What is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?

In appearance Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is an oval, chocolate coated pill. In the condensed form it contains all of nature's most strengthening and invigorating tonic and restoratives and for this reason it is unsurpassed as a blood builder and nerve restorative. It cures all diseases caused by thin blood and exhausted nerves and makes pale, weak nervous men, women and children strong and healthy. 50 cents a box.

A Good Stomach.

Is essential to health and happiness, but don't let the stomach get biliousness. It is deranged, and causes poisonous bile to remain in the blood causing indigestion, headache and irregular action of the bowels. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills regulate the liver, kidneys and bowels and by their direct action on these organs effect prompt and lasting cures of biliousness, dyspepsia, headache and all kidney ailments. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers.

The great objection to a theory is that it is very apt to strike a practical snag.

RELIEF OF KUMASSIE.

An English newspaper just to hand gives Sir Frederick Hodgson's despatch to the Colonial Office, in which he described his successful effort to break through the cordon around Kumassi. The despatch is dated Ekwanta, June 26, and is as follows:—

Have the honor to inform you that in consequence of column for relief not arriving and reduction of food supplies to three days and a half, it was necessary to make an attempt to push through rebel forces.

Taking two days' supply of rations and leaving remainder for force of 100 left to guard the fort under Assistant Inspectors Bishop and Relf sufficient for twenty-four days, the column, 600 strong, left Kumassi at 5.45 a.m. June 23, under the command of Major Morris, D. S. O. accompanied by 700 carriers, loyal Kings of Mampon Juabin, Aguna, Akwanta and Nsuta, with their followers and all Europeans, inclusive of members of Basel mission.

I was able to remain at Kumassie till June 23 only by reduction of supply of rations to a minimum. The force too weak to attempt to break out by the Prahu road, where the rebel forces were in great numbers, but it was given out that I should take that road, and the rebel forces, hearing this, fortunately remained to await arrival. The route decided on after full consideration was that through Potasi and Terrabum to Ekwanta.

At Potasi there was a stockade which was captured by a flank movement, with loss of one killed and several wounded, inclusive of Captains Marshall Leggett, both severely wounded.

At every village passed through the advanced guard (was) attacked and the rear guard harassed, but Terrabum was reached with only loss of six killed and several slightly wounded. Many of the carriers, weakened by hunger, threw away their loads, and nearly all of us have lost clothing and such provisions as we had.

The march to Ekwanta has been one of great difficulty and privations, the hammock-men being too weak to perform duty, and the column hampered with large numbers of persons who followed from Kumassi. We are halting here for two days to recruit, and we hope to reach Cape Coast in ten days, time.

We have had letters sent to officer commanding column for relief, who, from what we hear, has reached Bekwai, acquainting him with situation, saying that it is absolutely necessary to relieve fort not later than July 15.

The people encamped round the fort suffered from starvation terribly, and the rate of mortality was at least upwards of thirty per diem. I could not attack the rebel forces with any determination owing to insufficient ammunition, and we marched out of Kumassi, on June 23 with only 150 rounds of ammunition per man.

Major Morris arrived at Kumassi with 280 Hausas on May 15. His services in these anxious and trying times have been invaluable to me. I cannot speak to highly of the way in which he carried out arrangements for leaving Kumassi.

I have no news of any kind since April 29 when the Lagos Constabulary reached Kumassi. Regret to inform you that Middlemist, Deputy Inspector-General, died of malarial fever May 6, and Maguire, Assistant-Inspector of Constabulary, killed in action May 29.

BORDEN'S DEATH.

In regard to the death of Major Borden no particulars are given. Fortunately, the message of his death did not reach the Minister direct, but fell into the hands of Deputy Minister Pinault, who immediately proceeded to the Commons building and showed the communication to the Premier. Sir Wilfred went to his own room with the Deputy Minister, and there the sad intelligence was conveyed to the bereaved father. The expressions of sympathy with Dr. Borden from members of both sides were both sincere and heartfelt.

