The Wall Flower

A NEW LEAF Chapter 37

The wedding over, Aunt Maude returned to the farm.

"It's a shame you didn't come," she told Dora. "The men could have managed. It was a grand affair, and she looked fine. None of you, pale and fainting brides for her, never saw such color, and all her own."

Dora had a sudden vision of her cousin, with smile of triumph as she had her way at last in the most important event that had happened to her so far.

"I don't know if she'll be happy, though," Morton said so lively and interestingly. Aunt Maude went meditatively. Whatever ideas she had, she always expressed them aloud. The result was that Peter, Gladys, Grandma White, protestingly brought back again to the country—and now Dora, were made the confidants of her innermost thoughts.

"Oh, she'll be happy," Dora answered with the slightest ironical accent upon the "she". "Oh, do you think so?" Aunt Maude was not capable of understanding irony. "Well it's real generous of you to say so."

Dora smiled to herself—the bitter sort of smile that Gladys would be happy—it wasn't generous of her to say that. Would Morton be happy, she wondered? The days still past into weeks. Gladys was still away. Norris City's largest photographer had been called in to take pictures of the bride, the bride groom, the two together—Gladys with not a triumphant smile as Dora thought, but a pleased and self-conscious expression. There was a large picture of the whole wedding party too.

"Her dress look grand," Aunt Maude reflected aloud. "And the flowers too. She made a real bouquet to the city or a real nice bouquet it cost a lot. I expect—the whole wedding and trousseau was something awful in price. But it's only once in a lifetime. I suppose I shouldn't grudge an extra hundred or so."

Certainly she never expected Dora to marry! She gave Dora all the details of the ceremony—who was present and what each wore and the probable cost of each wedding present. Then she took Dora in one day to make the new home ready for the couple the day before they were to get back. There was a way of getting out of this task.

Dora had to go through the house day wedding present sheets on a wedding present bed, unpack and put away the trunks of clothes, that had been sent here, dust, and straighten up everything should be in readiness.

She felt hideously uncomfortable and unhappy, as though she had been forced to look in upon the intimacy of their life together. But Aunt Maude had no such sensitiveness as she unpacked Morton's shirts and clothes and laid them away in bureaus and closets.

"Such bad taste and quality," she observed holding up a striped shirt. "Gladys will change all that."

Dora actually blushed a little—and hurried with the dusting so as to escape her.

Sage Tea Darkens Hair to Any Shade

DON'T STAY GRAY! HERE'S AN OLD-TIME RECIPE THAT ANY BODY CAN APPLY

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grand mother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out of date. Nowadays by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Myer's Sage and Sulphur Compound" you will get this famous old preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

Agents Wanted

We have some first class territory open in King's County for agents for the Wonder Rope Machine.

This machine is something every farmer and fisherman should have. Will pay for itself in one season's work. Makes any size rope, any length, in a few minutes time and at half the cost of imported ropes. Machines can be seen at L. B. Mellish's store at Montague, or at the Gray Dori Show Rooms, Charlottetown. Apply early and get your choice of territory.

to be through and out of the house.

It wasn't the sort of house he should live in, she thought as they drove home. She pictured a tiny home, filled with the dark mahogany and quaint old pieces of the now empty farmhouse. She thought what fun it would be to have broad, eh arms and legs and backs broad, and to rub and rub at the old wood with beeswax and turpentine, until the graining showed and the dark surface glowed from proper care.

It should be the proper home she read about, but had never seen in Norris City—with quaint diamond windows and rosebud patterned chintzes, and old prints and mirrors and mahogany with a library filled to the ceiling with shelves crammed with books. In such a home Morton would be appreciated! Gladys had selected everything as new and ornate as possible, with patterned carpets and patterned curtains, and a great deal of what she called "cheerful" red.

Once to console herself, Dora wrote a letter to Mrs. Gates. Two weeks after week passed without an answer.

"Why should she write?" she argued. "What could I be to her? She has entirely forgotten me, or else she thinks me impertinent to intrude upon her 'C'."

So, as the effect of her neglect and unhappiness she grew more and more constrained. She fancied herself unbearably; homely, hollowness made her cheeks hollow and her skin an unhealthy white. Her hair looked as lifeless as she felt. She was tired most of the time, because she never rested. It was easier to work.

The bride and groom came back and "settled down." Gladys asked Dora to dinner—once. For Morton shook hands and greeted her with "Go but it's good to see you. I've missed you."

Gladys took this as a sign that Morton still liked Dora too much, and was furiously jealous. Dora took it as a friendly greeting and a sign that whatever sentiment he had felt, was gone now, as his own constraint was gone. But she was even more miserable because of it. It was plain that Morton was not exactly happy.

