Local and Other Items.

MACKEREL.—Some small catches of mackerel were made with the hook at Souris yesterday morning.

TEA.—The tea at Head St. Peter's Bay today was largely attended. There was a goodly number present from Souris.

THE SIDEWALK FUND.—There will be an entertainment at the Court House at Souris to-night in aid of the fund for the extension of the sidewalks.

MEN and women prematurely gray, and whose hair was falling, are enthusiastic in praising Hall's Hair Restorer for restoring the color and preventing baldness.

ELECTRIC SEMAPHORES.—We learn from the official programme that the P. E. Island Railway will exhibit electric semaphores at the St. John Summer Carnival, to open on the 22d inst.

THE inestimable value of Ayer's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier should be known to every wife and mother. It corrects irregularities, gives tone and strength to the vital organs, and cleanses the system of all impurities. The best family medicine.

SEIZED FOR DEBT.—The Bangor Daily News of Friday last is authority for the statement that the Maine State Fair grounds and buildings have been seized by the president of the company, Mr. Bass, for debt—rent due for several years. The seizure has created a great sensation in Bangor.

COLD, cough, croup, is what philosophers term "a logical sequence." One is very liable to follow the other; but by curing the cold with a dose of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, the cough will be stopped and the croup not needed.

DIED AT AN ADVANCED AGE.—At the old Salmon River Road, in Guysboro County, N. S., Michael Kennedy died on the 4th at the age of 93 years, and three days later at the same place the death occurred of John Conrod, who was 91. Both these men came from the County Kilkenny, Ireland, the latter being a resident of Nova Scotia for over half a century.

BAD FOR THE SHEEP.—The Halifax Echo says: Two bloodhounds belonging to a Mr. Harvey, of Ardoise, Hants county, got loose last night, and destroyed eighty sheep and lambs belonging to two of Mr. Harvey's neighbors. They were about commencing at a third flock when both hounds were shot by persons aroused by the turmoil. Rather expensive "pets" these dogs will prove.

PRESENTS FOR KILRAIN.—Mrs. Kilrain has received the gold-headed cane from Col. Andrews of California, which that gentleman determined should go to the defeated pugilist. Another gift, and one totally different, was a fine large family Bible, with passages marked for Kilrain's edification. It is thought that a clergyman is the donor, and if Kilrain follows his advice, he will be a better if not a richer man. On the fly leaf is written, "To lead you to a better life."

ST. JOHN CARNIVAL.—A copy of the official programme of the St. John Summer Carnival and Electrical Exhibition, to open on the 22nd inst., is at hand this morning. It is an attractive pamphlet of some 96 pages, replete with illustrations of the different streets, buildings, etc., of our sister city. The official programme is divided into two parts: The Summer Carnival and the actual holiday programme. Under the first head there is an interesting account of St. John in the past and the present and of the rise, progress and present state and extent of its industries and manufactures. A detailed description is also given of the city, of its picturesque surroundings and of the St. John river. The programme proper gives a graphic account of the wonders that will be displayed at the Electric Exhibition, and details the sights and sports of each successive holiday. A number of business men, firms and companies have also taken advantage of its pages to make themselves better known to the city and to the thousands of strangers that will visit there during the celebration. Return tickets from Charlottetown to St. John are only $5.50.

Personal.
John L. Sullivan's admirers in New York are to give him a big reception on his arrival in that city.

The Kingston, N. B., correspondent of the St. John Telegraph says: William Brown, of P. E. Island, is visiting his many friends here. The St. John Sun says: Rev. L. G. McNeill, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, and family leave for a month's vacation at Cavendish, north shore of P. E. Island.

The British Government has given to the widow of Prof. B. A. Proctor a pension of £100 per year in consideration of the services rendered to the cause of science by him.

A London cable of Friday night says: It is understood that Lord Charles Beresford will be given command of the steel cruiser Mersey of the North American fleet, after the coming naval manoeuvres.

