Dining Space Is Short At Camp For Retarded

Due to increased enrollment at the Retarded Children's camp at Oyster Bed Bridge last year, the executive and directors of the P.E.I. Association for Retarded Children announced at a meeting Saturday that it would be necessary this year to enlarge the dining room and recreation centres at the camp. The meeting was held at the Tartan Restaurant in Summerside and was attended by Roy Smallman, president; Lloyd Matthews, vice-president; Mrs. Grace MacKinnon, secretary; Paul Hoy, treasurer; Mrs. Joseph Conway, Mrs. Boyd Doyle, H.P. (Ted) Ramsay, James Milligan and Grant Travers. Considerable discussion took place in regard to the need for more teachers for retarded children and also on the matter of a five-year research program in which the Canadian Association for Retarded Children is undertaking the raising of a $1,000,000 research fund. It was decided to conduct the annual financial campaign in June this year. The treasurer gave a report in which he showed that considerable expenditure has been made during the past year in enlarging the summer camp and in its operation and also in the training of a teacher for the O'Leary, Alberton and Tignish areas. It was noted that the recent gift of a bus by the Charlottetown Branch of the Canadian Legion could be used in the summer in the transportation of children to and from the camp. Mr. Smallman urged the members to attend a meeting of the Canadian Conference for Retarded Children in Halifax, N.S. next fall.

GRANT JOHANNESSEN well known American pianist appeared as artist for the second Community Concert of the season held at Prince of Wales College auditorium last night. He has appeared with 50 top orchestras in America, made a tour of Australia, and appeared in the principal cities of Asia and Europe. A winner of the International Piano Competition at Ostend, Belgium, he also received the 1958 Harriet Cohen International Award in London for "outstanding artistry in performance."

Three selections by Claude Debussy included Poissons d'or, Golliwog's Cakewalk and I'lle Joyeuse. The first, translated as 'Goldfish' is a fantasy, reflects the composer's love of Japanese 'objets d'art'. Golliwog's Cakewalk was written for Debussy's daughter when she was five years old, and the third number is, after the introduction, a piece of movement and gaiety. The artist obliged his appreciative listeners by playing three extra selections by Chopin and contemporary American and French composers. Grant Johannesen is known as a leader on the music scene of five continents, and a veteran of coast to coast solo recital tours and engagements with virtually every major American orchestra. The next Community Concert will feature the Columbus Boys Choir, and is set for April 6.

Brilliant Pianist Heard In Concert

Music of composers from Beethoven to Debussy resounded through Prince of Wales College auditorium last night from the deft fingers of pianist Grant Johannesen, performing before a well-filled house. Johannesen, celebrated American pianist, came here under the auspices of the Community Concert Association, to star for the second Community Concert of the season. The Sonata in E flat major, Opus 31, No. 3 by Ludwig Van Beethoven was the first selection on the program. Referred to as 'The Whippoorwill' in France, the theme of the first movement of this sonata suggests the song of the bird. Robert Schumann's 'Arabesque', Opus 18, followed the sonata, with Prelude, Choral and Fugue, by Cesar Franck closing out the first half of the program. The first appearance of Chopin's music on the program was the Eighth Prelude, Opus 28, short and lyrical forms of composition expressing a musical thought.

S' side Trade Board Annual Addressed By Prince MP

SUMMERSIDE BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN - More than 80 members and guests of the Summerside Board of Trade attended the organization's annual meeting held last night at the Tartan Restaurant. R.T. Henthorn was elected president.

Dr. Orville Phillips, MP for Prince County, spoke on the economic growth of Canada, during the past year. The outgoing president, Claude Ives, chaired the meeting.

The new slate of officers, which was officially installed by Summerside's Mayor W.A. Currie, includes Edgar Cannon as first vice-president, Charles Linkletter as second vice president, and Alexander Campbell as secretary-treasurer.

