Outstanding Officer

The casualty list here and dispatches from Korea mentioned the name of one officer whose efforts apparently stood out in the heroic battle of the R. C. R. S. He is Lieut. Russell Gardner of Arnprior, Ont., who recently won the Military Cross and who was thrice wounded in the Gibraltar action. He also had been wounded in an earlier action.

Lieut. Gardner, the Reuters dispatch said, feigned death and escaped.

Boss reported that Lieut. Gardner, in another action last Sept. 24, led two patrols, apparently in the same area. The first "laid up" in enemy territory for 48 hours to learn the Red's habits, the second managed to capture one of the enemy—its prime objective on the patrol.

At Arnprior today Lieut. Gardner's mother, Mrs. Russell Gardner, said she had received word from army headquarters that her son was wounded in both thighs and the elbow.

"I am happy he was so brave but only wish he were home," she told reporters.

Needless to say residents here are pulling strong for Thane and are determined to claim for the Town, as is the usual custom in the case of athletic greats, the honour of its being his birthplace.

Referring to the Polio Clinic at the Provincial Sanatorium, Dr. Currie said it had been set up primarily for persons who had passed the acute stages of the disease.
