LORD ROWALLAN takes the opportunity of shaking hands with a number of two-star cubs at a scout and cub rally held at Prince of Wales College last night. Prior to addressing the cubs and scouts the Chief Scout was welcomed to the rally by Dr. George Fisher, district commissioner.

Rousing Ovation Given Chief Scout In Ch'town

Loud ovations, which echoed from every corner of Prince of Wales College auditorium, gave Lord Rowallan, M.C. Chief Scout of the British Commonwealth, a pleasing welcome from cubs and scouts from the eastern end of the island at a rally last evening. On hand to greet the Chief Scout were packs representing Crapaud, North Rustico, Souris, Montague and all Charlottetown packs. The official party, consisting of the Chief Scout, R.C. Parent, provincial commissioner; Mrs. Parent, assistant provincial commissioner for guides and D. Francis Morgan, Lord Rowallan's travelling companion from Imperial Headquarters, were piped into the auditorium through an honor guard of scouts, by Bruce MacLaren. Lord Rowallan was officially welcomed by Dr. George Fisher, district commissioner and had the opportunity of seeing the "Jungle Dance" presented for him by the Zion pack.

Addresses RALLY In addressing the cubs and scouts, Lord Rowallan noted the history behind the good turn and reminded the group that happiness could not be bought. "The only way to find happiness for ourselves," he said, "is to give it away to other people." "Don't look for the easy way out of difficulty but face up to it boldly, with the courage and determination that you are never going to give in," he added. The Chief Scout went on to say "I hope you realize that every test you pass and every badge you wear, open up new opportunities to help other people at all times. With the winning

Canada Ponders Atom Ship

QUEBEC (CP) — Canada is capable of building an atomic-powered ice-breaker and is studying the possibility, a transport department official said Monday. Andrew MacClements, superintendent of ship operations and marine agencies for eastern Canada, said the matter is in the hands of the transport department and that the ship could be built in one of the St. Lawrence River ports. He made the statement at a ceremony marking the return of the transport department ice-breaker N.B. McLean from her annual Arctic run. The ship docked here Sunday. Mr. MacClements said the Canadian atomic ice-breaker, if built, probably would have Quebec City as her home port.

Eight Bodies Recovered From Ruins

MONTREAL (CP) — Demolition crews Monday started to break down the remaining walls of a fire-blackened mid-town apartment block where at least 18 persons perished Sunday in a raging inferno. Fire rescue crews were ordered to evacuate the sodden ruin, and abandon their sad, slow search for 10 missing bodies until the danger of a wall cave-in had been removed. Civil defence said eight bodies had been recovered when the search was called off late this afternoon. Ten other persons—including an infant baby—were said by a Civil Defence spokesman to be "positively missing." He said it is possible people visiting in the apartment at the time were also trapped. Police officials said it will take several days to sift through the tangled rubble left when flames swept through the apartment wing early Sunday morning.

Immediate East-West Split At Surprise Attacks Talks

EXPECT OPPOSITION IN U.S.

Canada Wants Share Of Production For Defence

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is vigorously pursuing negotiations with the United States aimed at sharing of defence production between the two countries, authorities said Monday. So advanced are these negotiations that preliminary discussions have been held concerning production-sharing arrangements for a system designed to counter the intercontinental ballistic missile. However, officials said there are still serious hurdles to overcome, not least of which is expected opposition from some U.S. congressmen and segments of U.S. industry. First production-sharing arrangements, if they can be worked out, will relate to new radar stations and a $100,000,000 electronic system for air defence known as SAGE (Semi-Automatic Ground Environment).

Abegweit Repairs Slated For Wed.

MONCTON — The New Brunswick - Prince Edward Island ferry Abegweit will be out of service Wednesday of this week while a mechanical repair is made to the ship at Borden, P.E.I., it was announced here Monday. But sharing of responsibility in this venture has not yet been worked out exactly. However, officials said equipment for that part of the project to be built and paid for by Canada will be purchased insofar as possible in Canada. The same process will apply to the Bonaventure aircraft missile and the counter-ICBM. Canada is expected to produce some parts for these weapons but is unlikely to establish a full assembly line for production of either. Last week's disclosure that the government is providing temporary work for some 200 Canadian electronics and missile engineers who otherwise would have gone to the U.S. is an indication that the administration plans to have built in Canada components for the new air defence system.

