Second Polio Case In P.E.I.

The second case of poliomyelitis was reported in the Province yesterday by Chief health officer Dr. Burton Howatt.

The victim is a 24 year old male living in the Cove Head area. Dr. Howatt said. The case is said to involve some paralysis in one leg. The other case reported in P.E. Island was last week when a young woman visiting from Montreal became stricken at her parents home in Melville.

The first victim had one shot of Salk vaccine. The second had never received a polio inoculation. Neither therefore could be considered protected from the disease it was explained.

Four New Polio Cases Reported

ST JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Four new cases of polio have been reported in Newfoundland, pushing the known total to 78 and the possible total to 81.

There are prospects of three more cases at Springdale in central Newfoundland. A spokesman for the health department said Wednesday "we have received word that three children at Springdale are suspected of having contracted polio. Telephone communications to Springdale are very bad at this time and we have no details on the suspected cases."

The news cases are a five-year-old boy from St. John's, a child from Baie Verte who was to be airlifted here Wednesday, a three-year-old Windsor boy and a 16-year-old youth from Pacentia. The youth's case was described as mild.

There are 14 patients in iron lungs at the Fever Hospital and another five patients in portable respirators.

U.S. Voting This Year

SYDNEY (CP) — Conservative Premier Robert L. Stanfield said Wednesday a Nova Scotia general election is possible this year if the Liberals "keep saying we are afraid of a general vote."

Views PEI Win

Mr. Hicks said he presumed Mr. Stanfield has taken heart from the Conservative victory in Prince Edward Island where a 24-year Liberal government was ousted by the PCs Sept. 1.

Nuclear Power Station Planned

TORONTO (CP) — James S. Duncanson, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, announced Wednesday Canada's first large nuclear power station will be built on the shore of Lake Huron, nine miles north of Kincardine.

The 2,300-acre site for the $60,000,000 project must still be approved by the Atomic Energy Control Board.

If approval is granted it will be the location for the 268,000-horsepower CANDU (Canadian Deuterium Uranium) nuclear electric generating station.

Atomic Energy of Canada Limited will build the station. A small prototype nuclear station now is under construction by Atomic Energy of Canada, Ontario Hydro and the Canadian General Electric Company Limited.

The site near Kincardine was chosen because "water for cooling purposes is available in large quantities, the bedrock foundation is suitable, highway and rail transportation is nearby, the surrounding district is lightly populated and the site is not too remote from the transmission network of our southern Ontario system," Mr. Duncanson said.

Construction is not likely to begin before 1961, Mr. Duncanson said. The plant is scheduled to begin operations in late 1964 or early 1965.

Alan Jarvis Quits National Gallery

By KEN KELLY Canadian Press Staff Writer OTTAWA (CP) — Alan Jarvis, who breathed new life into the National Gallery, is quitting as director at the end of the month, seven months before his five-year contract runs out.

An outspoken and controversial figure on the Canadian art scene since he assumed the post in 1955, Mr. Jarvis leaves as the gallery is moving to a new home in the new Lorne Building in downtown Ottawa.

In tendering his resignation to Citizenship Minister Fairclough, he said that for some time he had wanted relief from the administrative burdens "in order to concentrate on other areas in the field of Canadian art where I feel there is useful work to be done."

Later, the Society for Art Publications, a non-profit corporation, announced that Mr. Jarvis has been elected chairman and will head a national campaign to co-ordinate and finance new and existing efforts in this field. The society now publishes Canadian Art Magazine and the announcement said it will extend its operations.

The 44-year-old native of Brantford, Ont., hasn't been on the best of terms with the government since the spring of 1958 when his undertaking to buy two art treasures was vetoed by the cabinet.

As controversy swirled across the political scene over the failure to go through with the art deal, Mr. Jarvis kept silent. But he was reported to have offered his resignation then.

The matter reached the Commons earlier this year. Mrs. Fairclough said Mr. Jarvis and gallery directors gave the cabinet wrong information about whether money was available to purchase the paintings involved—a $350,000 Landscape with Christ Appearing to The Apostles by Breughel and a $80,000 Madonna by Lorenzo Monaco.