A letter from Paris says that Lepine, of Riel rebellion notoriety, who is with Buffalo Bill's show as ring master, is the lion of the hour there, no dinner or note being complete without his presence.

Mr. Ridout, Dominion Government Inspecting Engineer, has been examining twenty miles of the Nova Scotia Central Railroad, now complete. Upon his report $64,000 Dominion subsidy will be paid to the company. The Earl of Fife, the fiance of Princess Louise of Wales, has refused to accept a wedding present from his tenantry. He thanks them cordially for their kindness, but says these are not times in which the tenants ought to devote their resources to objects which are not strictly necessary.

To Dakota and Back.

NO. VI.

On May 14th an election was held throughout Dakota, and I drove with Mr. Fletcher to the nearest polling booth, a few miles distant. A State Constitution at Sioux Falls had previously been drawn up, and it was submitted to the people for adoption or rejection at the polls. At the same time the people voted for delegates to a general convention, which is to meet this fall for the purpose of revising and amending the constitution prior to its final adoption, in case it would be carried, or to draw up a new one in the event of its rejection. The constitution was, however, carried by a large majority. This was not by any means an exciting election, but it was one in which the ladies evinced much more than ordinary interest. It is the aim of the strong temperance element of the territory to have a prohibition clause inserted in the constitution, as it is thought that state prohibition is the most effectual method of suppressing the liquor traffic. The Dakota ladies are earnest temperance advocates, and the men who work for prohibition are sure of their sympathy and encouragement. The ladies of the district in which it happened to be, furnished an excellent dinner to all voters in a private house near the polling booth; but though your correspondent could not cast a ballot, it must not be assumed that he was "left out in the cold" while the residents were enjoying the repast within. This would not be Dakota hospitality. This election was very quietly conducted, and to show the good feeling which pervades both parties, I may instance the fact that, although the Republicans are largely in the majority, they elected one Democratic delegate. The same generous spirit, if manifested in other districts throughout the territory—and I presume it was—would ensure to the weaker party representation in the Convention. On May 15th, in company with Mr. Fletcher, I visited Aberdeen, the County seat of Brown County, and also the largest town. Aberdeen is a six-year-old town, with a population of between 7000 and 8000. It is built on a flat prairie surrounded by a rich agricultural country, and the town is already quite an important business centre, from which railways go out in seven different directions. Its growth has been rapid and its prosperity appears to be of that substantial kind which has come to stay. The town can boast of some fine business blocks, in which are retail stores that would do credit to older and larger cities. Aberdeen is well supplied with Banking institutions, newspapers and churches, and its public school building is a very fine one. The town is lighted by electricity, and has an excellent system of waterworks, water being supplied by two artesian wells from a depth of fifteen hundred feet or upwards. It has sewerage constructed at a cost of $200,000, connection being made with a river over four miles distant.

The date of my visit to Aberdeen being next after election day, there was a good deal of talk among the prominent politicians of the town in regard to the result, and I came in contact with one citizen—a Republican newspaper man—who gloated with the keenest zest over the defeat of "old Johnson," one of the Democratic candidates, who ran for that section of Brown County. The intensely bitter feeling exhibited towards a political opponent, in this instance, is not characteristic of the people, I understand. This, I am told, was an uncommon exhibition of vindictiveness—the outcome of a personal disagreement, aside from considerations of party.

When going to and from Aberdeen by the Chicago and Northwestern Railway, I passed through Columbia, on the James River, a small stream which was navigated by steamers of light draft prior to the advent of the iron horse to that section of country. Columbia was for some years the county seat and a town of some importance. But the rapid rise of Aberdeen, combined with the greater enterprise of her citizens, cut off the traffic from Columbia, and the latter is now on the decline. It was in Columbia that our former fellow-citizen—Mr. John W. Pickard—ran a large hotel very successfully for some years. I saw the building, which is a fine one, but its usefulness for the purpose for which it was erected is probably passing away. Mr. Pickard saw this, and as soon as Columbia started on the down grade he pulled up his stakes and betook himself elsewhere.

