Dorothy Dix Says—

Continued from page 2 possible for me to ever have children. Should I tell him? It seems to me the only honorable thing to do.

DISTRACTED

ANSWER: It is the only honorable thing to do. If you tell your man that you cannot have children, it will not necessarily break off your love affair. Many men do not care for children, and it may be that he loves you so much that he prefers you even childless to any other woman.

BUT give him a chance to decide the question himself. DOROTHY DIX cannot reply personally to readers, but will answer problems of general interest through her column.

Ellen's Diary

And the bride's mother too, belonged to our district," we overheard James tell Jeanie" and isn't it strange the way Fate works!" "Yes, it picks out a man here and a maid there. . . marries them. . . "And makes them live happily ever after!" we finished. "Have I been doing, Ellen?" James murmurs. "Snoring!" he brightens, oh, no, that's something I never do — unless I happen to lie on my back, then I might snore just a little!" And now a glance to the clock and the familiar wistful query of those left on guard: "When will they come?" Until tomorrow — — — Diary Good-night.

PEAKES ROAD AND VICINITY

Mrs. Jane Grant who has spent the winter in Boston is expected home in the near future.

Mr. Patrick Clarkin, spent a few days in the city, the guest of his daughter Mrs. Emmett Doucette.

The farmers of this vicinity have almost completed their seeding and report good growth, but the continuous dry weather is causing much concern.

Mr. Anthony Dunn and Ernest Clarkin visited Avondale Sunday the guests of Mr. Dunn's uncle, Dr. John O'Keefe.

A most tragic event occurred on Peakes Road, on Saturday May 27th when fire destroyed the dwelling and barn belonging to Daniel Gant and their four month old baby died by suffocation.

The origin of the fire which started in the kitchen, is unknown. Mr. Grant was some distance away working on his land at the time and Mrs. Grant was outdoors assisting two of the older children to drive some cattle to a nearby field. She was only absent a few minutes and on returning to the house, she noticed flames through the kitchen windows, she frantically rushed to rescue her baby, who was sleeping in a room adjoining the kitchen but was repeatedly driven back by smoke and fire and almost lost her own life in the vain attempt.

Much credit is given Mr. Everett Fisher, a nearby neighbor, who on noticing the fire, rushed to the scene despite great risk and peril to his life, heroically entered the burning building and brought out the baby, but it was then beyond all human aid. Much sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Grant on the death of their infant son, and the loss of all their possessions.

A Country Garden

the Spring to a Summer garden and planting out the Anemula that should have been done some time ago. The dry time has made it more of a task, and these days I am sure the garden is a little too large when it is necessary to push the wheelbarrow a distance of 320 yards with a load of manure and fresh earth to replace the weeds that have grown up in the last year.

The other day when busy at this part of gardening, it was good to take time out to welcome a real good gardener from another Province and as is the custom of all gardeners she came bearing gifts of plants, lovely Primroses for the shady part of the garden, several rare seedlings for the Rock-wall and different miniature Irises suitable for rock gardens, and many of the gardens from her part of the country specialize in this form of gardening; many gifts have come to me through the years from this ardent gardener and it was she who introduced me to the new Delphinium in all of its variety and to the value of membership in the Society; so it was a happy morning we spent together although I might wish that the garden and the gardener had been looking at their best.

June is the month of roses and weddings and this business of wondering about the exact date a certain colored rose will open in all its beauty and fragrance is with me again and it reminds me of this quotation from the Gospel of the Flowers:

"The service of flowers to mankind is almost without limit. They minister joy to those whose hearts are almost bursting with the songs of carefree happiness, and the thrill of anticipated pleasures; they equally minister solace and peace to those whose hearts are breaking with the sob of sorrow and the crushing weight of almost hopeless despair; from the cradle to the grave, in every age and phase of life's short span they lend themselves in making better and happier lives."

dy made and auctioned by Mrs. W. A. Bruce. Mrs. Alex Martin agreed to make a cake to be auctioned at next meeting. Mrs. A. C. Fraser and Mrs. W. A. MacLeod volunteered to serve lunch at next meeting. Tea was served by committee and a social hour enjoyed.
