ty of my pearls to sleep in them, or is it just an old wives' tale?" An old question, but one that jewelers are frequently being asked nowadays as fashion has brought pearls — real cultured popularity.

S'side St. Paul's
Credit Union
Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Saint Paul's Credit Union Limited was held last night in the C. M. B. A.
Hall, Summerside, with a good attendance of members and visitors.

The president's report showed that the financial affairs of the union were being well attended to by the directors and the different committees.

The president, Mr. Cyrus Poirier, conducted the meeting and gave a most comprehensive review of the work accomplished during the year and an outline of the work for the coming year.

Pointing to the fact that the union had assets of about $78,000-00, he stated that this was a comparatively small amount for a town of this size and gave figures to show that other unions in this province in much smaller places had much larger assets.

The report of the treasurer showed that the sum of two thousand dollars uncollected interest had all been brought in and while the accounts payable last year showed an amount of $2,500.00 this year's report showed that the accounts payable had all been liquidated.

The total income for the year, according to the financial report was shown as $979.33 and undivided earnings of $225.55. The shares have increased over last year to the amount of $7391.00 and the assets have increased $6130.57.

The credit committee reported that during the year 103 loans had been approved and that 190 of these had been repaid.

It was decided on motion to allot the sum of $30.00 to be taken from the educational fund to be at the discretion of the directors for prizes for credit union essays in the Convent School and the Summerside High School.

There was no election of officers as the present slate will hold office for the next two years. The following new directors were elected: Theodore Gallant, Wilfred Perry, J. A. Gallant and Alban Doyle. The credit committee, J. A.
Arsenault, William Cameron, Mr.
Elmer Peneau was appointed to be the audit committee. Dr. Hillard Clark of the Trinity Credit Union was present and in his address to the members he brought greetings from the Trinity Union and congratulated the St. Paul's union for the work and the progress it had shown.

At the conclusion of the annual meeting refreshments were served to all present.

2,000 Attend
Luncheon For
Royal Couple

By ALAN RANDAL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)
MONTREAL, Oct. 30 — (CP) — Canada's bilingual metropolis put on a noon-time party for Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh today to introduce the royal pair to the people between 25 and 35 years of age who are supposed to make this town light and gay.

It was a good party, too, at the chalet on top of Mount Royal.

But "25" took a terrible heating. A good many hundreds of Montrealers who first saw 35 many years ago were along.

The birds must have taken a heating, too, because almost every second woman had a hat built on the close-to-the-head lines and made of feathers. In many cases they seemed to be feathers from small birds.

The Princess and the Duke of Edinburgh arrived at the chalet at 1:45 P.M. a few minutes late because of a scientific chat the Duke had this morning with members of the Royal Canadian Association for the Advancement of Science. A call to London to talk to the King and Queen added to the minutes to the delay in the schedule.

By arrival time perhaps 2,000 were jammed into the mountain chalet, when only 1,400 were anticipated.

As expected, all the girls had a new dress and accessories for the occasion. The escorts appeared to spend a somewhat boring hour and a half before royally arrived but the girls had a great time looking at and talking about each other's duds.

Mayor Camille Houde met the Royal Couple on their arrival and led them to the Lookout to see his city, far before them and garlanded by the St. Lawrence River. Inside the chalet things were pretty much bedlam with the boys and girls — and the elderly folk too — jamming toward the centre to get a glimpse of the arrival before the buffet luncheon was served.

The Princess and the Duke got a great round of handclaps when they entered, also a few minutes to rest and then the luncheon was on. It took about an hour.

The Royal Couple ate in a curtained-off section and then saw a couple of habitant-type maidens wearing peasant skirts, blouses and sablots do a French-Canadian dance.

Then, for a few minutes the Princess and her consort mingled with the guests, made a walk around the chalet during which the girls were asked to dance. After that they whipped off into the car for the continuance of an already-crowded day.

Company Submission

The Telephone Company submitted "because of change in conditions beyond the control of the company the rates now in effect are insufficient to meet its needs and will continue to be inadequate in an increasing measure."

Witnesses for the company emphasized the extent of the growth of telephone facilities here and evidence adduced revealed that the number of telephones in use in this Province had grown from 4,311 in 1939 to 10,454 in 1950, or an increase of approximately 142 per cent. Long distance messages had also risen in number from 188,677 in 1939 to 566,757 in 1950. Local messages had also shown a vast increase from the 8,223,730 in 1939 to 20,786,750 last year. At the same time the number of employees here had jumped from 85 to 153.

The company through its witnesses showed that there was a continued demand for services despite the 6,140 extra telephones put in service since 1939, and that there was a strong demand for conversion of manual equipment to dial equipment. It was estimated by company witnesses that such conversion in the Charlottetown area would cost $830,000. The brief presented to the Commission also stated that the 1950 payroll had increased 260% over that of 1939.

In its brief the company showed that gross expenditures for the estimated construction programme for 1951 totalled $384,000, while it was estimated that for 1953 they would amount to $908,504.

Increased Calls

In mentioning the greatly increased number of calls made by telephone here over the year 1939, Mr. Dickie said that users had become more conscious of the service and as a result were putting it to greater use. This meant that the company had to engage a greater number of people and train them in the work to be done.

Submits Schedule

The company also showed in a prepared schedule that at existing rates there would be earnings which would provide deficits for 1951, 1952 and 1953 of $32,726, $68-362 and $131,963 respectively. The brief goes on to say that "in the present financial condition of the Company the financing of the required expansion and development of facilities is a matter of extreme seriousness."

In a discussion of the necessity of raising funds to maintain and carry on the service the company brief states that it is submitted that the record of earnings and dividends paid is not sufficient to attract equity capital.