The deceased Major Harold Borden was 23 years of age, and was the only son of the Minister of Militia. He was a splendid specimen of humanity, standing six feet three inches in his stocking feet and weighing 198 pounds. At the time he received his commission as lieutenant in "B" squadron, Second Mounted Rifles, Major Borden was a third year student in medicine at McGill University. Previous to that he studied at Mount Allison College, Sackville N. B. He was commanding officer with rank of major in the King's County Hussars. Dr. and Mrs. Borden will leave at once for Canning, N. S., where their two daughters are. The death of Major Borden, who was destined for a medical career, breaks the long line of medical men in the Borden family, extending through four generations.

BORDENS BRAVERY.

In a recent letter to The Globe Mr. John A. Ewen, gave the following instance of Lieut. Borden's gallantry and courage:

"On May 5 we came up with the enemy again at the Vet River, a deep gorge, where the drifts are apparently all bad. Here the squadron was hotly engaged, and got under a heavy shell fire from some rough ground back of the north bank of the river. Dr. Borden was particularly exposed, and remained under fire a long time, so long, indeed, that some were inclined to criticize Capt. Macdonnell for not ordering the retirement sooner. It had been prophesied that the enemy would put up a stiff opposition to the crossing of this ugly gorge, and on the whole they did show a bolder front than they had yet done on their northward retreat. Major Forrester, with A Squadron, was assigned the task of escorting the guns. B Squadron was ordered to feel the enemy, draw his fire and engage him if necessary. A grove of low trees afforded them excellent shelter for performing this operation. The Imperial Mounted Infantry led the way down the steep banks of the river, and Colonel Alderson ordered B Squadron to follow dismounted. They found no Boers on that side, whereupon Lieutenants Borden and Turner, with five of their men, offered to swim across, the river at that point being unfordable. They discovered a kraal with about 40 Boers inside, who thought the deep river was a perfect protection for them. The seven adventurous fellows opened fire from a place of concealment, and the Boers, utterly surprised, fled precipitately, taking refuge in a neighboring kopje. This plucky enterprise has been much spoken of, and earned for the seven the distinction of being the first British troops to cross the Vet River."

The British roll call at Pekin included the names of seventy women and many children. There were also many missionaries, with their families, in the doomed enclosure. Friends of the British Minister remembered sadly his satisfaction when he received his appointment, and his telling them that he was at last in great luck in receiving such a promotion. Lady Hart is completely prostrated at her London residence by the tragic death of her husband, for which his own despatch had somewhat prepared her.

Contre Admiral Bendemann, of the German navy, who has been placed in command of the East Asiatic squadron to represent Germany in the Chinese imbroglio, though little heard of heretofore is one of the oldest and most experienced commanders in the German navy. Prince Henry, the German Emperor's brother, requested to be given this command, but the Emperor refused, undoubtedly because the critical situation requires a man of experience and ripe judgment. After the warships which have just started from Kiel have arrived in Chinese waters, Admiral Bendemann will have the imposing force of twenty-five ships, including four battleships, five first-class cruisers, and six torpedo boats.

He Walked The Floor

In Agony With Pains in the Back—Sleep Impossible—Medicine of no Avail—till He got Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. Patrick J. McLaughlan, Beauharnois, Que., states:—"I was troubled with Kidney Disease and Dyspepsia for 20 years and have been so bad that I could not sleep at nights on account of pains in the back, but would walk the floor all night and suffered terrible agony."

"I tried all sorts of medicines but got no relief until I began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They made a new man of me, and the old troubles seem to be driven out of my system."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have an enormous sale and owe their popularity to the fact that they can be absolutely relied upon to cure all ailments of the kidneys, liver, and stomach. They are purely vegetable in composition, prompt and effective in action, and cure permanently. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmansson, Bates and Co. Toronto.
