LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

SENATOR FERGUSON'S SPEECH.

SIR,—I may now turn to what Senator Ferguson says in regard to steam communication; and I am sure it is pleasant reading to every P. E. Islander, after turning from the quotations previously given from Messrs. Davies and Perry's speeches. He begins by quoting the terms of union, and showing the importance Prince Edward Islanders attached to winter communication. But at the time of the first offer of Confederation there was no offer of this kind, and no provision that Prince Edward Island should be indemnified for the great public works being carried on in other parts of Canada; but both these points were embraced and contained in the terms of Confederation in 1873. These were two very strong and important points in Senator Ferguson's speech. One, that Terms of Union with Canada was rejected by Prince Edward Island, which did not provide for "efficient steam service between the Island and the Dominion, winter and summer"; the other, that terms which did not provide "that Prince Edward Island should be indemnified for the great public works being carried on in other parts of Canada were also rejected—and that Prince Edward Island only agreed to enter the Union when both those conditions were embodied in the Terms. Senator Ferguson went on to show that the Terms were never carried out in the liberal manner agreed on, and reviewed the efforts made by the different administrations from the placing of the Albert on the route till the present day. He showed, from the report of the Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries, that the service was not so efficient as the Terms of Union stipulated, and that in consequence considerable discontent prevailed in Prince Edward Island. He proceeded to show the different efforts made by the Local Government of Prince Edward Island to bring this matter to the notice of the government of Canada and have the grievance removed.

In regard to the proposed tunnel he quoted from Sir Charles Tupper, Sir William Dawson, Sir Douglas Fox and others, in favor of it. He says: "The opinion of Mr. Bain, corroborated by Sir William Dawson, is that there will be no difficulty of a serious nature in constructing a tunnel under the straits, and Sir Douglas Fox is of the same opinion," and goes on to give the estimates given by Sir Douglas Fox, which I have reproduced in THE EXAMINER. He also refers to the sum voted by the Dominion Government ($1,650) for a survey. He relates the progress made and expresses regret that, owing to many adverse circumstances, it is not yet completed. Senator Ferguson then went on to show the advantages of continuous communication to Prince Edward Island. He says: "In fact, a work of such magnitude could not help being of some interest at least to the people of Canada, whether they live on the Pacific coast, in the central part of the country, or down in the Maritime Provinces. The tunnel, if carried out, would vastly stimulate the commerce and material prosperity of Prince Edward Island," and went on to show where Prince Edward Island was a heavy loser for want of continuous communication.

Proceeding, Senator Ferguson showed that the Dominion Government would not be such a heavy loser by building the tunnel; that there were considerable expenditures which would cease after its construction; that the loss on the Island Railway would be wiped out. He sums up the way matters would stand with a tunnel built, as follows:

Loss on P. E. I. Railway, average since 1873	$ 79,806
Excess of expenses over income in winter service	15,000
Interest on cost of Stanley	5,438
Depreciation, 10 per cent	14,459
Insurance, 10 per cent	14,459
Net earning of tunnel	100,000
Interest on $2,171,318.18 at 4 per cent	86,852
	$315,814

Senator Ferguson says: "This at 3½ per cent. would represent a capital of $10,000,000, a sum much larger than the estimate given by Sir Douglas Fox for a tunnel in every way suitable, and capable of accommodating the rolling stock of the Intercolonial Railway, which Sir Douglas places at $8,895,000. In fact, there is a difference in favor of the tunnel of $1,105,000." Now, the figures may be open to criticism, as Senator Ferguson says; but the only objection, however, any Prince Edward Islander might have to it is, that Prince Edward Island has no right to forfeit her claim of $2,171,318.18 for public works for the sake of the tunnel; that this sum should be spent in public improvements inside of the Province—which would undoubtedly be in the form of railway extension—and that the tunnel or some other mode of communication should be devised by the Dominion, according to the terms of union. I dare say, however, that Senator Ferguson was very wise in not pushing this matter into too great prominence at the outset. He concluded the very best speech ever made by a P. E. Island representative in the Parliament of Canada by saying that "Canada might construct a tunnel, even at a cost of $10,000,000, and in doing so there would be no loss to the people of Canada beyond putting Prince Edward Island, in a matter of Public Works in a position of equality with that which the other Provinces of Canada occupy from the Atlantic to the Pacific at the present time.

