Huge Soviet Wheat Purchase Means Much To Whole Country

By GREG MACDONALD
 Canadian Press Staff Writer
 Last week's massive wheat purchase by Russia means almost as much to the rest of the country as it does to the Prairie farmer.
 While the farmer will undoubtedly benefit, the $500,000,000 deal, some other problems will also be solved at least temporarily.
 Most of the record Soviet purchase of 227,500,000 bushels of wheat and flour will be shipped eastward—perking up lagging St. Lawrence Seaway business and also benefiting the Maritime ports of Saint John and Halifax, both of which have complained of dwindling port business since the opening of the seaway in 1959.
 All available elevator space, boxcars and shipping space will be needed to lay down the grain—which must be delivered by July 31, 1964—and to keep supplies moving to other customers.
 The deal will also affect Canada's chronic international payments position for both the 1963 and 1964 calendar years, and may even bring her within striking distance of clearing up the current-account deficit.
 At mid-1963 the deficit was running at an annual rate of about $600,000,000.
POSITION TRANSFORMED
 The sale has changed entirely the Canadian wheat position, where this year's estimated 684,000,000 bushel crop threatened to resurrect old surplus problems. The carryover from the last crop was 80,000,000 bushels—making total supplies of more than 1,000,000,000 bushels. However, record exports of 150,000,000 bushels will absorb the entire crop.
 Canada's four milling industries. However, record exports of 150,000,000 bushels will absorb the entire crop.
 J. W. Tall of Montreal, vice president of active Mills, said the industry's output as a result of the sale probably will rise to 95 per cent capacity from the current 75 per cent and will remain that way until mid-July, 1964—the highest rate of capacity since the late 1940s. Elsewhere on the trade front, a five-man Canadian trade mission has left for Europe to seek new markets for Canadian tobacco in Poland, Russia, Austria, Bulgaria, Israel, Italy and France. The mission's objective is to negotiate immediate sales, establish business relationships for future sales and report upon the general market potential in the area visited.

SURVEY SOUTH AMERICA
 An eight-man mission will fly to South America Oct. 5 for a 26-day survey of potential markets for Canadian steel and steel products in Venezuela, Chile, Argentina and Uruguay.
 Meantime, last week, the business community continued to produce a variety of activity and comment.
 N. J. McKinnon, chairman of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, said in Vancouver Thursday that Canada must reduce her need for foreign capital and that Canadians must save a better use of their savings.
 These two paths, he said, are essential to maintain the "notably-strong" tone of the economy.
 Mr. McKinnon urged an improvement in Canada's foreign trade position to reduce the need for foreign capital to balance payments and said industrial savings should go into productive investments, not "swollen programs of government expenditures."
 Earl K. Brownridge, president, American Motors (Canada) Ltd. said at Brampton, Ont., that many Canadian subsidiaries of foreign companies are less profitable than they could be because they are selling in a foreign market.

Money System Reprive Seen In Great Britain

By ALAN HARVEY
 LONDON (CP) — Everybody talks these days about a new Britain, but the beloved features of the old may resist change longer than most people think.
 The signs are that this ancient society may go on for a while yet being the home of the enduring idiosyncrasy, the car with the right-hand drive, the open fire and the leaky pipe, ye olde world tradition.
 And maybe those conchaling nouns, shillings and pence, will get a last-minute reprieve. True enough, the British government indicated last year it was going over to decimal currency, but that was last year. One reason for revamping the money system was to bring Britain into line with continental practices. Now that France has excluded Britain from Europe, the need to shake up the royal mint is less urgent.
 Next Monday, the government will make public report of a committee appointed in January, 1962, to advise what form a decimal currency might take and how much it would cost to introduce.
FINDINGS FACTUAL
 Its findings are expected to be factual only, and the final decision on the decimal system will rest with the government. Although it has already given approval in principle to the switch, there have been some second thoughts, and it seems likely that the question will be sidetracked until after the election.

Russia Buying Flour Supplies In W. Germany

BONN (AP)—Soviet Russia, negotiating with West Germany for the purchase of 250,000 tons of flour, well-informed sources said here.
 The Russians have recently made deals for even larger quantities of wheat from Canada and Australia. West Germany does not grow enough wheat for its own needs, but its efficient flour mills can make attractive offers on flour milled from foreign grain.
 There was no immediate indication of prices or terms in this deal.
 For German mills, this would be a big order. Last year, total exports of flour from West Germany amounted to only 485,000 tons. Communist China,

N.Y. Stocks Hit New Peak For Third Straight Week

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market last week edged to another historic high amid continuing cross currents.
 It was the third straight week that the list has achieved new peaks, and the eighth straight week of advance.
 The market had two sharp moves—a decline on Wednesday and an advance on Thursday, which more than wiped out Wednesday's loss.
 Analysis said, with some exceptions, that the advance of the averages was due to the performance of relatively few stocks.
 The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials advanced 3.47 to end last week at a historic closing record of 743.60.
 The Associated Press average of 89 stocks rose 1.0 to 261.3.

United States Steel Output Continues Climb

CLEVELAND (AP)—The gradual increase in the nation's steel production will continue this week for the sixth straight week. Steel estimates production last week at 1,520,000 net tons. Operations have risen gradually from the year's low point of 36.8 per cent of unofficial capacity in the week ended Aug. 17. Steel sales, and are nearing 60 per cent of capacity.
 The trade publication notes that current bookings are running well ahead of last month's, and October bookings are expected to be about ten per cent higher than this month's.
 "Improved demand for sheets reflects an upturn in appliance industry buying and more sales to miscellaneous customers who are filling holes in their inventories. Auto requirements are noticeably more active."
 At the same time, steel aids, "activity in the construction industry is likely to benefit from strong demand for plates, which are still among the most active of the major finished steel products."
 Scrap prices held firm last week. Steel's composite No. 1 heavy melting scrap was $27 a gross ton for the fourth straight week.

PLAIN FOOD WINS CONTEST

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—A former Toronto woman won a Detroit housewife, won a fancy $25,000 in a baking contest today with this fare: a hamburger and bean casserole.
 Mrs. Roman Walklio, wife of an engineer and mother of five between nine and 20, made her concoction so tasty, however, that she won over 99 other contestants.
 She calls her prize-winning dish a "hungry boy's casserole." She serves it for buffets or picnics because "it is simple and quick to make, economical and attractive to look at."
 Besides ground beef it combines garbanzo beans with celery, onion, green pepper, garlic, tomato paste, port and cream, and chick peas. It topped with almond-olive biscuits.
 Mrs. Walklio baked her original recipe Monday in competition on ranges set up at a hotel here. Results of the judges' tasting were announced at a luncheon today.

Merchant Fleet Lack Lamented
QUEBEC (CP) — Shipping sources here lamented the lack of a Canadian merchant fleet in view of the country's $500,000,000 wheat sale to Russia. Agents said nations like England, Norway, France and Belgium likely will benefit the most from the shipping end of the deal.
 Russia probably would rally all its available tonnage to transport the wheat, with tonnage from tramp vessels at attractive rates.
 "It would be a pity if Halifax and Saint John, N.B., would benefit more from the sale than Quebec City because of their ice-free harbors. Few ships were equipped to buck St. Lawrence ice."
 Agents noted shipping rates on grain cargoes from Canada to Russia have gone up following the wheat deal and may continue to rise.
 The rising rates, coupled with a shortage of grain carriers, "would put a lot of obsolete shipping back on the ocean," one source said.
