TIMELY NOTES ON FUR TOPICS

DEDICATED SINGLE LIFE

A teacher in a city high school, an attractive woman approaching 40, was discussing school problems with her principal. As the conversation was ending, the principal asked bluntly, "When are you going to marry and settle down? You surely do not intend to teach all your life!"

Obviously it was a question he had long wanted to ask this woman who for several years had been one of the most efficient, respected and revered teachers on the staff.

The answer came quickly, as it had on many a similar occasion. "Oh, I like teaching, and till something else comes along..." but behind the smiling reply was the exasperated, almost despairing thought: "Why won't they understand?"

Incidents substantially like this are repeated daily wherever single women are working. They are repeated in hospitals, in offices, in schools. They are the expression of a common misconception of the vocation of the single woman, a manifestation of a well-meaning "pity". And this is a mistake made, not only by the happily married who, with the best intentions, feel "sorry" for the unmarried girl but by religious as well, who fail to understand the role in God's plan, of the dedicated, single life in the world.

All of us are created to love and serve God in this life and to be happy with Him in Heaven. That is the general vocation—the "calling"—of every human being. The love and service of God however, is not an abstract thing, or the mere formal "going to church"; it is made real and concrete in all the activities of a way of life. This is the more particular vocation of the married state, the single state, or the religious state.

FALSE JUDGMENT

Now here is where the misconception starts, the false judgment which tends to look on the dedicated, unmarried woman in the world as somehow an unhappy misfit. Theoretically, apart from particular cases, it is true that the religious state is the "highest" state, because in it the powers of our personality are dedicated to the service of God directly. It is true that the married state is "second" because God is served in a mutual dedication and love which has as its purpose the sharing in His Divine plan of creation.

It is true that the single life in the world is "last", because God is served in it without the vows of religion, and without the sacrament and mutual dedication to God's work in matrimony. But the important thing about this particular case, the "best" vocation is the way of life in which God wants ME to serve Him.

Now a vocation is sometimes chosen deliberately, as when a man asks a woman to be his wife, or a woman accepts a man as a dedicated partner to God's work. In these cases, God's Providence operates through the individual's positive inclination and volition. But very often God's Providence operates through circumstances which give a vocation, most to an obedience to a way of life which we do not "choose", perhaps even which we do not "want", but which we rather "accept".

NOT ALWAYS CHOICE

In many cases, and for various reasons, a woman makes a decision not to marry, and to devote herself in the world to some particular work which absorbs her energies and precludes marriage. In many cases, circumstances—God's Providence—have prevented the natural desire for a husband and family from being fulfilled, and the woman must accept the vocation, the way of loving God, that His will has imposed.

Our school principal, and so many others, fail to understand this last kind of vocation, and their failure to understand, makes difficult for countless single women the full realization that their single life is their particular way of holiness, given them by God just as truly as He gives to others the way of marriage or the religious life.

This lack of sympathetic understanding is a "pitfall" that is hard to accept with love the trials that are so often a part of the life of a single woman. Until recently even writers concerned with "vocation" and the spiritual life, tended to neglect the life of lay persons, married or single, in their analyses of the service of God.

If we consider the life of the single woman in the world, it is immediately evident how she can, and does, fit into God's plan, and how she can sanctify herself and others in a way that no one else can. Her freedom from domestic obligations allows her time for activities which others could not undertake; nursing for instance, or teaching, or social work. The boundless generosity, the capacity for self-sacrifice, the power of sympathy—all these gifts with which God has endowed woman—can be used and for the scores, the hundreds, that the dedicated woman in the world contacts in her daily work.

INNER LIFE

The single woman is free, too, to develop that innerlife of prayer; a development which requires meditation, silence, spiritual reading, perhaps spiritual direction. One with God, yet completely in the world, these longed-for women are, often unknown even to themselves, apostles of Divine love to souls who rely on them and their example for peace and charity and serene wisdom.