LEST WE FORGET

The 2nd Division reached the Mons-Givry road. During the night of Nov. 10 and morning of Nov. 11 the two divisions resumed their advance, oblivious to the fact that at 5 a.m. Nov. 11 the Germans signed the armistice in Marshal Foch's railway car at Rethondes station in the Forest of Compiègne. The armistice was to take effect at 11 a.m. Meanwhile, the Canadians cleared the Mons suburbs of Nimy and Petit Nimy with the bayonet and by 6 a.m. stubborn machine-gun resistance had been broken and the ancient town freed of the enemy. Mons was the point where the British Expeditionary Force first made contact with the Germans in August, 1914.

Russia Wants To Include General Disarmament Move

GENEVA (Reuters)—The East and West split immediately at the opening Monday of a 10-power conference to discuss ways of preventing surprise attacks. Russia, speaking for the East, demanded that the conference consider sweeping disarmament proposals, saying this was inseparable from the question of surprise attacks. The United States, as Western spokesman, rejected this approach, saying Russia was trying to get political implications in a technical conference. Western delegates insisted the talks be limited to a technical, non-political study of methods to minimize the danger of surprise attack. They said disarmament is a political matter outside the scope of the military men and scientists at the conference.

Khushchev Demands End To Occupation Of Berlin

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev demanded an end to four-power occupation of Berlin Monday. He hinted that the Soviet Union is ready to free itself of treaty obligations to the West on freedom of transport between isolated West Berlin and West Germany. The Soviet leader told a Polish-Soviet friendship meeting at Lenin Stadium the time has evidently come for the powers which signed the Potsdam agreement to give up the remnants of the occupation regime in Berlin. (The United States, Britain and West Germany all turned a cold shoulder on the idea.) Khrushchev declared the West-empowers "long ago abolished that legal basis on which they stay in Berlin rested" and on which rights of communication between West Germany and West Berlin depend. West Berlin is an occupied enclave 110 miles deep in Communist East Germany. The Soviet blockade of Berlin's transport lifelines in 1948-49 was beaten by an Allied airlift.

Mother Of Man Killed In Vancouver Now In Russia

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Beatrice O'Donnell, whose son was shot to death under mysterious circumstances in Vancouver last week, is holidaying in the Soviet Union at expense of Russian authorities. A letter from Mrs. O'Donnell was found at Vancouver in the effects of her son, Merrell O'Donnell, a former DEW line employee, who died in hospital Nov. 2 after being found in a hotel with a bullet wound in the chest. Vancouver police said they believed it was suicide. However, a coroner's jury returned an inquest verdict ruling out possibility of suicide. A box of Communist literature

Democratic new Congress to provide adequate—and additional—financial resources to help 700,000,000 people in free Asia.

Eisenhower outlined his aid plan in an address prepared for delivery at a meeting of diplomats attending the 18-nation Colombo Plan conference on cooperative economic assistance for South and Southeast Asia. The president urged the free world's better-off nations to join the U.S. in carrying out his program for under-privileged countries but he also called on the Asian nations to develop cooperative sound measures of self-help. URGES TRADE EXPANSION Eisenhower recommended: 1. Expansion of international trade. He said the larger part of capital goods required for economic development must be financed through such trade and hence more advised relaxation of restrictions hindering its flow. 2. Wider sharing of technical skills, which he described as the bedrock of economic development. 3. Ever greater emphasis on private investment. The president said the resources of American private capital are far larger than the amount the government can provide for projects in free Asia. 4. Greater provision for public loans on normal bankable terms—for projects such as highways. He noted the World Bank, which already is extending such loans, has agreed to consider an increase in the bank's capital subscriptions. 5. Expansion of development financing to provide borrowers with greater flexibility regarding repayment terms. This, Eisenhower said, will help make possible many sound projects which cannot qualify for bankable loans. The president again proposed creation of an international development association—a second World Bank—to mobilize the financial resources of the free world for this program.
