

British Force Not Slated For Viet Nam

LONDON (AP)—Britain does not intend to send troops to join American forces in Viet Nam, Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart told the House of Commons. Stewart had been asked by Lady Tweedsmuir, a Conservative member of Parliament, whether the U.S. government had asked Britain to send troops to Viet Nam. He did not answer directly but said: "It is not our intention to do so, in view of our position as co-chairman (of the Geneva conference)." Britain and the Soviet Union are co-chairmen of the Geneva conference which divided North and South Viet Nam. From this position the British have tried without success to get peace talks started. Reports have been published here that the U.S. would like Britain to transfer some of its troops from Malaysia to Viet Nam when and if the Malaysians no longer need them for protection against Indonesian. These reports have not been confirmed officially.

Castro Saves Four Cubans

HAVANA (Reuters)—Premier Fidel Castro Tuesday personally saved from the firing squad four Cubans, two former top-ranking army officers, accused of plotting his assassination. The whole court, including the defendants and public, rose to their feet, clapped and cheered for fully two minutes as the prosecutor read the premier's letter.