But like every vocation, this of the very vivid recollection of the Governor, Charles Sale, who visited here in the fall of 1929 and purchased a 51 per cent interest in the McLure and MacKinnon Silver Fox Farms, Ltd. from the late W. Chester S. McLure and the writer. We also made a contract with them to purchase silver fox pelts to be sold at their auctions in London. We were a bit late starting in 1926 but our purchases totalled over $136,000. The following year we ran something like $240,000 worth.

The Montreal agency that had asked to send some pelts to give them an idea how to buy, and we did so. They were pelts taken off in late October, a bit too early. However, after they were looked over in Montreal they were shipped to London. In the meantime we had just concluded our two and a half days purchase of furs in Summerside totalling between $40 and $50 thousand, and boarding the train that afternoon we first batch had been received and that the values were 40 per cent below what we had bought them for. That threw a big scare into us.

Later we received a telegram asking us to go to London. We did so and found that the furs mentioned had been "pressed" like taken tests but in shipping, we could not recognize them at all when they were passed to us, then found out the cause, had them drummed, but the early take-off and the pressing changed their value very greatly.

We were seated on the selling platform and when we looked over the large new auction room which was packed with buyers from all over the continent. The selout was almost complete and the results satisfactory to the company. We continued our connection with them until some months prior to the outbreak of World War 2 when they retired from the connection with the fur transportation through the years has been maintained at a high level because of their business practices which all rebound to their credit.

Sales of Hudson's Bay Co., London, England, reached a record of $2,017,000 during the year ending Jan. 31. It is made known here today. This represents a 9 per cent increase over the 57,058,000 pounds volume of the previous year. Of the record total, the fur trade accounted for 8,634,000 pounds as against 7,716,000 pounds the previous year.

Consignment sales of three auction houses operated by the company in New York, London and Montreal totalled 19,285,000 pounds, slightly off from 19,759,000 pounds of the previous year. The quantity of ranches "k" sold in North

S'ide Extends Tender Date, Interest Rate On Bond Issue

A special meeting of the Summerside Town Council last evening extended the date of tenders and the rate of interest on a bond issue amounting to $475,000, on which bids are presently being accepted. This decision meeting last evening presided over by Mayor W. A. Currie with Councillors Dr. Hillard Clark, James MacDougall, Wm. Jenkins and Edgar Cannon present.

The action was necessitated by the present instability of the bond market from an announcement this week by the Bank of Canada regarding increases being made in interest charges. In explaining the effect this has had on the bond market, Mayor Currie said the action by the Bank of Canada has had a tendency to upset the whole bond market at the present time.

The resolution, moved by Councillor James MacDougall and seconded by Councillor Wm. Jenkins, was as follows: "Whereas interest rates on loans having been increased by the Bank of Canada, and whereas this action on the part of the said bank having affected the interest on bonds being or about to be offered for sale, and whereas the town of Summerside by resolution dated March 29, 1956, is offering serial bonds for the amount of $475,000, at 3 1/2 percent and 4 percent, said bonds being dated April 2, 1956, resolved that the said resolution be amended to read that the serial debentures be dated May 1, 1956, and bear interest at 4 1/2 percent for the first ten years and 4 3/4 percent for the last ten years, and that tenders be received by the town of Summerside up to 4 p.m., Tuesday, May 1, 1956, and further resolved that all other conditions of the resolution dated March 29, 1956, remain the same."

Freetown Royals Win Trophy By Defeating S'ide Aces 6-2

The Freetown Royals won the MacFarlane & Delaney trophy at Civic Stadium last night, defeating the Summerside Aces by the score of 6-2. Contrary to the pattern of other games, the Freetown team took charge of the play from the outset, shooting two unanswered goals in the first period.

The second period which produced the best hockey of the evening, went scoreless, and the Royals outscored the home boys in the third frame 4 goals to 2. At the eighteen minute mark, with Edgar Taylor of the Royals sitting out a penalty, the Aces took their goal out and played six men to four. The strategy backfired as Des Roberts shot the Freetown fifth goal into an empty net. The Freetown team added another with 8 seconds to go in the game.