I am aware that I have given a very imperfect sketch of Senator Ferguson's speech, and would strongly advise every elector on P. E. Island to read it over very carefully for himself. I am sure the reader will be gratified when he is through it, as I have been, with the strong case he made out for Prince Edward Island, and trust that in the near future our lively hopes may be realized. In order to accomplish this I would like to impress on my fellow electors of Prince Edward Island the necessity of union in the settlement of this question. Let every other question be made subordidate to it. Let flowery oratory and the glowing promises of the party politician pass unheeded till we have those momentous questions for Prince Edward Island settled. Let the electors pull on the one oar till Prince Edward Island is placed in her just position, and let not those grievances any longer impede her progress. I remain yours &c.,

JUSTICE.

It is said of Mr. Irving that, though an upright and thoroughly honorable man he plays the Devil (Faust) as no other man can.

After perusing the many strong expressions from other eminent men and women throughout Europe as to the merits of Vin Mariani as a tonic stimulant Mr. Irving says: 'I can certainly add my testimonial to the virtues of 'Vin Mariani,' which I have found excellent, and am well convinced of its quality.' This tonic coca wine (Vin Mariani) invigorates and sustains weak constitutions run down by over-exertion of body or brain. MARS IN OCTOBER.

The Scientific American says that at the first meeting of the Astronomical Department of the Brooklyn Institute, which occurred recently, Mr. Garrett P. Serviss, the well-known astronomical lecturer, delivered a very interesting illustrated lecture on the planet Mars, in which he reviewed the works of numerous observers, but more especially that of Schiaparelli.

The special interest in Mars at this time is due to the fact that Mars is or will be on the 20th of this month, in opposition, at which time it will be in a more favorable position for observation than it will be again in two years. The lecturer said the great question in regard to Mars is as to whether it is not inhabited or whether its ability to support animal life had long since departed.

He said that while some of the observed phenomena required the existence of an atmosphere, Prof. Campbell, of the Lick Observatory, has, by means of spectroscopic observation, proved that Mars shows no more evidence of an atmosphere than the moon. Yet the existence of polar snows and of moisture seemed to indicate the presence of an atmosphere, which, although possibly very rare, might be sufficient to support some form of animal life adapted to such an atmosphere.

Indeed, Prof. Campbell's observations were not inconsistent with the existence on Mars of an atmosphere one-quarter as dense as that of the earth. The lecturer referred to the strange markings discovered and mapped by Prof. Schiaparelli, and to the difficulty experienced in verifying the observations of Schiaparelli.

Mr. Serviss learned in an interview with Prof. Schiaparelli, at his observatory in Milan last summer, something of the secrets of the success of the famous Italian astronomer in his observation of Mars. Mars is a red planet, and the light reflected from it is red. Prof. Schiaparelli conceived the idea of a telescope corrected for the red rays, and had an instrument constructed to carry out his idea. The results are known throughout the world, and without a like instrument no one can call in question the wonderful and glowing reports of Schiaparelli. It was through the munificence of a wealthy lady of Milan, who is interested in astronomical science, that Prof. Schiaperelli was enabled to obtain a larger and still finer telescope of the same kind as that with which his original discoveries were made.

The lecturer said that what, in more recent observations, appeared like a mountain projecting beyond the terminator of the planet, might be a chain of mountains with the sun illuminating their peaks, or it might be clouds. He also said that some of the white spots seen on the surface of the planet were in all probability clouds which were shaped by the configuration of the planet's surface, as clouds in our own valleys were shaped by the adjacent mountains.

THE "SINGLE-TAX."

(From the Monetary Times)

By a recent vote, the trades and Labor Council of Toronto refused to receive delegates from either the Socialists or Single Taxers, the Council has taken a stand which all decent people may be expected to follow. Of all forms of Socialism, single tax is the most repellent to justice and fair dealing. The man to get rid of his own share of the public burthens wishes to throw the whole expenses of the protection of life and property upon a single class, has no right to expect the sympathy of the honest man who does not attempt to shirk his fair share of the public burthens. The manifestation of a desire to escape all contribution to the defence of life and property is the next step to leaving life and property unprotected, a state of things which is summed up in the single word anarchy. Some forms of socialism may command respect if not sympathy, but for single tax it is difficult to see how any right-minded person can have any other feeling than that of loathing and contempt. The real object of the Single Taxes, if no longer avowed, is the confiscation of one form of property, and that which in all countries, is held in the highest respect. The confiscation of land, be it remembered, means the confiscation of all the mortages founded upon it, which are not land, but personal property.

It is wonderful how easily a language question will settle itself if it is only left alone. A recent census of Wales shows that the principality has a population of 1¾ millions; half a million speak only Welsh, another half speak both languages, and three quarteers of a million speak English only. Thus the language of the hated Saxon has become predominant, and and the native Cymric is on its way to extinction. This has happened, not because the language of the natives was placed under pains and penalties, but because the Welsh have found it to their advantage to adopt the speech of those with whom they had to do business.
