OCEAN SHIPWRECKS.
A GHOSTLY COMPANY WHICH THE ELBE HAS GONE TO JOIN.
Half a Century's Deadly Record—Shipwrecks
Which Have Vanished Without Leaving a Trace—The Danger That is Always Present Now-a-Days on the Ocean.

The loss of the Elbe, with more than 300 souls, has just struck terror into the hearts of the people, as only a great ocean disaster can. No other calamity to which citizens of this country are ordinarily liable is so cruel and so wholesale in its destruction of human life as the sinking of an Atlantic liner.

A list has been compiled of the great shipwrecks of the past half century. The disasters of men, women and children, and lake craft are not included, for they would swell the list beyond handling. Most of the accidents recorded occurred on the Atlantic.

It is comforting to notice that the losses in the earlier days of steam navigation are much heavier than they have been in recent years, but the latter disasters are still numerous. The foregoing summary, which is incomplete, shows the Cimbrina, the Naronic, the Oregon off Fire Island, in the most recent ship to share a fate which has overtaken a number of Atlantic liners. Eight great steamships have left port for the New York route, in the most recent ship to share a fate which has overtaken a number of Atlantic liners.

Future School Requirements.
According to an exchange, new pupils in the schools of the future will have to submit to this examination:
Teacher: "Johnnie, have you a certificate of vaccination for smallpox?"
"Yes, sir."
"Have you been inoculated for diphtheria?"
"Yes, sir."
"Have you been vaccinated for cholera bacilli?"
"Yes, sir."
"Have you a written guarantee that you are proof against whooping-cough, measles, mumps, scarlet fever and old age?"
"Yes, sir."
"Do you promise not to exchange sponges with the boy next to you, and never use any but your own pencil?"
"Yes, sir."
"Will you agree to have your books fumigated with sulphur, and sprinkle your clothes with chloride of lime once a week?"
"Yes, sir."
"Johnnie, you have met the first requirements of the modern sanitarian and may now climb over yonder rail, occupy an isolated aluminum seat and begin making 'P's and Q's as your first lesson.'"

Has Declined in Value.
The Prix de Rome, once the object of the ambition of every art student in Paris, has declined so much in value that it is proposed to abolish it. It carries with it a traveling scholarship in Italy, and the plea of those who attack it is that a student possessing it wastes his talent in slavish imitation of the Italian masters, rather than developing it by the interpretation of nature. The sculptor, Rodin, the leader of the antagonists, maintains that this prize has only retarded the progress of the great men who have obtained it in the past.

Four Dire Predictions.
A Berlin theologian predicts a great war in 1897, a new Napoleon in 1899, a terrific earthquake in 1901 and the end of the world in 1903.

HEROISM OF A LUMBERMAN.
Carrying a Wounded Comrade Forty Miles Through Cold and Snow.
A young man, Henry Brault, a resident of Peterboro, Ont., recently performed an act of heroism, actuated by friendship, which is worthy of record among the heroic deeds of heroic men of any age, says The Star. Brault, a resident of Peterboro, Ont., was at work in the wild Madawaska region for the St. Anthony Lumber Company. Jamieson met with a severe fever which rendered him delirious, and Brault started with him for civilization, where surgical treatment could be had. They had traveled on foot but a few hundred yards when Jamieson's strength gave out and he became helpless. Brault, determined to save his companion if in his power, shouldered the invalid and started on his long, cold trail of some 40 miles to the nearest railroad. Without a moment's sleep, and bearing besides his human burden, a package of provisions, Brault continued his journey for four days and nights, through cold and snow, until finally, almost as helpless from exhaustion and fatigue as his friend was from illness, he had the supreme satisfaction of reaching the end of his journey and placing Jamieson where he was able to be properly treated. Such an act of endurance seems almost incredible and only a seasoned soldier, inured to hardship, could have accomplished it; and among those capable of it it is rare to find so striking an example of disinterested friendship, even when a human life is at stake. Whatever his station in life may be, young Brault deserves to rank among nature's noblemen.

Diplomat of the Household.
"Did you hear about Mrs. De Billings?" asked the wife significantly as she sat in the parlor. "No, what about her?" he asked suspiciously. "Well, there's a little gossip going around the neighborhood that may mean something. You know how fond of gossipy she is?"
"Oh, yes."
"And how Mr. De Billings hates society?"
"Yes."
"Well, I heard him say last night that he was tired of that sort of thing."
"I don't blame him."
"And that he proposed to stop it."
"He ought to."
"In fact, his exact words were that he proposed to lead her a merry dance."
"Do you really mean that?" she asked anxiously.
"Of course I do,—" Then he stopped and looked at his wife. "Look here, Jane," he said. "What are you driving at?"
"Well, he ended by explaining that he meant he would take her to the States, and if you really think that it's time."
"I'll take you," he interrupted quickly. "Civil Service Gazette."

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided for our breakfast and supper a delicately flavored beverage which may save many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

ASTHMA PREVALENT.
Many Cases in Charlottetown.
A Noted Physician's Views on the Subject.

Asthma has hitherto baffled the skill of our best physicians. Within a comparatively recent period Dr. R. Schillman, of St. Paul, Minn., who has devoted many years of study to the treatment of asthma, bronchitis, and croup, has prepared a remedy for these affections which is meeting with great success wherever introduced. With this remedy there is no waiting for results. It is not a nauseating compound to be swallowed, but it is used by inhalation, thus reaching the seat of disease direct. Its action is immediate and certain. Acting on the mucous membrane of the air passages, it relieves the spasm and constriction instantaneously, facilitates free and easy expiration, and insures comfortable rest to the patient. All druggists have this remedy in stock, but in order that every sufferer who has in vain tried every other means of relief may test its efficacy, the doctor's representative is unable to sleep except in a chair. He applies within 3 days from date at Geo. E. Hughes' Drug Store, Queen Street, Charlottetown, the full trial package, should address Lyman, Knox & Co., Wholesale agents for Canada, 374 St. Paul Street, Montreal.

OBITUARY.
With deep regret we chronicle the untimely demise of Mrs. Catherine Ryan, beloved wife of James W. Ryan, New Haven, which took place at her home on the 25th ult. A Christian woman, a tender mother, and a model wife, the deceased gave for herself the love and esteem of everyone with which she was surrounded. Her sudden death has thrown a gloom over the whole neighborhood. Though for some time suffering from cancer, her family and friends entertained hopes for her recovery, and at length, when painfully convinced of her approaching death, bowed to the inevitable will of the Omnipotent. The deceased bore her suffering with truly Christian patience and resignation, and died with the consolation of having received the last rites of the Catholic Church, of which she was a worthy member. She leaves a sorrowing husband and large family to mourn their loss. On Thursday at 10 o'clock, a funeral procession, the largest ever witnessed in that part of the country, proceeded to St. Ann's Church, where a Solemn High Mass was sung by the Rev. P. A. Ryan, who sympathized to the large circle of friends and relations.

Priestley's Dress Fabrics
In the long run it is the quality of the material that will determine the success of a lady's costume. Every lady who has at all studied the matter knows this. Priestley's Dress Fabrics are goods as he has at all studied the matter. The ladies of Great Britain cordially acknowledge that these goods are the best that the market affords. That is one reason why they are so popular. The American ladies prefer Priestley's dress fabrics to French. Our Canadian friends are now asking for them. They wear better than other goods; but their charm consists in a peculiar richness and softness of appearance, and a flexibility which enables them to drape in the costume with that suggestion of flow and rhythm which is the dream of all tasteful women to realize.