The company went on to state in their brief that "if the construction programme is to be fulfilled including the conversion of the Charlottetown exchange area from manual to dial, the Company must be allowed a rate structure that will enable it to attract capital at reasonable cost, and to maintain its credit position on a sound basis."

Mr. Dickie outlined the financial needs of the Company for the next three years and added that "if additional revenue requirements are not met the construction programme cannot be proceeded with and the Company will not have sufficient earnings to meet its present obligation."

Opening Session

At the opening of the hearing yesterday Mr. Matheson K. C., counsel for the Company, suggested a form of presentation of evidence which would let all the witnesses make their presentations separately and so be cross examined immediately afterwards. This would keep the evidence in compact form for study by the Commission. The evidence was tape recorded and all witnesses and ques-tioners used microphones.

Mr. F. H. Doyle, comptroller of the Company, was on the stand most of the morning and afternoon sessions as he was frequently recalled to detail the financial setup of the Island Telephone Company and the Maritime Telephone and Telegraph Company.

He stated that he had had 39 years experience with the parent company in various departments and was the controller of the Island Telephone Company. He said that there had been an operating agreement between the two companies since 1948 with the Maritime unit undertaking to supply operational and accounting services. All the accounting work is done in Halifax by a specially trained staff. If the work were done here it would cost the local company approximately $18,873 per year, according to the witness.

Mr. Doyle was of the opinion that this charge was much lower than that of the Island Telephone Company supplied the services itself.
He stated that if the latter service was obtained, expenses would rise considerably because the Maritime "group" was doing this at a much lower cost per station, meaning per telephone, than could be done locally. This cost to the local company was lower than in Nova Scotia. He said the general rate was $4.20 per year per telephone in the Maritimes while the local company was being charged only $2.71 per phone per year.

In talking about general operating costs Mr. Doyle said that no salaries were paid by the Island Telephone Company to other than resident employees. He also stated that a majority of the purchases of the Maritime group were made through the parent company because bulk purchasing could be done cheaper.

Maintenance Costs

Under questioning by Mr. Matheson the witness said that as shown in the schedule submitted the maintenance costs had risen from approximately $48,000 in 1939 to $137,000 in 1950. This meant that the maintenance per telephone had risen in the same period from $11.25 per year to $13.70. Reasons entering into the increase in maintenance costs were the greater number of phones in use and higher wages in effect at present.

"Baby" Rose Marie
Grows Up; Now 26
She's Gotham Star

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 — (AP) — She is five foot two now with bright blue eyes and the 1951 figure, but I remember 21 years ago when she stood three foot five and her blue eyes gave me an enchanting twinkle.

Yes, Baby Rose Marie has grown up — 26 years of her in all the right places, taking her vocal abilities right up the musical ladder to her present fame.

It was September, 1930, when we first met. Baby Rose Marie was NBC's new singing sensation and critics hailed her as the one to succeed Sophie Tucker, Belle Baker and the other sultry-voiced singers then captivating the night club world. This was when Baby Rose Marie had reached the age of five.

Rose Marie's mother did most of the talking and all the brunette, blue-eyed lass wanted to do then was climb onto my knee and whisper that she really knew what Amos and Andy looked like without make-up.

The other day she wasn't climbing onto my knee for obvious reasons and the brown hair had given way to blonde. But her eyes were still sparkling as the kid star grew up talked of her four-year-old youngster and discussed with me our mutual problems about baby sitting.

In private life Rose Marie now is Mrs. Robert Guy. Her husband is a top musician who supplies lyrical accompaniment to radio and television shows.

Bit Of Sentiment

"I still haven't got quite rid of the Baby Rose Marie characterization," she said. "When I go to parties I wear a Buster Brown haircut and costume and try to be Baby Rose Marie again for a night.
Just sentiment, I guess. I realize I don't fool anyone about my age. But, it makes me feel young again."

Miss Rose Marie — "Baby" that is — says she's played every vaudeville house in the country, starting at five as a baby, and again at 19 when she grew up to Rose Marie.

"But, before I tour the stages as 'madam' I want to be on Broadway as a grown up, glorious and glamorous actress."

"Baby" is heading for that for she opens soon on Broadway with Phil Silvers and Joey Faye in the musical comedy, "Top Banana." If that little confuses you, it means top man in burlesque show.

"And with my experience in show business," she commented, "don't let them tell you that I don't understand everything in this story of burlesque. I was born in a trunk backstage. I heard all the jokes. October marks my 21st anniversary in show business."

"I guess that's long enough to rehearse for my Broadway debut."

Deadly Beauty

The blast was believed, unofficially to be 20th United States nuclear explosion. It appeared at least three times as powerful and bright as a medium scale blast last Sunday. Observers reckoned it as equal to 100 of the so-called baby A-bombs, one of which began this test series Oct. 22.

S'side Kinsmen
Club Has Plans
For Big Party

The regular meeting of the Summerside Kinsmen Club was held last evening with Harold Arsenault in the chair. Mr. Norman Hogg reported on the plans for the Halloween party to be staged tonight at the Summerside High School auditorium. Most of the work has been done, plans for the big parade to be headed by the Canadian Legion band are finalized and it looks like a big night tonight for the children of the town when the members of the club play hosts to all the boys and girls of the town who care to attend and enjoy their hospitality.
There will be a big two-hour programme and the talent is good.

Jim Harris said that the net proceeds from the dance held recently would amount to approximately $375.00 and that a full report would be given at a later meeting.

Dave Carnegie reported that his committee would hand in a full report on the Kinsmen rink at the next meeting.

The entertainment was in the form of "20 questions" and was conducted by Al Bestall.
