

Living Costs
Hit New Peak
During April

OTTAWA (CP)—It cost more to live in Canada in April than ever before.

Canadians had to pay out more for food, health care, clothing, transportation and alcohol in the sharpest monthly rise in living expenses since the fall of 1960.

In terms of Dominion Bureau of Statistics, issued here, it meant an increase in the consumer price index to 130.3 in April from 129.7 March 7. The rise of six-tenths of a point on Canada's yardstick of prices — based on 1959 prices — followed four months of relative price stability. The previous record high of 129.8 was set in February and last December, while the April 1961 index level was 129.1.

The increase in the price index followed a strong advance in industrial wages in February, the bureau reported.

Among items, whose price jumps were especially noted, are most fruits and vegetables, beef, chicken, bread, fees for doctors, dentists and optical care, toilet soap, men's hair cuts, men's and children's wear, shoes, piece goods, auto repairs, air travel fares and liquor (in Ontario and Quebec).

Prices were lower for eggs, frozen orange juice, fresh tomatoes, chocolate bars, fats, radio and television sets and for electricity (in Vancouver and Victoria).

Prince Philip
Plans Brief
Ottawa Visit

OTTAWA (CP)—Prince Philip will arrive in Ottawa Saturday for a one-day visit prior to the opening of his second Commonwealth study conference in Montreal Monday.

Prince Philip, president of the 26-day conference which will meet in various cities across Canada, comes to Ottawa as a guest of Governor-General Vanier. He will leave by Montreal Sunday.

He arrives in Montreal at 1:45 p.m. EDT Saturday on a regularly scheduled flight of British Overseas Airways Corporation and following a 15-minute wait at Dorval Airport flies on to Ottawa's Uplands Airport where he will be met by the Governor-General. He will inspect a 10-man RCMP guard of honor and then drive to Rideau Hall. No formal engagements are scheduled during his Ottawa visit.

Prince Philip will hold a half-hour press conference in Montreal Monday before the opening of the conference in which about 20 delegates from Commonwealth countries will consider the human consequences of a changing industrial environment.

The delegates will hold community study projects, hear speeches by prominent Commonwealth personalities and take a first-hand look at the effects of Canadian industrialization on human lives. They come to Ottawa for a one-day visit next Wednesday. The conference ends in Vancouver June 6.

Award Dropped
For Biography

NEW YORK (AP)—Columbia University trustees gave no Pulitzer prize this year for biography — turning down a recommendation by the advisory board.

While there was no formal announcement of the recommendation or the rejection, four members of the advisory board reported that Swanberg's life of the late William Randolph Hearst had been recommended for the biography award.

They said this was after a vote in which Mark Schorer's biography of the late author Sinclair Lewis was the runner-up.

Swanberg's book says of Hearst, founder of the Hearst publishing empire, that his "influence on journalism was a mostly bad" and "while he spoke piously of ideals in journalism, he left no gutter unexplored."

On the other hand, the biography says Hearst's "sympathies were so aroused by the plight of the Cubans that he insisted on moving them" with the Spanish-American War, and "he was so indignant at the exploitation of the common people that he became their defender against privilege."

BEAUTY SALON ON HILL FOLDS

OTTAWA (CP)—The parliamentary beauty salon has gone out of business after about four months of precarious operation.

The salon was opened in a partitioned corner of the barber shop in the centre block of the Parliament buildings at the suggestion of Judy La March, Liberal MP for Niagara Falls in the last Parliament.

Friday the partitions, hair driers and other equipment were being removed without fanfare. Members of the Commons staff said the salon had too few clients to be a going concern.

The only clients were five women MPs, six women senators and wives of members.