Tomorrow—A suggestion

A BIG MILL FIRE IN YARMOUTH CO.

YARMOUTH, N. S., May 9.—Word has reached Yarmouth of a disastrous fire which occurred at Richfield, a village on the eastern branch of the Tasker River, when the lumber mill known as the French Mills was totally destroyed by fire.

The blaze originated from a pile of burning excelsior, and other waste, a short distance from the saw mill. In some way the fire, probably by embers carried by the strong southwesterly wind, reached the mill and owing to the continued dry weather everything of an inflammable nature proved to be excellent fuel.

Many persons gathered from the surrounding country, but despite their strenuous efforts the large mill together with a good sized barn and several other buildings were completely consumed, while all that remaining of the industry is the cook house and a small out-house.

The dam was also seriously damaged and a quantity of manufactured lumber piled in the mill yard suffered severely. The loss to the owners, Mansons and others, just at this season, is a very serious one.

GIRL THROWS CHILD OUT OF CAR WINDOW

PETERBORO, Ont., May 9.—Police officers searching for the body of an infant child that Beatrice Nichols, a sixteen year old Verulam township girl, is said to have confessed to having thrown out of the window of a C. TWO FLYERS KILLED IN AIR COLLISION

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Lieut. Harold F. Seldon, of this city, and Ensign Miller, of the Bureau of Aeronautics, were drowned in the Potomac River late today, when their naval seaplane was in collision with one piloted by Lieut. Commander C. V. Johnson, in command of the Anacostia naval air station, and his mechanic, C. W. Jacobs. The last two escaped uninjured.

ALKALI IN SHAMPOOS BAD FOR WASHING HAIR

Don't use prepared shampoos of anything else that contains too much alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle. The best thing to use is just plain Mulsett's coconut oil shampoo, for it is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Mulsett's in any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Over Hundred Convicts Break Out in Mutiny

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 10.—A mutiny of 150 convicts in the state penitentiary today was put down after eleven of the mutineers had been wounded by penitentiary guards and city police, two of them being perhaps fatally burned.

An attempt by the convicts to burn the penitentiary chair factory failed.

The outbreak came after the dinner hour. The prisoners were sullen, it is said, because they had been ordered to turn in, what civilian clothing and other articles they had which were not needed by them in prison. Through certain apparent leaders, they defied the authorities, and announced they would not return to work. Aid was asked of city authorities by the telephone.

No effort was made to coerce the prisoners, pending the arrival of reinforcements from the city. In the meantime the mutineers stood in the penitentiary yard armed with sticks and knives, obtained from the chair factory.

Upon the arrival of the detachment of city police, the mob of prisoners surged toward the little group of blue coated officers, snarling threats. A volley from riot guns met them and eleven men were dropped. The remainder broke and tried to run. They were rounded up without further trouble.

Often Had To Be Sent Home From Her Shop

BUT MISS KEWLEY WAS COMPLETELY RELIEVED BY TAKING TANLAC, SHE DECLARES IN PUBLIC STATEMENT

"I took Tanlac because I heard it is good for the rheumatism, but it not only took away my rheumatism but relieved me of other ailments." was the statement of Miss Frances Kewley, 271 Rockland Road, St. John, N. B., a young business woman with T. H. Easterbrook, tea merchants.

"I suffered about five years with acute rheumatism in my back and limbs. Two years ago I had the 'flu' and after that was never well. Sometimes I got so faint I had to be sent home from work. I got so nervous and irritable I simply lost all interest in life. My friends were afraid I was going into a decline. But now I am glad to state that five bottles of Tanlac have completely restored my health. I am sure it is excellent for all cases like mine."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

Simply put two or three teaspoonful of Mulsett's in a cup or glass with a little warm water, then moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle.

Beides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure you get Mulsett's Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

The Toll of Death in Russia

TEN MILLION CHILDREN in Russia are doomed to die in the slow agonies of starvation unless the people of Canada awaken in their generosity, and by gifts of food and money, enable the Save the Children Fund to prevent this horror.

Two boys brought to the Relief Station in Saratoff

The famine in the Volga region is the most appalling in recorded history. Whole populations are exterminated. Children—fatherless and motherless, homeless, with death stalking their steps—wander the highways and byways until they creep into some abandoned hovel to die.

Hundreds of thousands have died from starvation and neglect; but millions can be saved if food is dispatched at once.

Will you give something? Will you save a helpless child from starving to death? What you do give means little to you—yet it means the life of a child!

25c will feed a child for a week. $1.00 will ensure sufficient food for one child for a month. $500 will establish a kitchen and feed 100 children until the next harvest.