Edgar Taylor and "Red" MacLean of the Aces both scored after beautiful end to end rushes in the third period. Taylor getting his tally by deking the goaler out of position, and MacLean getting his own rebound. The Aces failed to capitalize on many golden opportunities around the Freetown net, and Allison Reeves in the Royals cage made a lot of fine stops to hold them off the score sheet for two periods.

Referees Art Perry and John Richard from Charlottetown did a fine job dishing out sixteen penalties, nine of which went to Freetown.

A record crowd of 2,632 paid admission to see the game, and there was not a vacant seat left in the Stadium.

Mr. Carl Delaney made the presentation of the MacFarlane and Delaney trophy to Clayton Mill, captain of the Freetown team. Mr. Delaney congratulated the Royals and said they were certainly the better team on the night's play.

U. S. Gov't Sued In Polio Cases

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—The parents of the first child in the United States to die of polio after receiving Salk vaccine sued the federal government Wednesday, asking $150,588 damages. At the same time, at $250,000 damage suit was filed by a father who claimed his son became paralyzed in both legs as an indirect result of faulty vaccine.

One suit was filed by Lester and Myrtle Pierce of Peatello, Idaho, parents of Susan Diane Pierce, who died of bulbar polio last April 27, the ninth day after her inoculation.

Kenneth Turner of American Falls filed the other suit. He said his son, Terry 5, stricken with polio in both legs after three weeks of "close association" with his brother, who had received polio vaccine, had received polio vaccine.

Both suits accuse the U.S. public health service and other government agencies of negligence in permitting faulty vaccine made by Cutter Laboratories of Berkeley, Calif., to be used in mass inoculations in Idaho.

Former U. S. Staff Officers Sound Warning

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two former U.S. chiefs of staff warned against Russian "soft soap" Friday and stressed the Soviet buildup in naval as well as air power—especially submarines.

Gen. Carl Spaatz, retired former air force chief, predicted that if the Russians attack the United States they probably will use a Pearl Harbor-type surprise blow, combining submarine bombardment with aerial attack.

Admiral Robert Carney, who served as chief of naval operations before his retirement, said Soviet naval power has grown greatly since the Second World War and war, "Even in the event of atomic war, loss of the seas could be the deciding factor if tough nations fought on after the initial exchange of the crippling blow."

The two spoke at a public hearing before a special Senate group studying relative U.S.-Soviet air power.

Spaatz said that if a Russian attack comes it probably will come after Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party boss Khrushchev have "soft soaped" the world into believing there will be no attack.

He said the Russians have 400 submarines which, if equipped with guided missiles carrying atomic warheads, could stand off the coast and rain destruction on the U.S. He said he does not believe the Russians now have the missiles and warheads for such an attack, but he added that does not mean they won't have them by the time this country's current defense appropriations have been turned into weapons.

Spaatz said the U.S. should concentrate on perfecting an intercontinental ballistic missile ahead of the Russians. He said this is "the blackball weapon" which is suited to Communist tactics.

The RCMP official said the box apparently was delivered to the farmhouse reportedly owned by Mrs. Harry Crossman, now in Campbellton, N. B., in May, 1953, several months before the girl's abduction. He described it as "quite large," but he said he does not know what it holds.

No Connection Between Parcel And Missing Girl

HALIFAX (CP)—Assistant commissioner Joseph Howe of the RCMP said Friday he believes there is "no connection in any way" between a box found in a deserted Nova Scotia farmhouse and the 1953 disappearance of Toronto teenager Marion MacDowall.

A signed letter received by the RCMP suggested that the box, delivered to a farm at Port George, on Minas channel about 60 miles southwest of Amherst, might be linked to "the disappearance of that girl in Toronto."

Assistant commissioner Howe said, "The incident referred to was apparently the MacDowall case."

The 17-year-old girl disappeared after a male companion was slugged by an unknown assailant.

The RCMP official said the box apparently was delivered to the farmhouse reportedly owned by Mrs. Harry Crossman, now in Campbellton, N. B., in May, 1953, several months before the girl's abduction. He described it as "quite large," but he said he does not know what it holds.
