OUT OF WORK

THINGOE, Eng. (CP) - Five London chimney sweeps, who have found the pickings lean under the city's new clean-air regulations, have applied for the vacant job of staff sweep in this Suffolk town.

Cheng Guan Lim, 28, former student at the University of Michigan, told police he spent four years under these rafters of the First Methodist Church as a recluse. He went into hiding 1955 after failing study courses and feared losing 'face'. His possessions included a battered radio (left), magazines from the church library, scraps of left-over food from the kitchen, and a small light with aluminum foil reflector (ark spot, centre). He is being held for immigration authorities.
