

28 Dead, 676 Injured In Los Angeles Rioting

Calm Punctured By Sniper Fire

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An uneasy calm, punctuated by sniper fire, hung over riot-scattered southeast Los Angeles Sunday in the fifth day of Negro disorder.

Twenty-eight persons have been killed, 676 injured and 2,157 arrested.

Fire damage was estimated at $175,000,000. No estimate was possible on looting loss.

Police chief Ed Walker said after troops and police cleared rioters off the streets of the 40-square-mile Negro section.

National guardsmen with machine-guns and rifles patrolled riot-littered streets in vehicles.

Armed guardsmen and sheriff's deputies checked everyone going into "the danger area." Those without business in the area were turned back.

Arson and looting dwindled for the first time since last Wednesday when the arrest of a Negro patrolman turned the Negro section of Watts into a madhouse.

But fear still gripped Los Angeles' 2,479,015 residents—both white and its 334,916 Negroes.

Run on firearms
Gunshops reported a day-long run on firearms Saturday.

The most ridiculous thing I ever saw," said one dealer.

Fearful buyers came from all sections of sprawling Los Angeles where the Negro outbreaks had jumped sporadically to outbreaks in Pasadena, 10 miles northeast of the Watts riot centre, and six miles west of Venice on the Pacific Ocean.

Psychiatrists tried to figure out what caused the worst racial outbreak in the United States in many years.

A consensus blamed smoldering hate, resentment, frustration, poverty and hopelessness of the Negro "ghettos," plus a week of continuing oppressive heat and humidity.

Dr. Martin Luther King announced in Puerto Rico that he would come to Los Angeles "in the next few days" to seek solutions to social problems underlying the rioting.

The Nobel Peace Prize-winning Negro leader condemned the rioting and endorsed police action.

"A massive program is needed to get Negroes jobs and get them better living conditions," he said. "I do think this is the basis for the problem in Los Angeles."

Top police and national guard officers reorganized their operations in a two-hour pre-dawn conference Sunday in hopes of eventually restoring a measure of normality to the arson-charred area.

More guards move in
Guardsmen, whose forces were being increased to 14,000 during the day, were given the job of policing the area.

The military, for the first time, took over all command of its own riot forces. Till now they have operated under police direction.

"This will enable the police to concentrate on anti-looting patrols and law enforcement," Walker said.

"The streets are absolutely clean," he said at daybreak as a curfew ended. "We attribute that to the presence of the military."

There was no rioting during the night.

"There was some looting, but way down from Friday night (when mobs ran unchecked) and Saturday morning.

"There was more shooting by snipers but that was because it was Saturday night and people are more liquor up"—largely on liquor stolen from raided stores.

Nova Scotia Fire Fight Continues

MILL VILLAGE, N.S. (CP)—Wearry firefighters Sunday continued to battle a week-old blaze still burning out of control in prime spruce and pine timber near the south shore community.

Dry sunny weather continued and no relief was in sight.

The fire has blackened an estimated 2,000 acres within a 12-mile perimeter and rough terrain has prevented the more than 200 forestry officials and volunteers from closing a two-mile gap at the north flank of the outbreak.

The southern line has been surrounded by hoses and earth banks and the stubborn blaze is being kept in check.

More than 40 miles of hose have been strung out around most of the fire, but a creek of water is hampering operations.

A water-bombing aircraft attacked the northern area Saturday but fog early Sunday kept the plane grounded.

A navy helicopter from the Shearwater naval air station at Dartmouth is ferrying men and equipment to and from the fire lines.

A contingent of about 55 seaman from the Cornwallis navy base at Digby, N.S. arrived on the scene Sunday morning.

Saigon Has Bomb Blast

SAIGON (AP)—A bomb exploded today at the home of the director of Viet Nam's national police immediately behind national police headquarters.

First reports said the explosion occurred at the police headquarters and that it was feared casualties would be heavy.

Later accounts said however, the bomb had gone off at the director's home.

A reliable informant said terrorists drove in front of the house and hurled the explosive device at the structure.

The source said a guard in front of the house was injured.

