CHERRY RIPE.
There is a garden in her face
Where roses and white lilies grow;
A heavenly paradise is that place
Wherein all pleasant fruits do flow.
There cherries grow which none may buy
Till "Cherry ripe" themselves do cry.
Those cherries fairly do incline
Of orient pearl a double row,
Which when her lovely laughter shows
They look like rosebuds filled with snow.
Yet them nor peer nor prince can buy
Till "Cherry ripe" themselves do cry.
Her eyes like angels watch them still,
Her brows like bearded bows do stand,
Threatening with piercing frowns to kill
All that attempt with eye or hand
Those sacred cherries to come nigh
Till "Cherry ripe" themselves do cry.
—Thomas Campion (1616).

It Sailed.
The other afternoon I was in a gentleman's outfitting shop when a customer came in to purchase a hat. He tried on several and was evidently hard to please, the counter becoming covered with the rejected. At last the salesman picked up a brown felt bowler, brushed it round with his arm and extended it admiringly.

"These are being very much worn this season, sir," he explained.
"Are they?" said the customer thoughtfully, surveying himself in the mirror, with his hat on his head. "Do you think it suits me?"
"Suits you to perfection, sir, if the fit's right."
"Yes, it fits very well. So you think I had better have it?"
"I don't think you could do better, sir."
"No, I don't think I could, so I won't have a new one."
The salesman had been praising up the old hat.—Pearson's Weekly.

A "Steele Bargain."
Adam Steele of Shelby county once rented a tanyard to a Mr. Jones on shares. His idea was to risk in the business only the use of his tanyard and not to incur any further liability. So he protected himself by the following safe clause in the contract:
"If anything is made, the said Steele is to have it, and if anything is lost the said Jones is to lose it."
And this is known in Shelby as a regular Adam Steele bargain to this day.—Lexington (Ky.) Gazette.

To the Point.
A young foreigner had recently arrived in London from his native country, and some friends of his family arranged a dinner in his honor. The evening arrived, the guests invited to meet him were assembled, but the young fellow did not appear. A friend called on him the next day and, reminding him that he had accepted the invitation, inquired why he had not been present. His reply was ingenious.
"I was not hungry," he said.—London Tit-Bits.

Swimmers With Hats.
An Englishman home from the west coast of Africa says he saw a whole village swimming out to the steamer wearing as they swam renovated secondhand "stovepipe" hats in all the glory of the white tissue paper in which they are shipped out for sale.

Apparent Contradiction.
"It seems very strange to me," said the educated parrot, "that a thirst for learning can be satisfied with a lot of dry information."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"The Dirty Dozen."
The town of Groton, Vt., is terrorized by hoodlums. A secret organization has been formed, known as "The Dirty Dozen," whose sole purpose is to perpetrate unlawful and shameful deeds. Because of the actions of these thugs many women assert they dare not be on the street in the evening.—Exchange.

She Could Choose.
There were twin babies in the neighbor's house, a great many babies little Ella thought.
"Mamma," she said, "the stork must have brought Mrs. Blank two babies so she could choose the one she liked best."—New York Staats-Zeitung.

An Indemnity.
The highwayman, in grim reality and without the aureole of romance, Black Bess and all, was a "common object of the country" 150 years ago, and it was the duty of all good subjects to try to cope with him. If you attempted to apprehend such a desperado and were killed in the attempt, your executors could claim £40 from the sheriff. This indemnity was scarcely enough to kindle a burning passion in the English mind for the extinction of the pest.—Gentleman's Magazine.

There is one thing about the folding bed that impresses us forcibly—it has such a frank, open way of shutting up.—West Union Gazette.
