The Newfoundland Fisheries.

A St. John's, N. F., despatch says:—
"Thousands of Newfoundland fishermen are petitioning the legislature, setting forth that the customs tariff of the colony is so framed that the fishermen pay an undue proportion of the revenue, they being taxed on their food, clothing and every article and implement used in the prosecution of their industry; that while American fishermen receive a drawback equal to, or larger than, the duties paid by them upon all articles and implements used in their fishery operations, and while Canadian fishermen not only receive their fishery supplies free of duty, but are annually paid a bounty of about $160,000, both American and Canadian fishermen (the former by preference, the latter by right) enjoy upon equal terms with the fishermen of this colony the privilege of taking and procuring bait and ice upon the coast and in the bays and harbors of Newfoundland; that while fish of all kinds sent from Newfoundland is subject to duty when entering the United States, fish sold in this country free of duty by American fishermen; and that in consequence of this very unfair competition large and increasing quantities of green and dry fish are freely sold in this colony by American and Canadian fishermen, whereby the price paid to our own fishermen is materially lessened. Therefore your petitioners respectfully urge upon your honorable house that it is grossly unfair that even in this colony our fishermen should be subjected to greater burdens than the fishermen who come here from other countries to compete with them. And we respectfully petition your honorable house that it will levy upon all kinds of fish coming from any country whatever, a duty equal to that which is levied upon such fish when sent from this colony into such country; that it will make such an adjustment of the tariff as will cause it to bear more equitably than at present upon the fishermen; and that it will initiate and perfect such other measures as may to you seem wise and necessary to place the fishermen of this colony upon a footing of equality with those of other countries with whom they come into competition."

A Bastardly Outrage.

The Toronto correspondent of the Halifax Herald telegraphs as follows on the 21st: "Sir John and Ministers arrived here again this morning and from the statements made by them it would appear that the mishap to the car Jameson, which was believed to have been caused by an accident, was the result of a deliberately planned explosion. It was about 4 o'clock in the morning that it happened. Every one in the car was asleep, but the porter, and he says he heard two distinct explosions. The window of the door and the window alongside of it were the first side window around the corner were all blown out and the fragments shattered about the car. The glass was of thick plate. Beside this, the frame work of the door, of the heaviest hardwood, was badly damaged. It was not a shock but a noise. It was such that it awakened every one in the car. J. J. Curran, M. P., of Montreal, was sleeping on a sofa nearest the door and he is sure it was an explosion. Sir John affirms that he heard a distinct explosion. So does his Secretary, Pope. An examination of the car shows that it was no accident. Some one either had a bomb planted on the track or threw one at the passing car and timed it well. The fright sustained by the inmates of the car was such that one of them said he frankly believed his hour had come. The car is now lying at the station. Although none of the Ministers would say what had been done to ascertain the truth, it is believed that two special officers from the Dominion agency have been detailed to report on the matter."

Hanlan's Experience.

Edward Hanlan said to a New York reporter a few days ago: "I left America on September 18, with the intention of meeting Beech in England and rowing a match with him. I was willing to wager any sum from £500 to £1,500 that I could beat him, but he declined all my propositions on the plea that he was compelled to return to Australia. I challenged Ross and he refused, I suppose, because it was plain that I was in pretty good trim. Teener had already issued a challenge to row me and I accepted it, but then he suddenly discovered that he could not meet me. Then I issued a general challenge to row Mattison, Kemp, Nelson, or any of the Australian oarsmen, but my challenges passed unnoticed. At this juncture Ross and Lee issued a card to the effect that they would row a double scull race with any two men in the world. I talked over the matter with Ten Eyck and accepted the challenge. The race was to be rowed on the Thames on Oct. 13 for £100 a side. Ross and Lee backed out. Then a four-oared race was arranged between myself, Teener, Hamu and Ten Eyck on one side, Perkins, Ross, Lee and Eubank on the other. The stakes were £200 a side, and we rowed on the Thames. My crew won easily. I tried to get another match but failed. I journeyed through the north of England and received many testimonials."

Advice to Mothers.

SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain; and the little shrewd awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gurgles, allays all pain, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other kind.

Smith's Remarkable Jump.

FROM THE TOP OF A 160 FOOT CHIMNEY HANGING TO AN UMBRELLA SLICK.

All Walkill and surrounding country were thrown into a state bordering on insanity when they read the announcement of the intention of George Smith, the general utility man of J. C. Beach & Bro., at their mill, to out-do not only Brodie, of East River bridge fame, but Larry Donovan, the Niagara artist as well. George is a man of about 27 summers, and in his very occupation of a man of all work he has become a trained athlete.

In order to show the general public what he could do, he asked and obtained permission to leap, on Thanksgiving day, from the smoke stack of the paper mill. It looked like a fool-hardy attempt, yet, despite the protestation of friends, and after sharp evasions of officers of the law, he has successfully accomplished a most wonderful and successful performance. Exactly at half-past two he emerged from the finishing room of the paper mill, where his trainer, Jeff Wells, had put on a few last touches. Making his way to the foot of the stack, without hesitation he immediately commenced his perilous ascent. A few moments only were consumed in reaching the top, where he regarded the horrified assemblage by standing on his head in the network at the top, then on signal from his trainer he commenced to haul up the only artificial assistance he received. It consisted of a large umbrella, much in the style of those used by market men. After adjusting his shoes he hoisted the umbrella, and to music by the Walkill drum corps he leaped into the air. He seemed to have calculated the distance well, for by a series of gyrations that the pigeon who picks up rye at the mill door could not excel, he kicked and sailed over the top of the straw-stacks, over the mill stable, and with a last expiring flop fell in the Walkill. There he was rescued by the new postmaster, who, true disciple of Izaak Walton that he is, was taking his first holiday since appointment. Save a slight nausea, Smith experienced no evil effects from his jump. The stack is 160 feet high.—Walkill Valley Times.

The Greatest Race in

Arrangements have been made for running of the greatest race ever known in America. The will be practically those of Eclipse stakes. The Louisville Club offers a stake of $50,000 for a mile and a quarter, to be run in the fall of 1886. Following is a summary of the stakes:—

The nominator of the winner to receive $500; nominator of the second to receive $500; and nominator of the third to receive $500, by subscription of $50 each, only forfeit if declared by Jan. 1, 1888; if declared by July 1, 1888; $300 if declared by Jan. 1, 1889, and $500 for horses left after that date. All declarations void unless accompanied with the money. Three hundred entries to fill or the race be declared void at the opinion of the club. Weight for age, 14 miles.

The Abuse of Liquor.

VIEWS OF KENTUCKY LIQUOR DEALERS ON LICENSES, SUNDAY CLOSING AND SHE-BEENS.

The executive committee of the National Protective Association of liquor dealers met at Louisville, a few days ago, and decided that a moderate license system would be the most beneficial to the trade and the public, and that it would be to the interest of wholesale and retail dealers to eliminate fraud in evading the payment of lawful licenses; also to prevent the sale of liquors to minors, to close saloons on Sunday, and if possible, to induce municipalities to cease granting licenses to disorderly establishments. The committee held that it was the abuse of liquor that did harm, and charged this mainly to city governments allowing licenses to improper parties.

Five hundred dollars is the sum Dr. Pierce offers for the detection of any calomel, or other mineral poison or injurious drug, in his justly celebrated Pleasant Purgative Pellets. They are about the size of a mustard seed, therefore easily taken, while their operation is unattended by any gripping pain. Billiousness, sick headache, bad taste in the mouth, and jaundice, yield at once to these little pills. Druggists.
