

Where Shall Baby's Dimple Be?

Over the cradle the mother hums,
Softly cooing a lullaby song;
And these were the simple words she sung
All the evening long:
"Chin or chin, or knuckle or knee,
Where shall the baby's dimple be?
When he comes down to the baby's nest?
Where shall the angel's touch remain
When he awakes my baby again?
Still as she bent and sang so low,
A murmur into her music broke,
And she paused to hear, for she could not know
The baby's angel spoke:
"Chin or chin, or knuckle or knee,
Where shall the baby's dimple be?
Where shall my finger fall and rest
When I come down to the baby's nest?
Where shall my finger's touch remain
When I wake your baby again?
Silent the mother sat and dwelt
Long on the sweet delay of choice,
And then by her baby's side she knelt,
And sang with a pleasant voice:
"Not on the limb, O angel dear!
For the charms with its youth will disappear;
Nor on the cheek shall the dimple be,
For the harboring smile will fade and flee;
But touch thou the chin with impress deep,
And my baby the angel's seal shall keep."
—Dr. F. G. Holland.

The average yield of wheat in the United States in 1871 was 11 1/2 bushels per acre; in 1880 it was 13 bushels per acre.

A few years ago it was the fashion to denounce Sir Charles Dilke as a republican and a revolutionist. Now, as Under Foreign Secretary, and Representative of Foreign Affairs in the House of Commons, he is exceptionally popular. The Prince of Wales lately breakfasted with him to meet Gambetta.

The Zulus worship their ancestors, who are supposed to occupy subterranean abodes, occasionally visiting the earth in the form of serpents. They maintain that they were created by a "Great-Great" who sprang from a reed on the brink of a river. Where this river is or what is the nature of the reed they do not profess to know.

An innocent looking young servant girl kept her employer's family in a fright for six months, at Norwich, Conn., by ringing the door-bell and rapping on the windows at unreasonable hours. They were sure that a ghost was about, and it was only after watching for twelve nights that a detective solved the mystery.

The constant occurrence of terrible results from the employment of vitriol as a means of vengeance has induced the authorities of Paris to take steps directed to restricting its sale. Henceforth, by order of the Prefect of Police, no vitriol is to be sold to anyone unprovided either with a physician's prescription, or a permission from a police superintendent.

Senator Bayard, one of the truest and purest men in public life in the United States, gives as his conviction that success does not at all involve disregard of the canons of punctiliously honorable action. He says of the young man who engages in politics that "the discovery of much weakness and unworth may often pain and disappoint him, and he may weary of the work and long for rest; but his hands can be as clean and his soul as white at the end of the journey as when he set out upon it."

The shields of the Emperor of Russia and of the Duke of Bedford have just been placed in St. George's hall, Windsor Castle, and their banners have been fixed over their stalls in St. George's chapel. The insignia and ribbon of the late Czar were brought back from Russia by the Prince of Wales, and they have been deposited in the jewel armoury at Windsor Castle, in the same case that contains the ribbons of Victor Emmanuel, Leopold of Belgium, and the Duke of Wellington, as well as the bullet which killed Nelson, which is enclosed in a piece of glass. Close by is Tippoo's footstool—an enormous tiger's head of pure gold, with crystal teeth and emerald eyes. This was brought from Seringapatam and presented to George III.
