OBITUARY
AUSTIN LAIRD
After an illness of five weeks, J. Austin Laird, passed away in the Charlottetown Hospital. He is the late Mr. Laird was born in Cavendish, New Brunswick, and was the last remaining member of the family of Wm. Laird, James and Margaret (Houston) Laird. At an early age, he went to Sable Harbour where he worked on the railway and later homesteaded. Then due to the illness of his parents, he returned to Cavendish and took over the home place. In 1924, he married Harriet Ling of New Glasgow, but they only had eight years of happiness together. His widowed sister, Mrs. Lowther and her three children shared his home at this time. After these children had married, he adopted a son, Albert Bruce Laird, who is now in the Military Service at Camp Petawawa, Ont.

Mr. Laird was a very well-read man, with a marvellous memory, and always interested in political events, and agricultural problems of the day. He was a pioneer in the raising of seed potatoes, and for many years was a member of the Experimental and Poultry Association, a secretary of the rural telephone line. Even in later years, he never missed attending Farmer's Week and was never afraid to stand up for what he thought was right even amid bitter opposition.

His funeral was held from the home of his wife's nephew, Howard Ling, on Monday, August 13th, and was largely attended. The Rev. Mr. Bentley of Cavendish held the service. The interment was in Cavendish Cemetery beside his wife and parents.

THE CARD OF THANKS
The family of the late Austin Laird wish to express their sincere thanks to Dr. Frank MacMillan, nurses staff of the Charlottetown Hospital, also to all those who sent flowers, messages of sympathy or help in any way during our recent and bereavement.