WAYNE AND SHUSTER
FIRST IN CITY

Wayne And Shuster To Become Freeman

For the first time in the city's history, according to the city clerk John Butler, Charlottetown will honor two adopted citizens, Johnny Wayne and Frank Shuster, as freemen of the city.

Mayor Walter Cox will make the presentation in a formal ceremony on the plaza of Confederation Centre at noon Wednesday, Aug. 18, the day after the opening of their production, "Wayne and Shuster in Charlottetown."

The two internationally-renowned Canadian comedians—long have been noted for their community services, dating back to entertaining the troops in the front lines during the Second World War and since, and they have become especially fond of Prince Edward Island where they participated last year in the province's Centennial celebrations.

They also produced the stage show, "Wayne and Shuster in Charlottetown," which was an amazing success during the Centennial and is being repeated here this season as part of the Charlottetown Festival '65 before undertaking a national tour in early September, under the title "An Evening With W. and S."

Their feelings for Canada's smallest province, which they have called a symbol of national unity because of its 1864 Confederation meetings, they have demonstrated many times on their national television programs and in other public appearances.

"That the feeling is mutual is demonstrated by this act of conferring the title of 'Freeman of Charlottetown' believed the first time in the city's history, which (Continued on page 3 Col. 6)

Recognition Of French In N.B. Asked

By GUY RONDEAU
CARAQUET, N.B. (CP)—Full official recognition of the French language in New Brunswick was called for Saturday by the National Society of Acadicians.

A plenary session winding up the society's second congress held in this picturesque north-eastern New Brunswick community rejected a motion to seek similar recognition from Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island.

The participants, representing some 150 Acadian associations in the three provinces, said such a demand "would not appear serious" to the authorities of the latter two provinces.

Acadians form 38 per cent of the population of New Brunswick, while in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island the figures are 11 and 16 per cent.

Neither of these two governments would be prepared to spend perhaps $10,000,000 to give official recognition to the French language, the society decided.

Should take action
Acadians in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island should concentrate on "obtaining French schools to answer their needs and bilingual personnel in the civil service when the situation seems to justify it."

The plenary session adopted 40 resolutions calling on the federal and provincial governments to deal with problems of education, economy and the French language.

Representations are to be made to the attorneys-general of the three provinces, as well as to the federal justice minister, asking for increased bilingualism in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

While noting improvements in bilingualism among the staff of Air Canada, the congress asked for "much more bilingualism" in CNR trains serving the Maritimes.

A resolution dealing with the civil service called on school guidance officers to point out "the advantages of a career in the civil service." And in New Brunswick the Civil Service Commission should have two presidents, one of whom should be French-speaking.

Urges special school
The resolution suggested that the University of Moncton should include in its new social sciences department a school for civil servants in which future public servants could be given bilingual training.

The association said that "priority of the native language" should be established in all Acadian schools.

Plot To Block End Of War Told By Japanese Officer

By RENE-GEORGES INAGAKI
TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese people heard the broadcast 20 years ago Sunday: "The war situation has developed not necessarily to Japan's advantage."

The recorded voice of Emperor Hirohito was announcing surrender in the Second World War struggle he said was waged against the United States and Britain "to insure Japan's self-preservation and the stabilization of East Asia."

The record had come safely overnight through an attempt by a group of diehard young Japanese army officers to seize it from the imperial palace and force continuance of the fighting.

Court chamberlains and one of the participants, former Lt. Col. Masataka Iwata, told the story Saturday.

EXCHANGED WORDS
The general hesitated, then said he wanted to go to a shrine and meditate. Iwata stepped out of the room and heard angry words exchanged between Hatanaka and the general, followed by a pistol shot. When he re-entered the room, Mori was dead.

Emperor Leads
In Mourning
TOKYO (Reuters)—Emperor Hirohito led a day of national mourning amid the tolling of temple bells Sunday in memory of the more than 3,000,000 Japanese who died in the Second World War.

Flags flew at half staff on government buildings throughout Japan to mark the 20th anniversary of the Japanese surrender to the allies—and the beginning of an era that has brought the country from ruin to unparalleled prosperity.