First Queens Result Stands

There will be no question of a recount in First Queens now, Premier Alex Macdonald said last night. He was referring to the fact that a Wednesday check showed Premier-elect W. R. Shaw to be leading by 27 votes over Crawford Sinclair. A Tuesday night report had the margin cut to seven and the possibility of a recount was entertained.

Edmonton's Mayor Quits

EDMONTON (CP) — William Hawrelak, mayor of Edmonton for eight years, quit his $15,000-a-year job Wednesday after a judicial commission charged him with "gross misconduct" in connection with a land transaction.

The popular 45-year-old chief magistrate submitted his resignation a few moments after the report of Mr. Justice M. M. Porter of Calgary was tabled at a special meeting of city council.

Mr. Hawrelak wiped tears from his eyes as he left the council chamber after denying charges of improper conduct.

The one-man commission was set up by the attorney-general to investigate charges of civic maladministration made by about 500 persons. Hearings lasted 21 days.

MARGIN IS 27

Sheriff John Beaton announced yesterday that Premier-elect Walter R. Shaw (above) obtained a majority of 27 over Crawford Sinclair in First Queens in the September 1 provincial election. First official count released Tuesday indicated that Mr. Shaw was elected with only seven votes to spare. However an error in listing the result of Stanchel poll had deprived the PC leader of an additional 20 votes, Sheriff Beaton said. The Queens Returning Officer stated that complete figures for all Queens polls will be released today.

intermediate-range Thor missiles, capable of ranges up to 1,700 miles.

Atlas by combat-trained air force — This was the first firing of a missile. Thirty previous firings, from Cape Canaveral, Fla., have been conducted by scientists and engineers.

Thomas Power, commander of the Strategic Air Command, said this was a "historical event."

But he added: "Of course, we will have some flying up to do before we can say the Atlas program is ready for any emergency."

THE 35-foot rocket roared straight into the sky at 10:49 a.m. PDT (2:49 p.m. ADT), then veered westward across the Pacific.

Wednesday's shot was not intended as a full-range firing. The Atlas is capable of flights at more than 15,000 miles an hour, 500 miles high, over distances up to 6,300 miles. The target distance was far less than that.

World Medicos Look To Future

MONTREAL (CP) — The general assembly of the World Medical Association Wednesday decided to get up a special committee to investigate the future objects and administrative affairs of the organization.

A British resolution calling on the WMA council to make the study was adopted amid reports of a rift in the 55-nation association.

The association represents medical associations in 55 countries.

Dr. Louis H. Bauer, of New York, secretary-general of the association, said the report that the WMA is dominated by United States members, "every medical association has exactly the same voting power," he said.

The American Medical Association has the same vote as any other, regardless of size.

In a keynote speech Wednesday, Dr. Norman Gosse of Halifax called for a special committee to plan "effective action" by the World Medical Association.

Reds Urge Settlement

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has urged Communist China and India to settle their border row and warned the West not to exploit the quarrel.

The carefully worded appeal, issued Wednesday by the official Soviet news agency Tass, avoided taking sides, but called the border incidents deplorable. Neither of the principals was blamed.

Some Western countries were. The Tass statement charged that "definite political quarters and the press" in Western countries, especially the United States, are trying to whip up a noisy campaign and drive a wedge between India and Communist China.

Three Western reports, Tass charged, are aimed at stirring up tension and "complicating the situation" on the eve of Premier Khrushchev's trip to meet President Eisenhower.

The statement was issued only hours after the New China news agency published the text of a conciliatory note to Nehru from Premier Chou en-Lai of Communist China offering to settle the quarrel through friendly negotiations.

New Quebec Premier Will Be Chosen Today

QUEBEC (CP)—A Union Nationale party caucus has been called for 8 p.m. today. It is the first step in the appointment of a new premier for Quebec.

Party members will be asked to endorse one of their cabinet members—most likely Hon. Paul Sauve, youth and social welfare minister—as their choice to succeed the late Premier Duplessis.

They would then petition Lieutenant-Governor Onesime Gagnon to ask Mr. Sauve to form a new cabinet.

The caucus will be held in the Quebec legislature buildings. Invitations were sent to party members Tuesday in telegrams signed by Colonization Minister J. D. Begin, chief party organizer, and Maurice Bellemare, chief whip.