The 14 members of the board of directors are Fred Bell, Fred Bingham, David Carney, George Clark, Fred Davison, E.P. Foley, John Holder, Roy Johnston, Erroll Laughlin, David Miller, John MacDonell, Francis MacQuarrie, Gordon Simmons and Mrs. Muriel MacArthur, the first woman ever elected to the Summerside Board of Trade executive.

Dr. Phillips outlined three factors which he said were responsible for the economic growth in 1961, first, that the industrial output of Canada was increased by seven per cent for the year, secondly that credit insurance was up by a considerable margin, and most important of all, there was a tremendous rise in foreign trade.

The Conservative Member of Parliament explained that while for several years there has been a trade deficit in this country (it amounted to 715 billion dollars in 1961) it is expected that there will be a slight surplus declared for 1962.

POSITION STATED - In clarifying the government's position on Great Britain's entry into the European Common Market, Dr. Phillips stated that the federal government was not against the senior commonwealth country's entry into the plan, but it was thought that as Canada annually does about one billion dollars worth of duty-free trade with Great Britain, 75 per cent of which could be affected by her entry into this trade organization, Canada should at least explain in detail her feelings on the matter.

He pointed out that although trade adjustments will have to be made when Great Britain takes this step, Canada still has extensive trade dealings with the Common Market, which amounted to about a half billion dollars in the past year.

In commenting on the industrial output increase from a provincial point of view, Dr. Phillips noted that the village of St. Eleanor issued $300,000 worth of building permits in 1961, while businesses on the Island received a total of $100,000 in industrial development loans.

In conclusion the guest speaker said that the board of trade has an obligation to provide leadership for expanding business, not only in this region, but in Canada as a whole and he asked the members to unite their efforts along that line.

YEAR'S ACTIVITIES - A complete roundup of the year's activities were contained in the president's report given by Mr. Ives and it touched briefly on his attendance at various functions throughout the Maritimes, including the APEC and trade conferences in Charlottetown and the Canadian Chamber of Commerce meeting in Halifax, where the president stressed the importance of another ice-breaking car ferry for the Island and received the support of all the delegates on this venture. He noted that the Summerside Board of Trade is well represented on the directorate of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, as Richard Henthorn and Ross MacKenzie both are members. Congratulations to the province.

al and municipal governments was also extended by Mr. Ives for their co-operation during the year, along with a word of caution in that their jobs were far from completed.

The new president, Mr. Henthorn, commended the past executive on its fine job and urged the members to boost attendance for the coming year and make it a successful one.

PORT REPORT - A rundown on the traffic for the year in Summerside harbor was included in the report of the marine and transportation committee given by the chairman, Fred Bingham. He noted that a total of 22 vessels docked at Summerside to load and unload cargoes, with 487,700 one-hundred pound bags of potatoes and 1,623 cords of pulpwood being exported during the year. Fertilizer was imported at the rate of 10,318 tons while crushed rock was imported to the amount of 80,390 tons.

Wages and disbursements arising from these shipments totaled $124,000 he said. Mr. Bingham also noted in his comprehensive report that although ventilators were added to the storage sheds on the railway wharf, an addition to the east shed would more adequately handle the problem of dampness.

ASK TAX ABOLISHED - A recommendation by the agriculture committee chairman, Erroll Laughlin, that the present five per cent tax on farm gasoline be abolished was contained in the report of that committee, and it was hinted by the minister of health, Hon. Hubert MacNeill, MD, that such a step "was being seriously considered."

The committee also asked that the license fee for heavy farm trucks be substantially reduced. It was shown in this report that considerable loss of potatoes due to fusarium rot was experienced in the last year, but because of booming construction within the towns there was no noticeable loss in retail trade.

The tourist and publicity committee chaired by George Clark revealed that last summer 3,927 calls were recorded at the tourist bureau at Read's Corner and that with an average of four persons in every car, this meant a total of almost 16,000 tourists passing by there in the summer season.