On May 16th I took leave of Mr. Fletcher and family and left by team for Newark, a small town in Marshall County, on the line of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway. I am glad to be able to report to Mr. Fletcher's many old friends in this province that he stands well in the community in which his lot is now cast, commanding the respect of all parties, classes and creeds alike. One of his warmest friends, politically and socially, is the Rev. Father O'Hare, Roman Catholic priest of Aberdeen, whom I had the pleasure of meeting, and a man of splendid abilities as a public speaker. Although Mr. Fletcher has only been in Dakota six years, he has already successfully contested two elections for a seat in the Territorial Legislature, winning by large majorities on each occasion. By the committee having charge of Decoration Day's proceedings in Aberdeen, May 31st, Mr. F. was chosen to deliver the oration. The address, which was published in full in the Aberdeen papers, was a masterly effort, passages of which brought tears to the cheeks of many old soldiers, who were present at Riverside Cemetery to pay their annual tribute of respect to their deceased comrades in arms. Now that Dakota is about to be admitted to the Union as two States, I have no doubt but Mr. Fletcher will be called upon to fill some important representative position; as a matter of fact I have seen his name publicly mentioned in connection with the Governorship of South Dakota. As a representative farmer and strong prohibitionist, his candidature for any public position would meet with much favor among the agriculturists and temperance people.

Between Santa Clara and Newark, a distance of 17 miles, the land is a rich rolling prairie, and all settled. To travel over the prairie roads in summer, horses do not require to be shod. The only inconvenience they suffer from going barefoot is when driven immediately after a rain, the black mud partaking of the consistency of thick paste. I took in Newark for the purpose of visiting Mr. John J. Fletcher, formerly of Mount Stewart, and his sister, Mrs. Dr. Lawson, both of whom I found well. With Dakota as a place of residence, Mrs. Lawson is fully satisfied, but neither Mr. nor Mrs. Fletcher like the winter climate—they think it too cold. Mr. Fletcher is doing a general store business; but as Newark is not making that progress which those who settled there a few years ago anticipated, I would not be surprised to hear of him making a move. He visited the Black Hills country last spring, and was very favorably impressed with that section of the territory. In the forenoon of 17th May I drove with Mr. Fletcher six miles over a rich, cultivated rolling prairie to Kidder, the nearest station of the St. Paul, Minn. and Man. Railway, where I took the train at 12.45 p. m., reaching Wahpeton at 8 in the evening.

I spent five days in Dakota, two of which were fine and bright, the others cold, dark and disagreeable. I was assured that these latter were not a fair sample of Dakota spring weather, which is usually clear and warm.

The non-appearance in due course of No. V. of this series of letters, is explained by its having been mislaid in the EXAMINER Office. The missing letter dealt with the rapid development of the agricultural resources of Dakota, its climate, soil and productions; and as I believe there is a good deal of misconception abroad in regard to this country, I may, perhaps, on a future occasion give expression to my views on these points.

News Notes.

The yield of gold in Queensland during the past half year was 390,000 ounces, an increase of 166,000 ounces over the preceding half year.

The London Statist of June 29, commenting on the general situation then existing and the outlook, conceded the depressed condition of European securities and the low tone of business.

Greece is in the market for railroad building, and has invited bids for 542 miles of lines. The principal one is to be 214 miles long, forming a connecting link for the Austrian and Turkish systems.

The Cologne Gazette gives prominence to a statement that the Russian War Minister, who is staying at Vichy, has received a very important despatch from the Czar. The misgiving was of such importance that it could not be entrusted to an ordinary military courier, but was delivered by an officer of the Russian Guard, a relative of the War Minister.

Some uneasiness has been occasioned in Eastern Europe by a report that Serbia has decided to equip and arm a third levy of recruits for active service. The ostensible object is to provide troops for the suppression of brigandage, but in the present temper of eastern politics it is suspected that this latest development is simply another step towards preparing the Servians for their share of the general war.
