REMEMBER PLEASE!

The demand for the Scriptures was never greater than now. The cost of production have more than doubled since 1939. A dollar does not do the work it used to do. The income of the Bible Society must be adjusted to these conditions. So... If more could give a little. And all could give a little more... It can be done! Share in this great work by making a contribution to the Prince Edward Island Auxiliary Bible Society, with its Bible Home at 10 Fitzroy Street, Charlottetown.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear Son and Brother EVERETT CLOW of Pleasant Grove, who died June 9th, 1952.

So often our thoughts do wander To a grave not far away, Where we laid our loving Everett Just three years ago today. We missed you sadly every day Along life's weary way, And life has never been the same Since you were called away. Sadly Missed and Always Remembered by Mother, Father and Brother Raymond.

In loving memory of our dear Brother EVERETT CLOW, of Pleasant Grove, who died June 9th, 1952.

Dearest Everett, how we miss you As it dawns another year, In life's family album Is a picture we hold most dear. 'Tis a picture of you dear Everett, Who was always so good and just And when life's journey is over, We know you will be waiting for us. Sadly Missed and Always Remembered by Sister Aeltha, Brother-in-law Henry and Nephew Allan.

In loving memory of Carl MacKenzie, who departed this life June 11th, 1947.

In silent thoughts and hidden tears, Memories linger through the years. Lovingly Remembered by Father, Mother, Brothers and Sister.

In loving memory of our dear Husband and Father, GUSSIE D. SHAW who passed away June 12th, 1954.

The rolling stream of life goes on, But still the empty chair is there. Reminded us of the face of one Who once sat there. God saw the road was getting rough, And the hills were hard to climb, So he closed his weary eyelids, And whispered Peace be thine. Always Remembered by Wife and Sons Wilfred and Kenneth.

In loving memory of Gussie D. Shaw, Canoe Cove, who passed away June 12th, 1954.

One year has passed since that day, The one we loved was called away. We loved him then, we love him still, Forget him no, we never will. In our hearts your memory lingers Sweetly, tender, fond and true, There is not a day dear Father That we do not think of you. Sadly Missed by Willie, Jean and Family.

In loving memory of my Dad, Mr. Prosper Bernard, Borden, P. E. I., who died June 11th, 1944.

Thoughts for Our Time

By His Eminence Cardinal McGuigan (Copyright)

SENSITIVITY OFTEN SIGN OF UNCHRISTIAN PRIDE. Sensitivity, in the ordinary sense of the word, is an undesirable personality trait. Psychologically it may, perhaps, be explained in terms of the inferiority complex. Morally it is a form of pride. It results from an undue estimation of self, with an accompanying fear that others may not estimate us according to our supposed worth. As a form of pride, it must not have place in the life of the Christian. In the Christian life there is room for no vice, even one seemingly slight.

Sensitivity, in another understanding of the word, is a desirable personality trait. Psychologically it may, perhaps, be explained in terms of the inferiority complex. Morally it is a form of charity. It results from a due estimation of the other, with an accompanying concern lest we should not estimate him according to his true worth. As a practical manifestation of charity it should have place in the life of every Christian. No virtue is foreign to the life of the Christian.

This latter understanding of the word sensitivity might be designated as active sensitivity, in opposition to the former understanding which might be designated as passive sensitivity. Passive sensitivity is self-centered, undesirable as a personality trait—indicating as it does a lack of real maturity — and mildly vicious. Active sensitivity is desirable as a personality trait—indicating a real maturity, and virtuous.

The 'Helping' Kind. This active sensitivity forces and prevents, in the literal sense of the word, the likes and dislikes of the other. Whatever is foreseen as likely to inflict needless hurt, or discomfort, or in the other is avoided. Whatever is foreseen as likely to help, please or sustain the other is undertaken. Whatever threatens the security, or well-being of the other, is, if possible, prevented. His needs, if foreseen, are anticipated, and prevented, in the literal sense of the word, before they become actual needs for him, if this is possible.

Active sensitivity has very deep roots. It is founded on the effective conviction that the other of our association is a person, with susceptibility to pleasure or pain, capable of love or hate, responsive to warmth or coldness of affection just as we. It is implicitly recognized and provided for in the words of Jesus Christ: "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you."

The effective conviction, simple as it may seem, becomes operative only in the lives of the psychologically and morally mature. Children and young people are notoriously unaware of how their actions affect the other. The Moral Immaturity. The maturity of which there is question here is not necessarily correlative to chronological age. Some, even the mature in years, never attain to this other consciousness which characterizes psychological and moral maturity. Such persons are sensitive to the extreme in the passive sense, insensitive to the extreme in the active sense. They expect the others to do unto them as they have no intention of doing to the others. This manifests both psychological and moral immaturity.

Active sensitivity should manifest itself in a certain graciousness and true charm in the possessor. It is not subservient, weak, or face-serving. It is manly, or ladylike, as the case may be, strong, sincere. It is founded on principles more elevated than the mere winning of friends and influencing of people. It is noble, constant, characteristic of human nature at its best.

Genuinely Courteous. Practically it results in a genuine respect for elders, consideration for the weak, affection for the young, the helplessness of the handicapped. It motivates the aiding of the aged or infirm to accomplish crossings of busy street-intersections, the relinquishing of a justly held seat on train, subway, streetcar, or bus to a lady or to an elderly person, the sharing of abundance with the needy, the encouragement of the young and the weak in their efforts to maintain themselves in an aggressive world. It never allows its possessor to crash ticket queues, to sound horns needlessly in traffic, to litter streets, parks, or playgrounds. It foresees the needs of those who share the same table with us. It is patient of uninteresting conversations, ready to share an unrelieved or undesired recreation with the other, for his sake. In short it is productive of a genuine courtesy.

Much could be done to make this world a more pleasant place in which we live if each of us were actively sensitive to the effect, good or ill, that our actions, even the slight and seemingly unimportant, have on the other person. We shall be so when we begin to take seriously Christ's words: "Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself... Do unto others as thou wouldst have others do unto you."

WILL JOIN CONFERENCE

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Council of Churches has agreed to take part in a North American conference on Christian unity, tentatively set for September 1957. The council's general board voted Thursday to co-sponsor the plan proposed by the United States conference of the World Council of Churches. The Canadian Council of Churches also is to be invited to join in the unity sessions.

DISCUSS DEFENCE SOON. OTTAWA (CP) — Defence estimates may come before the Commons next week, Defence Minister Campney Friday informed Opposition Leader Drew. However, no definite time had yet been set.
