REAGH & MILLER, - - Proprietors.

Designed to Educate Young Men for Business.

OUR SYSTEM is conducted on Actual Business and Scientific Principles, and embraces all subjects necessary for a thorough COMMERCIAL EDUCATION. Our facilities for teaching these are the most complete that have ever been devised. Theory and practice are combined, and the whole course rendered so interesting and practical that the duller student cannot fail to be largely benefited. The course of study is short, practical, useful and reasonable; it is just what every MAN needs and will use, no matter what his calling or profession is to be.

The youth commencing a business life with only industry and integrity as his capital, the clerk engaged during business hours, but desirous by evening study to repair the defects in his education, each have the advantage offered by our sessions occupying DAY AND EVENING. Morning Session, 9.30 to 12, and 2 to 4 p. m. Evening Session, 7.30 to 9.30.

Diplomas granted to such as pass satisfactory examinations. Students may enter at any time. No entrance examination required. Business men and others are cordially invited to call and examine our system.

Teach your sons what they will practice when they become men.

Full particulars concerning Terms, Tuition, Scholarships, &c., &c., on application to L. B. MILLER, Principal.

Charge of the Heavy Brigade.

ALFRED TENNYSON'S LATEST POEM, PUBLISHED 1ST MARCH IN MACMILLAN'S MAGAZINE—A COMPANION PIECE TO THE BALACLAVA CHARGE.

[By Special Cable Despatch to the New York Independent from London.

The charge of the gallant Three Hundred, the Heavy Brigade!
Down the hill, down the hill, thousands of Russians,
Thousands of horsemen drew to the valley—and stayed.
For Scarlett and Scarlett's Three Hundred were riding by
When the points of the Russian lances broke in on the sky:
And he called "Left wheel into line!" and they wheeled and obeyed.
Then he looked at the host that had halted, he knew not why,
And he turned half round, and he bade his trumpet sound
"To the charge!" and he rode on ahead, as he waved his blade
To the gallant Three Hundred, whose glory will never die,
"Follow and up the hill!"
Up the hill, up the hill, followed the Heavy Brigade.

The trumpet, the gallop, the charge and the might of the fight!
Down the hill, slowly, thousands of Russians
Drew to the valley, and halted at last on the height
With a wing pushed out to the left and a wing to the right.
But Scarlett was far on ahead, and he dashed up alone
Through the great gray slope of men;
And he wielded his sabre, and held his own like an Englishman there and then.
And the three that were nearest him followed with force,
Wedged themselves in between horse and horse,
Fought for their lives in the narrow gap they had made,
Four amid thousands, and up the hill, up the hill,
Galloped the gallant Three Hundred, the Heavy Brigade.

Fell, like a cannon shot,
Burst, like a thunder-bolt,
Crashed, like a hurricane,
Broke through the mass from below,
Drove through the midst of the foe,
Plunged up and down, to and fro,
Rode flashing blow upon blow,
Brave Eniskillens and Greys,
Whirling their sabres in circles of light;
And some of us, all in amaze,
Who were held for swills from the fight
And were only standing as gaze,
When the dark, muffled Russian crowd
Folded its wings from the left and the right
And roll'd them around like a cloud—
Oh! mad for the charge and the battle were we
When our own good red coats sank from sight,
Like drops of blood in a dark gray sea;
And we turned to each other, muttering all dismayed,
"Lost are the gallant Three Hundred, the Heavy Brigade!"

But they rode, like victors and lords,
Through the forests of lancers and sword;
In the heart of the Russian hordes
They rode, or they stood at bay;
Struck with the sword-hand and slew;
Down with the bridle-hand drew
The foe from the saddle, and threw
Under foot there in the fray;
Fanged like a storm, or stood like a rock
In the wave of a stormy day;
Till suddenly, shock upon shock,
Staggered the mass from without;
For our men galloped up with a cheer and a shout,
And the Russians surged, and wavered, and reeled,
Up the hill, up the hill, up the hill, out of the field,
Over the brow and away.

Glory to each and to all, and the charge that they made!
Glory to all the Three Hundred, the Heavy Brigade!

The three hundred of the Heavy Brigade who made this famous charge were the Scots Greys and the second squadron of the Eniskillens, the remainder of the Heavy Brigade subsequently dashing up to their support. The three were Elliot, Scarlett's aide-de-camp, who had been riding by his side, and the trumpeter, and the orderly, who had been close behind him.

THE DOMESTIC MONTHLY FOR MARCH, 1882.—Winter departs with the appearance of the March magazines, but winter wraps may not disappear quite so speedily, at least in northern latitudes. Whatever the weather may be, the Domestic Monthly provides for its readers a copious store of seasonal advice. Street costumes for warm, spring-like days, cloaks and coats when March winds are roaring, the styles which will prevail during Lent and Easter, and all the thousand and one appurtenances of modern feminine costumes are discussed with due regard to the requirements of this progressive age. The illustrations are numerous and admirable, and many new paper fashions are described with an attention to detail which will prove most acceptable to ladies in search of the best advice concerning their spring wardrobe. The literary department contains a delightful story of Parisian life, which is, no doubt, founded on fact. The London letter and the editorial departments are full of items interesting to all who wish to keep up with the current gossip of the day. The "Domestic Monthly" is published by Blake & Company, corner Broadway and Fourteenth Street, New York, at $1.50 per year, inclusive of pattern premium. Single copies 15 cents.