Reports were also given by Lester Linkletter for the civic affairs committee; Amos Hubley, for the lobster carnival committee; and Eric Sheen for the Retail Merchants Association. Head table guests included, Ross MacKenzie, past president of the Summerside Board of Trade; Jack Simpson, president of the Summerside Jaycees; Parker Canfield, president of the Crapaud Board of Trade; Hon. Hubert MacNeill, minister of health; Wing Cmdr. Sidney Mitchell, of RCAF Station Summerside; Dr. Phillips, Mayor Currie, G.G.K. Peake, president of the Charlottetown Board of Trade; Lorne Mackley, M.L.A.; Edison Haynes, president of the Kensington Board of Trade and Earl Beaton, the Charlottetown Jaycees president.

Alberton YPS Has Meeting

ALBERTON - The regular meeting of the Alberton YPS was held in the church hall Friday evening with the president Evelyn Carpenter, presiding. Eleven members and two visitors were present. The devotional period was led by Daisie Matthews in which the second of a series of Old Testament sermons was studied. A Bible quiz was conducted by the president.

FAMOUS

(Continued from page 1) He gave up music for a time to study medicine and to serve in the Austrian army. He returned to the concert stage in Berlin in 1889, making his European debut as a finished artist.

WAS VERSATILE - Kreisler's amazing versatility in time and form are attested to by more than 200 published works, many of them under some de plume. These included concertos, chamber music, solos for violin and piano and operas. Among them were "Liebesfreud," "Capriccio Viennois," "Schoen Rosmarin," the music for "Apple Blossoms" and the opera "Cissy."

Kreisler last appeared with his violin in 1950 on a radio program. Kreisler's collection of violins once was among the most valuable in the world. But in retirement he disposed of them one by one until he was left only with his favorite, a Violaine, made in 1860.

As he grew older, Kreisler complained that musical agencies no longer judged a musician by how he played Brahms or Beethoven. He said: "Now they ask, 'Who draws the most?' Times have changed."

PARKDALE

(Continued from page 1) Quaid and Mr. MacLeod revealed that neither were sure whether or not Mr. Hoy was still liable for the $25 license fee as well as the fine.

At last Wednesday's hearing, Mr. McQuaid maintained that the village by-law was "not only ridiculous but completely ultra vires." He said that nowhere in the Village Services Act was there given the right to tax non-residents.

Mr. MacLeod introduced in evidence the by-law proposing the tax. Mr. McQuaid insisted the by-law was ineffective as it did not set a specific fee; that this was done by the commissioners themselves, and that a municipality cannot set a tax except by by-law. Also in technical objections, Mr. McQuaid said there was show that Mr. Hoy was not a resident of Parkdale, that he was an employee of the driving park or even that the park grounds were in Parkdale.

He said that since no evidence of any of these things had been introduced, the court had nothing to go on but what was presented - not what the Justice of the Peace might know personally. Mr. MacLeod took objection to this line of reasoning, maintaining that these were well-known facts.

According to Mr. McQuaid it is likely that the $50 fine, or 30-day jail sentence, will be "saved" until the outcome of the Supreme Court appeal. He suggested that the Even Stewart case, in which a similar charge was made, may be held over until after the Supreme Court rules on the Hoy case.

CONFERENCE

He urged that the board of trade take up the challenge in the coming year and not leave it all to their neighboring province of Nova Scotia.

A note in the report of the retiring president, Claude Ives also referred to this market potential, especially in the northern area, and stated that "co-operation between the people interested in this business was needed before any worthwhile venture could be achieved."

Quebec Market Potential Urged

SUMMERSIDE - "There is a terrific market potential in Seven Islands for Prince Edward Island," stated Summerside's Mayor W. A. Currie in a short address to the Summerside Board of Trade during its annual meeting last night. Referring to an article in "The Maritime Merchant," the Mayor noted that there was a fifty million dollar market waiting to be served and at the present time in Nova Scotia plans are being made to take advantage of it, while on the Island, which is the nearest source of supply, nothing is being done. He explained that in the past year following a trip to Seven Islands, he attempted to organize a meeting in Summerside with 12 firms who would directly benefit from any trade organized with this area, but only two of the 12 organizations showed up at this first meeting, and the