Booming Northern Markets Seen Incentive To Business

The north is booming, and businessmen of the Maritimes should take every advantage of this fact in order to expand the market for their products," said Dr. Frank MacKinnon, president of the Atlantic Provinces Economic Council, at a meeting of the Prince Edward Island members in the Charlottetown Hotel last night.

Dr. MacKinnon informed the meeting that although it was not generally known, several of the businessmen who have found a market for their products in the north have started that from the past summer's activities they have done extremely well.

He reminded them that the month of November is the time year that tenders are generally called for the supplying of northern bases and that all maritime manufacturers and producers should make every effort to get on the tender list.

Still on the subject of tenders he warned that any firm which is asked to tender should not allow it to just die out. If they are not in a position to submit a tender this time, he suggested that a letter should be sent to the department of defence production starting their position and by doing this the firm will be retained on the tender list and would continue to receive invitations to tender.

TRIPS ARE PROFITABLE

Commenting on the northern trade during the past summer, Dr. MacKinnon said that the shipping company which operates the M.V. Brion, had informed him that after the first two round trips the boat's operation had ended in the black. No figures were available yet on the third trip.

With the apparent success of the first season's operations, Dr. MacKinnon stated that very shortly in all probability there will be a request put forward by both APEC and the shippers for a refrigerated boat, to operate in addition to the one already in service.

He informed the meeting that APEC had also made overtures (Continued on Page Five Col. 1) leader alighted at London Airport, his Russian visit curtailed by Prime Minister Macmillan's announcement of the Oct. 8 general election date, and said he was "delighted" by the news.

Gaitskell Grabs Spotlight In United Kingdom Scrap

The Opposition leader waved his hat, and linked arms with comely Mrs. Barbara Castle, the Labor party chairman, who was there to meet the plane, and Aneurin Bevan, his chief lieutenant and shadow foreign secretary, who accompanied him on the trip to Moscow.

As the photographers clicked their shutters, Gaitskell accepted the challenge thrown down by the prime minister when he called the election.

"I see that Mr. Macmillan has suggested that the main reason for the election is to decide who shall represent this country at a summit conference," he said.

"We believe that our claims to represent Great Britain are very strong."

Gaitskell argued that Macmillan and his Conservative party are recent converts to the idea of summit conferences and strongly resisted the idea when it was first put forward by Labor.

STARTS CAMPAIGNING

The Opposition leader immediately hit the campaign trail with 200 candidates.

36 Polio Cases Admitted Sunday

MONTREAL (CP)—Thirty-six new polio cases were admitted to Montreal hospitals Sunday and Monday, the health department reported today. Three new polio deaths, occurring over the last 48 hours, also were reported.

The new cases raised to 606 the number of cases treated in Montreal hospitals since the beginning of an epidemic seven weeks ago. There have been 38 deaths.

As the closing session of the Trade Union Congress at Blackpool today.

Gaitskell said at the airport he is confident that when the British people reflect on the record of the present government, beginning with Suez, and compare it with Labor's foreign policy, there would be no doubt of the outcome.

Other issues they would be deciding included whether they were really going to introduce a superannuation scheme which abolished poverty in old age and what sort of housing they were going to have.

CONFERS WITH AIDES

Later, at Labor party headquarters, Gaitskell went immediately into conference with Mrs. Castle, Moran Phillips, party secretary, and his other chief aides.

Macmillan, meanwhile, relaxed in the seclusion of his official country mansion, Chequers. He gave the green light for his party's election manifesto to be issued Friday, or, if this is impracticable, by early next week at the latest.

The Liberal party—which may unsettle all polling calculations with its 200 candidates—was being predominantly in Conservative constituencies—also was marshalling its forces.

While all this political activity was going on, stocks on the London exchange surged upward.

It was reported that the combined stock market value of seven of Britain's largest concerns had climbed 250,000,000 in the last two days—reflecting belief in a Conservative win.

Labor has pledged that if returned to power it will bring steel back into public ownership, from which the 1951 Conservative government freed it.

It was announced Wednesday that the Conservative party's annual conference, which was to have been held at Brighton from Oct. 14 to 17, has been cancelled.
