seen in Warner Bros.' "The Searchers," but was chosen for "The Wrong Man" as the result of her work in one of Hitchcock's television productions.

Anthony Quayle, famed British actor, producer, director also will be seen in "The Wrong Man." Hitchcock had met him at a New York restaurant and thought him ideal for a particularly difficult role.

Maxwell Anderson and Angus MacPhail wrote the screenplay.

Recalling the teacher training program in existence during his youth, Premier Matheson said any one who attended and passed first year Prince of Wales automatically received a second class license, while those who went two years or more received a first class license. There was little or no normal training as he recalled it.

"I wouldn't say that this method was the best way to do things," said the Premier who stated that as a second class teacher he received "the magnificent salary of $482" and later as a first class teacher, $600 per year. He said the highest supplement being paid at that time was $235 and that was in a former two-roomed school where the teacher was required to instruct 45 pupils.

"I don t know whether I, with this training, was much good to the pupils but I am sure it did me a lot of good," he observed.

The Premier then dealt with the matter of holding school meetings in rural districts. He said that quite often it would be the person who had the least reason to be interested in the school who would invariable vote to keep down the teacher's salary. "Whether he did it to spite his neighbor or not I do not know but there was usually a rich bachelor in each district who would be on hand for this purpose."

S.D.U. TRAINING PLAN

Mr. Matheson said the Government had been severely criticized for allowing Saint Dunstan's University to train teachers for the public schools of the Province. He read several letters from a number of organizations and Protestant churches voices strong objection "to the training of teachers in a denominational institution."

"I have also received complaints from those who say that religious instruction contrary to the belief of the parents is being given in some schools while in others, symbols of religious beliefs are on display.

"All of this is contrary to the Public School Act which dealt with the question of divorcing church and state, a matter which was well settled in 1870," said the Premier. "There are some who believe that they are better able to train their children in religious schools, but I don't think we want to go through this again."

FEDERAL AID

Referring to Federal Aid for education, Mr. Matheson recalled that he expressed himself on this matter at a meeting of Provincial Premiers held at Ottawa when he told the Prime Minister and members of his cabinet that Prince Edward Island was paying a great deal more out of public funds for education than other provinces of Canada. He also pointed out that the Province could not absorb the number of high school graduates and surely some plan could be worked out whereby the Province could be compensated for this outlay.

Premier Matheson suggested a number of things that the committee should consider: 1. Is the money paid for teachers' salaries properly distributed; 2. Does the local school district pay enough; 3. Are our teachers properly qualified; 4. Do we get proper reports from inspectors; 5. Are teachers properly qualified for the license they receive; 6. Is the proper curriculum being used; 7. Are the public aware of the problem of education or do they want better roads or other commodities in preference to education.

Second Kings

Saunders and R.L. Burge were among the prize winners.

Mr. Rossiter claimed the Department of Agriculture was "bogged down" with conditions on the farm going from bad to worse. He felt there was no need for the Department to lose its qualified help. He thought perhaps there might be dissention on the Department.

As a remedy towards keeping help in the Province. Mr. Rossiter suggested the closing of the Summerside office and giving the money to qualified men in higher salaries.

"We won't be surprised if there are not many calves vaccinated in the Province," said Mr. Rossiter, "hardly anyone knows about the program." He said only 225 calves were vaccinated on the Island last year and the Department had not seen fit to vaccinate their own calves at Falconwood Farm.

"We are losing our markets because of this," he said.

Mr. Rossiter claimed that the floor price of 38 cents on eggs was nothing more than a farce. He noted that this price applies to eggs properly processed and landed in Montreal. "Why can't we get a floor price down here", he asked.

The Second Kings member said the outlets to Newfoundland and Labrador had not been properly explored and charged, "If we do not establish a strong foothold in these markets now, we will never do it after the St. Lawrence Seaway is built."

He told the Minister he should hire a real super salesman who would go to these areas and really develope them. "I don't mean one trip a year. I mean several trips, a dozen if necessary' he said.

TOURIST INDUSTRY

Mr. Rossiter said the tourist industry, while it benefited the motel and hotel owners, did not directly benefit the farmers. He felt that of the substantial amounts of money loaned by the Government to the tourist industry the farmer should get dollar for dollar.

Mr. Rossiter complimented the Minister of Welfare on assuming his office. He also noted he had a good deputy. He felt one of the benefits should be the free provision of insulin where it is badly needed.

Thanks to the Department of Education were extended by Mr. Rossiter who said the new high school at Morell was a wonderful benefit to the boys and girls of that area. He was glad to see the teacher training program at St. Dunstan's and predicted that in a few years there would be no shortage of teachers.

Mr. Rossiter felt that by not appointing a Royal Commission on education the Government was allowing education to "hit an all-time law." He felt no one in the House was qualified to delve into the matter.

He foresaw a beneficial move in the meeting of the four Atlantic Premiers with APEC. "Perhaps they can go to Ottawa with a United front and perhaps they will pay more attention to them," he concluded.
