

THE BEDEQUE CHURCH AND HALL.

Bedeque Church Figured In Early History Of Province

Two ministers from Ontario will be the guest preachers at services commemorating the 140th anniversary of the first Methodist and the 70th anniversary of the present United Church at Bedeque, Prince Edward Island next Sunday, August 24.

The morning service will hear Rev. D. H. Woodhouse, B. A., B. D. of Armpror, Ont. and in the evening Rev. John Short, D. D., of Toronto will deliver the sermon. The minister of Bedeque United Church is Rev. Garth A. Cowper-Smith.

The history of Bedeque Church indicates that it has been a progressive church since its inception in 1794. Actually there was no church building at this time but as a result of an invitation from Nathaniel Wright, the Rev. William Black was brought to Prince Edward Island and a group of twenty members began meeting at Mr. Wright's home. From 1794 until 1817 Bedeque was an appointment of Charlotte-town. It was in this year that Bedeque became a separate charge and in 1818 a new church was officially opened with Rev. John Fishpool as Minister. This edifice served the worshipping needs of the people until 1848 and was subsequently replaced by the present structure erected in 1888.

Recent events in the life of Bedeque charge were the constituting of a congregation and the opening of a new church at Borden in 1948 and the erection in 1954 of John Craig memorial hall which is one of the finest equipped church halls in the province.

AMONG THE FARMERS

Federation of Agriculture Newsletter

NEW BUSINESS

With Old Home Week safely tucked away the next big farm business coming up is the harvest. Even back in Biblical days harvesting of the grain crop was an operation which had associated with it considerable romance. While it is no longer a matter for the sickle and the gleaners as in the days of Ruth and Boaz yet the romance still continues in the great combines which perform in one operation the job which at one time was made up of many steps. In this province the harvest promises to be a very good one, just about right, not heavy enough or weak enough in the ficient moisture to insure proper filling.

For the next few weeks The Garden of the Gulf will be showing "Golden Harvest Fields" a picture which merits the appreciation of good farmers everywhere.

LIVESTOCK SHOWING

For the livestock man Old Home Week represents an opportunity to display his animals and to win recognition for them. While the prizes are won in the show ring, yet for the smart operator showing does not end on show day. Between then and the end of the fair, if cattle are kept clean and well groomed, the barns neat and tidy and with strong lights to show them by after night, a good impression is created. Some showmen relax after show day but the other kind stay on the job until the animals are on the journey home.

APPLE ASSISTANCE

The well organized apple growers of British Columbia are to receive a deficiency payment of $768,000.00 on their 1957 crop. This payment will be made to the B.C. Fruit Growers Association and will be divided among 3,500 growers. The owner of a 10 acre orchard would receive approximately $600.00 however, the average payment will be slightly over $200.00 for all growers.

The apple growers of British Columbia have done an outstanding job of advertising and marketing their products. British Columbia apples are sold all over the United States and even in Nova Scotia where local apples are in surplus supply. Strong organizations set up and controlled by the producers enable them to bargain effectively on behalf of the industry.

to the economic importance of keeping our main resource—the soil—in production.

A vacant or unoperated farm is a community problem, while it remains in that condition it is as much a liability as it is an asset. Vacant farms have a tendency to spread into vacant areas and soon the whole community starts to deteriorate. The project referred to is significant inasmuch as it represents action on the part of a community group to encourage the resettlement of available farms.

POTATO CONFERENCE

The potato conference just concluded in Fredericton emphasizes the variety of interests involved in this industry which highlights one of its main problems. The producer, the assembler, the shopper, the inspection service, the broker and the fertilizer people all play a significant part. Each one may be inclined to think that his part is the most important, a state of mind which results in lack of co-operation between the different strata and still less within the different strata. Effective organization in the potato industry is made difficult by the stratification referred to. However, this does not mean that the attempt should not be made and cannot be crowned with success.

POTATO ORGANIZATION?

The decision of the last general meeting of potato growers held in Prince of Wales College upon the Potato Producer Association accepting an enlarged board for their organization. This would appear to indicate the necessity of the Potato Producers calling a meeting of its membership to either accept or reject the proposal.

With the new crop coming up and possibly some marketing problems as well, the time for action would appear to be at hand, potato growers have a right to expect some positive evidence of action at this time.

MACHINERY LEGISLATION

The Saskatchewan Act covering the sale of farm implements has for its objective the following: (1) To improve the availability of repairs and service for all farm machinery sold in Saskatchewan. (2) To insure that a person or company is established in Saskatchewan as a responsible general provincial distributor for each line of machinery sold. (3) To test and publish reports on machines being offered for sale in Saskatchewan. (4) In addition a machinery testing service has been set up using the following test procedures: (1) Structural analysis is done, both specifically with electronic strain gauge equipment and, during field trial work. (2) Functional analysis of machine by performance testing in various conditions throughout the province. (3) Co-operation with farmer operators in obtaining the range of field conditions required to thoroughly test the machine. (4) Factors to be evaluated will be, generally: (i) quality of work (ii) quantity or rate of doing work, (iii) power requirements in terms of H.P. and fuel consumption, (iv) labour requirements including an assessment of effort factors such as ease of operation, time required for normal services, maintenance and adjustment of life (vii) safety features, both within the machine and operator safety.