Letter from Mr. Waller.

To the Editor of the Examiner.
SIR,—In looking over your valuable paper of the 8th instant, I noticed a letter therein written by Dr. J. T. Jenkins, in which reference is made to my letter containing charges against Dr. Blanchard, which were summarily dismissed by the Commissioners. I was induced to get a copy of the Commissioners' Report, which speaks of my letter as follows: "Of the charges contained in it, some will be seen, from the evidence of others, as well as from his own verbal testimony, to be unfounded; others are, in our opinion, frivolous and absurd, and we do not wonder that the Government declined to make them a subject of special inquiry." Now, sir, I should like to know which are frivolous and which are unfounded. I was not allowed a single book relating to the Od Asylum to refer to, although I repeatedly asked for them, or even attempted to be disproved, in my presence; neither was it told me which were absurd, and, further, I believe that my evidence is not upon record as given by me. I am led to suspect this from the fact of my signature thereto not being obtained, as was the case with those of the other witnesses. In fact, I am confident that the Commissioners could not truthfully say that my charges are either frivolous or absurd, and I myself would prove they are not unfounded, were I allowed to do so; but, I am sorry to say, I was not allowed a single book or paper, as asked for, to enable me to do so.
In conclusion, allow me to say that I think the Commissioners were too friendly to Dr. Blanchard to allow anything to be proved against him; but I am prepared to prove, before an impartial tribunal, every word I stated in my letter, and I think the public there will wonder that the Government declined to make them a subject of special inquiry.
Hoping you will allow me space for the above, I remain, sir,
Yours respectfully,
E. WALLER.
Ch'town, 10th March, 1882.

NEWS NOTES

To indulge a consciousness of goodness is the way to lose it.
A Frenchman says "you can prove nothing to women. They believe only with their hearts or imaginations."
I've seen men cured of drunkenness; I've seen men cured of stealing; I've seen men cured of cruelty; but I have never yet known of a man that was cured when once drunken with vanity.

The Intercolonial Railway receipts for January were $168,261, against $149,168 for the same month last year. The increase for the same month is therefore within a fraction of $20,000, and for the seven months of the fiscal year it is $139,343, or at the rate of nearly a quarter of a million dollars per annum.
Around Nelsonville, Man., says the Mountaineer, speculation is wild. It is getting to be quite common for a settler to sell his farm at from $5 00 to $10,000—$25 cash, balance in twenty to thirty days. The calculation of the purchaser is that within the time specified he may dispose of the land at an advance; if not, he only loses his $25.

From returns it appears that the shareholders of the Canada Pacific Railway are George Stephens, $500,000; Duncan McIntyre, $600,000; J. S. Kennedy & Co., New York, $500,000; J. J. Hill, St. Paul, $500,000; R. B. Angus, $500,000; D. A. Smith, $500,000; H. S. Northcote, $180,000; and Morton, Rose & Co., $741,000. The Frankfort interest, $255,000; the Paris interest, $745,000; making a total of subscribed capital of $6,100,000, of which 39 per cent. has been paid.

Miss Munro's lessons, given in Moncton, on the art of cooking, are well attended, and the girls are making good progress. The Times says: "Pater-familias as a late dinner without grumbling, sustained by visions of the delectable ticking of palate to be enjoyed when high-art cooking has become the rule and plain food the exception. On the whole Miss Munro is fully meeting the expectations of all and her teaching is likely to be productive of permanently good results."

Another swindle has been devised, in Ontario, against which farmers and others are warned. An alleged speculator in country produce calls on a farmer, purchases $10 or $15 worth of eggs, butter, or poultry, says he wants a receipt to show the firm that he paid the money, breaks the point of his pencil before the signature is reached, then taking from his pocket a fountain pen, and the farmer uses it, signing his name. The swindler then goes to town, sells the produce, crosses the body of the receipt, writes instead a promissory note for $50 or $100, and has it discounted at the bank.

Donizetti, the famous composer, passed the last years of his life in a madhouse, haggard, worn, crouching in terror, at times running on all fours like a wild beast. Only twice or thrice did a ray of light pass athwart the thick cloud resting on his mind. The last time was when, as he was walking in the garden gesticulating wildly to himself, as was his wont, he heard in the road without an organist playing the well-known air from "Lucia." "O bel ange," Suddenly the composer lifted his head and listened. He recognized the music and hummed a few bars, then burst into tears crying:—"Poor Donizetti—dead—dead—dead!" A few minutes later the cloud had settled down once more and a month afterwards he died.
