

Dionne Girl Suffering From Pernicious Anemia

CELEBRATE SILVER WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. James Condon, Richmond, were pleasantly surprised on Saturday evening, Nov. 12, when friends and relatives gathered to congratulate them on the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage and to wish them many happy returns of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Condon graciously welcomed their guests to their home and after greetings were exchanged, Mr. Ray Laughlin played the Wedding March while the bride and groom of twenty-five years were being escorted to decorated seats. Mr. Errol Laughlin was appointed chairman and after a brief complimentary speech called on Mr. Edward Laughlin who read an address of congratulation and appreciation. A presentation of electric gifts was made by Mrs. Ray Laughlin, Mrs. Henry Blanchard and Mrs. Harold Matthews. Mr. Condon then fittingly replied, on behalf of his wife and himself, thanking everyone for their kindness and good wishes after which all joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

A beautiful three-tier anniversary cake, made and decorated by Mrs. Ray Laughlin, was cut in the traditional manner and passed around while a delicious lunch was served by the ladies present.

Plano selections by Mrs. Henry Blanchard and vocal music by Messrs. Scotty Pitcairn, Robert LeClair and Urban Laughlin were much enjoyed. The remainder of the evening was pleasantly spent when several tables of auction were in play.

CALLANDER, Ont. CP—Marie Dionne, frailest of the Dionne quintuplets since birth, today was reported in Montreal suffering from pernicious anemia. She left a Quebec convent last Wednesday and travelled to a hospital outside Montreal where two of her sisters are in training as nurses.

But Olivia Dionne, father of the four surviving quintuplets, said here today he knows only that Marie is ill and has been advised by doctors to build up her strength. They suggested a month would be needed to remedy a "run-down condition."

The 21-year-old girl, pale and fragile, left her cloistered convent Wednesday for the second time in 16 months. She was said suffering from fatigue, loss of appetite and loneliness.

Pernicious anemia is a disease which causes diminution of the red blood cells and its main symptom is a loss of appetite.

PARENTS AT HOME

Marie's parents are both at home here and say they have had no word specifying Marie's condition. Her quintuplet sisters Yvonne and Cecile are nurses at the hospital in Montreal's suburban Ville St. Laurent, where Marie is resting.

Mr. Dionne said today he expects word from Cecile either later today or Tuesday with details of Marie's ailment.

He said that if road conditions improve later in the week he and Mrs. Dionne would drive to Montreal to see their daughters.

Nuns at Nicolet, where the other surviving quintuplet, Anette, is studying music, said she has left for Montreal to join her sister.

Marie was out of the convent when Emilie, her quintuplet sister, died in August, 1954.

Visitation To Black Knights

King Hiram R. B. P. No. 936, Royal Black Knights of Ireland consisting of members from Ellerslie, Summerside, Bedeque and Crapaud held their regular November meeting in the Orange lodge room at Summerside on Wednesday evening, the 16th which was largely attended.

The meeting was honored by a visitation of two other Preceptorials: V.I.S. Abegweit of Kingston, No. 905; with members from Cavendish, Bradalbane, DeSable, Rose Valley, Cornwall, Clyde River and Winsloe, and the New Preceptorial No. 1296 recently organized at Coleman, with members from Springfield West, O'Leary, Coleman, and different localities in the Western district.

W.P. Sir Kt. Cyril MacFarlane presided and extended a very hearty welcome to the visiting Sir Knights of the adjoining encampments. After the opening ceremonies he invited Sir Kt. Frank Bell, of Stanley Bridge to take the chair, and the 4th degree of the order was exemplified without rituals in a very impressive manner.

Then Sir Kt. Lorne Seaman took the chair of the presiding officer, and the 5th degree was put on.

The meeting concluded with a number of short addresses, and lunch was served by the members of King Hiram Preceptorial, and a social hour was enjoyed.

Lord's cricket ground in London was founded by Thomas Lord, a Yorkshireman who died in 1832.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

It occurs to me that you are wretchedly overworked by and envious of Maude because she intends you to be — because she grandly plays her cards that way. And that her implicit aim is to crush your self-confidence (if any) right at the start, and thus put down any hopes you might have, of competing with, or equalling, or bypassing her, in the office secretarial set-up.

Perhaps the job was open, when you came along, largely because women can't work with her — or won't, very long, if they have psychological backbone and resurgent self-esteem. Maybe the more competent and attractive they are, the faster they quit the job she supervises.

It seems odd that she, as secretary to the Assistant General Counsel, should be directing your work — when in fact you are secretary to the General Counsel, who is a cut above the Assistant General Counsel, surely.

It is understandable that she might be asked by the office brass to guide you through a training period, so that the General Counsel wouldn't have to bother, trying to teach you the work routine. But it doesn't make organization sense (as I know the business world), for her to supervise your job indefinitely, in an adjoining field.

OVER-IDEALIZES ADVERSARY

Possibly she is an expert string-puller, in an office atmosphere of political intrigue; and maybe she flaunts her family ties and presumed grass roots influence all over the place — so that even her bosses cater to her theories of self-importance. But whatever the inside story, she isn't a model example of cultivated gentleness, I'll wager. Actually she isn't a type that the ingenious aspirant to authentic greatness should copy.

Truly gifted quality folk don't use their endowments like a bludgeon, to crush the creative impetus in co-workers. Thus Maude's overweening display of superior attributes suggests latent fear of being bested by possible team mates. If she qualified comfortably for a top job, she would spontaneously lend a hand in helping others down the line and develop the happy self-confidence that fosters growth of efficiency.

My advice is to take off the binders (or the rose colored glasses) that you are wearing in respect to Maude. Find the real reasons why you fear and dislike her. It is interesting that, by a slip of the pen, you label her your "ad-

Bedeque Men's Ass'n. Hold Ladies' Night

The November supper meeting of the Mens. Association of the Bedeque United Church was held in the church hall on Tue. Nov. 15th with over one hundred in attendance. The president Wilfred Craig presided. Grace was asked by Rev. G. A. Cooper-Smith.

As this was ladies night the men under the supervision of a capable committee served a hot turkey dinner with all the fixings. The waiters were dressed appropriate for the occasion, and performed their duties in a very pleasing manner.

It was decided to have the closing meeting of the year on the 2nd Tuesday in December.

The program consisted of: "A Quartette by Messrs: Allan Wedlock, Herbert Schurman, Willard Hoag, and Lloyd Ellis, of Summerside; T. J. Inman introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Mr. Archie Johnson, of Long River, who gave a very interesting account of his recent trip to Europe, illustrated by a great many beautiful slides of historic buildings and picturesque farm lands of the British Isles.

The wives of all those taking part in the program were guests of the evening.

The thanks of the gathering was extended to the Quartette by Harrison MacFarlane; to the guest speaker by W. J. Reid and to the committee and waiters in charge of the dinner by Mrs. Charles MacFarlane with a very original poem of her own composing.

Meeting closed with Mizpah Benediction. H.
